Short-Term Road Bonds May Be Sought By Exon

By United Press International

The Exon administration may ask the 1973 Unicameral to authorize the use of short-term bonds to keep Nebraska's road program rolling should it be stalled at the federal level, it was learned Wednesday.

Gov. J. J. Nxon said in an interview no final decision has been made on seeking the authorization, but conceded it is a topic of conversation between him and State engineer Thomas Doyle.

The governor also said that despite probable claims to the contrary, the move would not represent an about-face on the bond issue question

"We've always been willing to consider the use of bonds," Exon said, but not unless they were found to be absolutely necessary.

The Exon administration has been tagged as being anti-bond under any circumstances, especially after it refused to exercise a $10 million issue authority which was carried over from the previous administration.

"We've always felt the time may come when it would become apparent how necessary it is to have the bond option open as a management tool," Doyle said. "And the situation we're facing now may very well force the issue."

The situation Nebraska and all other states are in centers on the failure by Congress to enact a road bill this year.

However, said Doyle, unlike at least some other states Nebraska "is not in a critical situation" and won't be until near the end of the current fiscal year next June 30.

Nebraska still has slightly over $19 million remaining from its allotment of $29 9 million in federal highway funds for the current fiscal year

The hangup at the congressional level is a House-Senate division over the use of highway trust funds for mass transit purposes and Doyle said that issue could block immediate action when Congress goes into session in January.

Thus if no early action is taken, he said and Exon agreed, the logical move would be to seek a safety valve in the form of a short-term bond authorization to carry the state through until action has been finalized at the federal level.

In the meantime, Doyle said, "We are proceeding on the assumption that whatever does come out of Congress will provide funding close to our present levels."

"But we willingly concede our planning is very much a matter of conjecture on our part," he said, adding that related efforts to pull to the top of the deck a possible ace in the hole would continue.

That action centers on efforts to get the administration to free the approximate $19 million balance which has been building up in the highway trust fund in Nebraska's name for the past few years.

The freeing of that cash for obligation by the state would probably take care of any situation arising from a lack of speedy congressional action next year on a road bill, Doyle said.

Exon said, however, he and Doyle may ultimately decide to seek some kind of standing authorization for bond use anyway in case a similar situation should ever arise again.

24-Inch Snowfall Buries Mullen

Mullen, located in Nebraska's Sandhills, was literally buried late Wednesday under 24 inches of snow.

Hard blowing, drifting snow also struck other areas of western and central Nebraska during the night. Snow began falling in the west Tuesday, while freezing drizzle and rain was the order of the day elsewhere in the state.

The giant snowfall at Mullen completely clogged the area, blocking all roads, according to Hooker County Sheriff Henry Capellen.

"Everything is closed," he told The Star about 10 p.m. CST. "It's still snowing real hard and is starting to drift."

The bulk of the snow came between 5 and 10 p.m., Sheriff Capellen reported.

At Valentine the storm was described as of blizzard proportions. Up to six inches of blowing and drifting snow had fallen by late Wednesday.

A number of highways in the storm area were reported closed Wednesday night including Nebraska 97 south of Mullen, U.S. 26 between Lewellen and Ogallala, Nebraska 27 south of Oshkosh, U.S. 30 from Sunol to Chappell, and Nebraska 92 at Lake McConaughy.

Travel was difficult on other roads in the storm area due to drifting and blowing snow and ice.

The Thomas County sheriff's office at Thedford reported eight inches of snow on the ground and most roads impassable in the area from blowing and drifting snow.

Imperial and Sidney reported nine inches of snowfall, while Ainsworth, Alliance and Scottsbluff received eight inches There was three inches on the ground at North Platte.

In the central part of the state there was freezing drizzle, while intermittent light rain, drizzle and fog covered the eastern area.

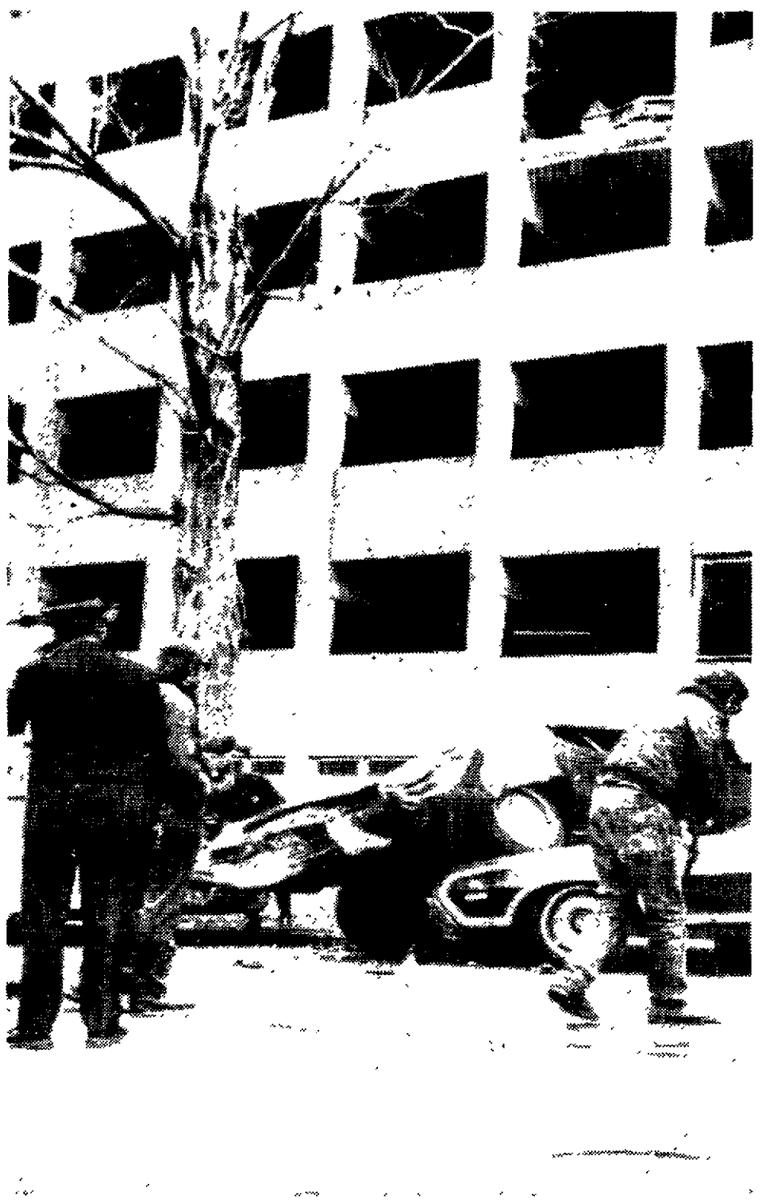

In the Scottsbluff-Gering area of western Nebraska a number of schools were closed as early as 10 a.m. Wednesday to allow buses to return students to their homes before roads became hazardous.

Snow continued to blanket the area but street removal operations in Gering were brought to a standstill because of heavy automobile traffic. Officials said streets in that community would be cleared by crews early Thursday.

Scotts Bluff County road crews worked throughout Wednesday to keep the snow, which was being whipped by northerly winds, from piling on the roads. Crews began sanding and salting Wednesday night. They also began work on clearing the county airport in time to land a 6:45 a.m. flight Thursday. The airport had been closed Wednesday.

Scottsbluff City crews began working Wednesday night to clear streets and haul snow away from intersections where it had been piled during the day.

The silky white stuff caused some problems for travelers outside the urban areas as one snowplow and some ten cars slid off the slippery roadways south of Gering along U.S. 71.

PARKING EFFORT FAILS

This car somehow failed to get out of its fifth floor parking area in the right direction and took a short, fast and destructive trip to the ground floor. Police and a tow truck operator look over the wrecked car that plunged from the Hartford (Conn.) Hospital Parking Garage and fell onto two autos parked in the street below. The three persons in the car during its frightening flight were all taken to Hartford Hospital across the street, where they were treated and released. The car broke through a retaining wall.

America Urged To Dismiss Him

. . . Chou En-lai Pessimistic

By United Press International

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong Wednesday rejected conditions for peace set forth by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and charged he wanted the war to continue. At the same time, the Communist side urged the United States to dismiss Thieu

In Peking, Premier Chou En-lai took a pessimistic view of cease-fire hopes and blamed the United States in part for Thieu's reluctance to go along with the nine-point peace accord that would put a stop to the shooting in Indochina.

Asked if he felt the Americans were responsible for Theiu's position, Chou said, "It seems to a certain extent that this is so."

He also said progress toward the ceast-fire was not good and that Thieu was "raising a great hue and cry in Saigon."

Hanoi also accused the Nixon administration of a "deceitful attitude" in failing to sign a peace agreement Tuesday and warned that any attempt by the United States to alter the text of the peace accord would end chances for any cease-fire in Vietnam.

Thieu Obstinate

The two Vietnamese Communist groups, in separate statements issued in Paris, accused Thieu of blocking peace by sticking to his demands that the North Vietnamese pull their invasion troops out of the south, and drop their demands for a three-part coalition government in Saigon with Viet Cong participation.

Thieu said in a National Day speech he wanted peace but would never accept a solution "that offers South Vietnam on a plate to the Communists."

At a National Day rally in Paris, a Saigon peace delegation spokesman, Nguyen Xuan Phong, called on the Communists to negotiate directly with the Saigon government if they want to end the war quickly and find a "satisfying solution" to the South Vietnamese political problem.

Western diplomatic sources in Paris said the United State's seeking to meet one of Thieu's objections, was pressing Hanoi hard to pull its 14 army divisions out of South Vietnam.

They said the Hanoi troops' presence in the South — something North Vietnam refuses consistently to admit — is now one of the main roadblocks holding up a formal cease-fire agreement.

U.S. Still Waiting

Meanwhile, the Paris sources said, the United States still is waiting for North Vietnam to accept a final secret meeting with President Nixon's national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, to wrap up details of a cease-fire settlement.

Hanoi's chief negotiator Xuan Thuy said Wednesday the problem was the "seriousness" of the United States in negotiating a settlement.

In an exclusive interview with NBC News correspondent Lloyd Dobbins in Paris, Thuy also said: "The question (of settlement) is not on minor or major points, but the seriousness. If each time it is agreed upon and then is changed again, how can the agreement be concluded and the war ended? We have shown our maximum flexibility, concessions and good will."

Two Meet

Kissinger met with Nixon for an hour at the White House Wednesday but spokesmen had no comment except to reiterate the President's determination not to be "stampeded" into signing the cease-fire accord.

In Paris, Ly Van Sau, spokesman for the Viet Cong's delegation to the Vietnam peace talks, said Thieu was "an enraged puppet."

Hanoi delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said Thieu's national holiday address to the Vietnamese people shows that "he is obstinately opposed to the most profound aspiration of the whole Vietnamese people — peace."

Increased Hit-And-Run Cooperation Sought

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's new voluntary program aimed at increasing the clearance rate of hit-and-run accidents shows promise, but could be more effective if it was mandatory, according to police officials.

The program, instituted about 10 weeks ago, has resulted in the clearing of five hit-and-run accidents which would not have been cleared otherwise, according to hit-and-run officer Martin Roach. He said the autos involved sustained damage valued at a total of $1,500.

Under the program's present operating procedures, police, with the auto owner's permission, place a "damaged auto release sticker" in the windshield of any vehicle involved in any accident of which police are notified

Theoretically this would mean it would be more probable that damaged vehicles without stickers would be hit-and-run vehicles.

Police may stop motorists driving a damaged car without one of the sticker's in the windshield.

However, according to Roach, the factor determining the success of the program on its present voluntary basis is the cooperation of the body shops in informing police of cars brought in for repairs without the sticker.

So far, he said police have received the cooperation of 16 of Lincoln's approximately 40 body shops. Roach said he is "not satisfied" with this degree of cooperation.

"We need total cooperation in order to make the program really work," Roach said. He added that he did not believe he would get it on a voluntary basis.

Capt. Bob Myer said that for the program to be really effective it should be statewide. He said that if the program were enforced only by a city ordinance a motorist would only have to take his damaged, stickerless car out of the city to avoid detection.

Myer said that the Nebraska Peace Officers Association might seek legislation making cooperation mandatory, but if they do not, he said, representatives of Lincoln's traffic department would push for the law.

If it were mandatory that all cars damaged in accidents had to bear the sticker and that body shops asked to repair cars without stickers had to notify police, Roach said, the clearance rate of hit-and-run accidents could be increased by about 25%.

Police now are clearing the cases at about 52%, Roach said.

To date this year, over 850 hit-and-run accidents have been reported. For 1971 the total was 1,271 and for 1970, the total was 1,032.

A similar program was instituted in a three-county area around Montgomery, Ala. in 1969, and the clearance rate was increased to 84%. In 1968 the clearance rate was 58%.

Accidents Claim Three On Nebraska Highways

By The Associated Press

Two persons were killed early Wednesday in a collision on an icy highway overpass just south of Gothenburg, and another person died on Bayard's main street.

The State Patrol said the victims were 16 year-old Pamela S. Armagost of Cozad and Robert Strickland, 21, of Gothenburg.

Trooper Marlin Kuxhausen said the victims were passengers in a car driven by 19-year-old Irene Harvey of Cozad, which was northbound on Highway 47.

Kuxhausen said the car went out of control on the icy highway on the Interstate 80 overpass and slid broadside into a vehicle driven by Ralph G. Widick, 34, of Farnam.

Miss Harvey and Widick were hospitalized in undetermined condition at Gothenburg.

George Yigbrett, 47, a Bayard City Councilman, was killed late Wednesday afternoon when he apparently lost control of his car which struck a light pole on Bayard's Main Street.

Acceptance Of Limited Drug Use Suggested

Washington (AP) — An extensive study of federal drug abuse prevention programs concludes that "overt preaching and scare tactics" have not worked, and suggests official acceptance of limited drug use.

The government is "more likely to yield long-range positive results," the report says, by dropping its "failure-ridden quest for a youthful society free from drug use—a proposed idyllic island awash in a sea of alchohol, nicotine and legally prescribed drug taking."

The three-volume study, compiled over a year by Macro Systems Inc. under a $300,000 federal grant, has been kept under wraps since June.

A spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the study is "being critiqued" within the department, and no approval or rejection of the findings is expected before mid-November.

Of the $380 million spent last year on federal drug programs by 15 agencies, the report said, HEW spent $155 million, including more than $26 million for drug education.

But the "crisis atmosphere' surrounding prevention programs, it said, resulted in "diffused objectives and goals, overlapping and duplication of effort, lack of consistent and long-range planning, and difficulty in assessing program effectiveness.

"In place of prevention as a reachable goal, drug use on the part of youth could be accepted-especially marijuana use," the report said.

But it warns that a "radical change of policy" in a presidential election year "is sure to bring about powerful opposition unwilling to enrage what it perceives as its constituency," especially what it called a "significant and well-entrenched adult population" opposed to illegal drug use.

In addition, the report said, acceptance of limited drug use may create unemployment in certain circles." Among those with a "vested interest in continuing existing programs," it said, are various private and governmental drug prevention officials including planners, directors, staff, counselors, group leaders and clergy.

Despite these opponents, the report said, "it seems clear" that dropping prevention goals "is becoming more feasible as time goes on."

"A major finding supporting the adoption of this option relates to the fact that illegal drug use is endemic among the youth populat on and that use of alcohol, tobacco and mood-altering drugs on the part of adults is also widespread," the report said. "From a pragmatic point of view, a strong argument can be made stating that it is not within the capability of HEW or other drug education sources to reverse this tide."

Half Used Drugs

About half the youth surveyed for the report confirmed that they used drugs, mostly in the form of marijuana, and they seemed to know more about drugs than the adults trying to discourage them.

"Should reason alone prevail," the report said, "it might be more appropriate for drug-knowledgeable youths to be educating ill-informed and fearful adults rather than the reverse."

"The use of drugs on the part of youth seems to be woven into their total life style, and appears to be intimately related to the adolescent development process," the report said.

"In a drug-taking society many youths choose drugs, especially marijuana rather than the adult accepted and widely used alcohol," the report said. "It does not seem likely that efforts to stop this kind of 'social' or 'light' drug use will meet with significnt success."

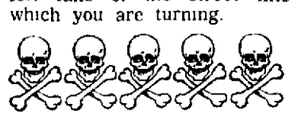

"Telling youth not to smoke marijuana because it is illegal calls the law into question—not marijuana," the report said, and is especially fruitless when the drug has not been proven dangerous or unhealthy.

Cambodia Reported Optimistic After Briefing

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Foreign Minister Long Boret of Cambodia said Wednesday he was "optimistic" about the future of his country after receiving a detailed briefing from Secretary of State Rogers on the current diplomatic efforts to settle the Indochina war. Administration officials said a key element in his discussion with Rogers concerned American efforts to halt the fighting in Cambodia and Laos as well as Vietnam. (Another story on Page 1.)

Ezra Pound Succumbs

New York — Ezra Pound, the controversial American-born poet who had a deep influence on writers and poets, died at the age of 87 in Venice. (More on Page 18.)

Minh Airs Opposition

Saigon — Gen. Duong Van Minh, the principal rallying point of South Vietnamese opposition to President Nguyen Van Thieu, declared in Saigon that he disagreed with the cease-fire plan drafted by the United States and North Vietnam. He said, "as a military man I am not for cease-fire in place; who could police all those little spots?"

Supporters To Be Named

Washington — After resisting for months efforts to persuade them to disclose voluntarily the names of donors, President Nixon's principal election finance committees agreed under court and political pressure to make public before election day the names of some of the contributors to a campaign fund of more than $10 million.

94.5 Million Voters

Washington — More than 94.5 million Americans — an increase of some 13 million since 1968—are registered to vote on election day, according to an analysis of preliminary registration figures by the New York Times. The study finds that the proportion of registered adults is almost certain to surpass that in 1968, when 68.1% of the voting age population was registered. (More on Page 23.)

Viet Cong Are Irritated

Paris — American sources in close touch with the Viet Cong's delegation in Paris said that the Viet Cong were irritated and unhappy with North Vietnam for having dropped three of its crucial demands in reaching a cease-fire agreement with the United States.

Nixon Brags About City Aid; Foe Says Demos Provided It

By United Press International

While a hoarse-voiced George S McGovern bid for the Jewish vote in New York City's garment district Wednesday, President Nixon extolled his record of aid to the cities in a radio address from the White House.

McGovern, in a reply issued in Washington, called Nixon's speech "a misleading concoction of bromides, half-truths and just plain puffery" that ignored the substantial urban support provided by a Democratic Congress.

With six days remaining before election day, the White House disclosed that Nixon would visit six states beginning Friday, including four in which he apparently hopes to help elect Republican senators in close races. The four are North Carolina, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Rhode Island.

World News

But Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, former Republican national chairman, said in Spokane, Wash., it was "doubtful" the GOP could gain control of either the House or Senate next Tuesday. He discounted the "coattail effect" of a winning presidential candidate, saying today's voter was much more independent than in previous years.

On Vietnam-related issues, McGovern said he stood firm in refusing to continue military assistance to the Saigon government after a peace settlement.

"We didn't offer any aid to Hitler and didn't offer any aid to the Tojo government in Japan," after World War II, McGovern said on television.

The White House denied a McGovern charge that Nixon had changed his position and hardened his attitude on granting amnesty once the war is over. McGovern quoted Nixon as saying last March that he would be "very liberal with regard to amnesty."

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon "has never changed his position" and that he "feels very strongly that draft dodgers and deserters should pay a penalty."

RUBBER DUCK REPLACED

The press corps accompanying vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver through much of the campaign carried around a toy rubber duck, for no particular reason, except that reporters grew fond of it. But then in Stockton, Calif., someone stole the duck. The reporters replaced it with a live duck and en route to Portland, Ore., introduced it to the candidate.

Russian Jew Reunited With American Wife

Vienna (UPI) — Gabriel Shapiro, a Russian Jew put under house arrest in Moscow shortly after his marriage to an American woman, was reunited with his wife in the West Wednesday for the first time since their wedding in June.

"This is to me a birthday — my first day in the West. I am on my way to Israel," the six-foot Russian said as he hugged his wife, Judy, of Cincinnati. "He's here, I can't believe he's here," whooped his wife.

Mrs. Shapiro, 26, spent the day nervously sipping coffee and munching sandwiches at Vienna Airport. Her husband's Soviet airlines plane was delayed seven hours because of bad weather in Moscow.

The couple married in a private Jewish ceremony in Moscow June 8. Mrs. Shapiro's visa ran out four days later and she returned to the United States.

A few minutes after his wife left, Shapiro was arrested and later sentenced to a year of corrective labor for evasion of military training. He was put under house arrest.

"When I received a card from the Visas Department telling me I could emigrate it was like a miracle of God," said Shapiro as he rode to a city-center hotel in a U.S. Embassy car. "It was public opinion that got my husband his freedom," Mrs. Shapiro said.

Shapiro said he wanted to leave for Israel as soon as possible.

Addition Won

New York (UPI) — Martin Marietta Corp. has won a $22.0 million addition to an Army contract for continued operation of the Milan, Tenn., ammunition plant.

Chopper Shot Down; 22 Americans Killed

Saigon (AP) — As the pace of the Indochina war quickened in anticipation of a cease-fire, 22 Americans were killed in the crash of a U.S. helicopter into a flooded Mekong Delta rice paddy, field reports said Wednesday.

The U.S. Command reported nine bodies had been recovered from the wreckage at dusk, more than 24 hours after the twin-rotor CH47 Chinook went down Tuesday about 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

Officers in the field said they believed the helicopter was shot down, possibly by a Soviet-built Strela. This is a hand-fired guided missile recently introduced in Vietnam. The cause of the crash was officially listed as unknown and under investigation.

The Chinook was on a courier mission between Saigon and the delta city of Can Tho, 80 miles to the southwest. Field reports said most of those aboard were American military personnel, although a few may have been civilian employes of U.S. contract firms.

Such a run isn't normally considered dangerous, but there has been heavy fighting recently in the region where the crash occurred.

Both North and South Vietnamese forces intensified efforts to take and hold territory should an in-place cease-fire be announced. The Saigon command reported more than 100 enemy attacks across South Vietnam for the seventh straight day.

At Tan Phu Trung, a hamlet on Highway 1, 12 miles northwest of Saigon, government reinforcements claimed they shattered an enemy battalion that has been ordered to take and hold the town as a Viet Cong showpiece. It is almost within shelling range of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

After the North Vietnamese took the hamlet three days ago, field reports said, the South Vietnamese commander for the Saigon region dispatched airborne rangers and armored cavalry to grab it back. The government troops, ordered to attack without heavy-weapons support in order to save the hamlet from destruction, killed the enemy battalion commander, his deputy and the battalion political officer in a night assault, the reports said.

The town was back under South Vietnamese control Wednesday. Officers said 120 enemy had been killed with government losses of four killed and 25 wounded. Only five houses were damaged.

Hell's Angels Trio Accused Of Murders

Ukiah, Calif (UPI) — While deputies dug for more possible bodies, three Hell's Angels were arrested Wednesday on charges of murdering two men and a woman unearthed from the motorcycle gang's "burying grounds" on a remote Northern California ranch.

"More arrests are pending," announced Sheriff's Capt. Henry Derum in Contra Costa County a San Francisco suburban area where the original tip about the graveyard was received from an informer last month.

The bodies buried as long as 18 months ago, were pulled from abandoned wells on a ranch purchased for $40,000 in cash put up by the Hell's Angels. The identities of the victims were not disclosed.

The arrested men were identified as William Mars Zorro" Mitten, 23 of Alameda, Edward "Junior" Carter, 24, and Chester M. Festus Green, 29, both of Richmond.

Peace Activists To Visit Hanoi

New Yrok (UPI) — A group of American peact activists left Wednesday night for Hanoi "to clarify," said their spokesman, "the question raging whether or not a peace settlement is about to be signed."

Their mission originally intended in part to deal with the release of prisoners of war, apparently was made uncertain by the delay in concluding a peace agreement.

"Peace is in doubt in Vietnam," said Tom Hayden of the Indo China Peace Campaign as he boarded a Scandinavian jet at Kennedy Airport on the first leg to Hanoi. He said the announcement of impending agreement by presidential aide Henry Kissinger "is a hoax of hoaxes."

Those going with Hayden were:

—David Hunter, deputy general secretary of the National Council of Churches.

—Susan Miller, director of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship and representative of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice.

—Howard Zinn, professor of political science at Boston University.

Carolyn Mugar of the Indo China Peace Campaign.

Taking a later Aeroflot flight were:

Jan Austin of the Asia Information Group.

—Fred Branfman director of Project Air War.

GOP Agrees To List Some Contributors

Washington (UPI) —President Nixon's re-election committee agreed in court Wednesday to release some of the names of contributors to the secret $10 million campaign fund which allegedly helped finance the Watergate bugging episode.

The Republicans agreed to make public a partial list of contributors to the fund just as trial was about to begin in a lawsuit filed by Common Cause, the "Citizens' Lobby."

Common Cause said it would continue — after election day — to press the lawsuit in an attempt to win disclosure of the complete list of names. Sen. George S. McGovern has made public the names of all of his contributors.

Human Error Pondered As Crash Cause

Chicago (UPI) — The chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday "human error is a very probable cause" of the Chicago commuter train collision which killed 44 persons and injured more than 320.

John H. Reed told a news conference, however, that federal investigators have not eliminated the possibility that a mechanical fault was to blame.

Reed said his investigators were looking for James A. Watts, 51, the engineer of the lead train involved in Monday's crash, and had been unable to find him since one investigater had a "cursory discussion" with him at the scene of the disaster.

He said Robert Cavanaugh, engineer of the second train who was trapped in the wreckage for several hours, still had not recovered sufficiently to be questioned.

Reed said wheels of the second train "showed signs of hard braking."

Finger Pointing

Bury, England (AP) — Some said the market place statue of Sir Robert Peel should be moved because the founder of London's police force was pointing a finger at the men's comfort station. The umbrage of older citizens, who observed that the bronze Bobby had been pointing in the same direction for 120 years, put a stop to such nonsense.

Idaho Company Wins Federal Building Pact

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Morrison-Knudsen Co. of Boise, Idaho, won a $14,850,000 contract Wednesday for construction of a new federal building and parking ramp in Lincoln.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis and First District Rep. Charles Thone of Lincoln made the announcement after bids were opened in General Services Administration (GSA) offices in New York City and Kansas City.

The five-story building will occupy the square block north of O Street between 15th & 16th, and the two-story parking ramp will cover the square block across the street south of O.

Under Estimate

Earlier, GSA estimated the construction cost at $18 million, Thone said. The more than $3 million undercut makes it "a terrific bid and we should get good fast construction," he said, "since Morrison-Knudsen is one of the largest general contractors in the world."

Salomon Brothers of New York City submitted the low bid of 7.25% to provide funds for the project. The investment securities house will loan the federal govtrnment $25.1 milion to be repaid over a 30-year period.

That total represents estimated construction costs, property costs, fees for architects, engineers and financial consultants, and taxes.

Ceremonies Set

Ground-breaking ceremonies, open to the public, are scheduled 10 a.m. Thursday at the site, unless weather forces the event across the street inside the Elks Lodge. Arthur Sampson, GSA acting administrator, will attend.

Construction is expected to begin sometime in November, with demolition of the structures now remaining on the two blocks.

The federal government is letting contracts this week for five federal buildings on lease-purchased construction. Funds for the projects may be transferred from one of the five to another, reducing total borrowing if a smaller total is required.

Will Pay Taxes

Salomon Brothers will hold title to the federal building and parking ramp and to the land under them. The firm will pay local property taxes during the payoff period, ending in the year 2002, according to Bill Palmer, Thone's executive assistant.

Completion of the new building, Thone said, will end rental payments of more than $500,000 by the federal government for private space now occupied in Lincoln.

Morrison-Knudsen's contract, Thone said, requires completion of the building and parking ramp in 690 days — by June 1974.

Must Pay Losses

If Morrison-Knudsen fails to comolete the contract within the year-and-seven-month period and delays are not caused by weather or construction change orders, the contractor must pay the government's actual dollar losses caused by inavailability of the two new buildings.

GSA awarded Morrison-Knudsen and Salomon Brothers the contracts from separate bids on construction and financing. In addition, the GSA took package bids, combining the two contracts.

Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln was low bidder for the combination package.

First OK'd In '65

Lincoln civic leaders have bten pressing for construction of the new federal building for about the last 12 years, Palmer said. The U.S. Senate authorized construction for it in 1965 and the House okayed the measure a year later.

Congress this year approved final legislation, which Thone co-sponsored. The bill provided for more than 40 federal buildings through lease-purchase agreements, including Lincoln's new building.

Architects for the structures are Leo A. Daly Co. of Omaha and Dean E. Arter Associates of Lincoln. The two firms will provide supervision of contractor work for the federal government, Palmer repored.

180,000 Sq. Ft.

The building will have a limestone, aluminum and glass exterior, and will house 1,400 employes in more than 180,000 square feet of floor space.

Principal occupants will be the U.S. Department of Agriculture — to use about one-fourth — the Veterans Administration regional office, U.S. courts and the Smithsonian Institution.

About 15% of space in the building remains uncommitted, but has been designated for future expansion.

"I am already working on efforts to get regional offices of other federal agencies assigned to Lincoln," Thone said.

Attitude Of Parents Toward Pot Shifts

Omaha (AP) —A fair percentage of students in every Nebraska high school uses marijuana according to Dr Emmet Kenney, chairman of the governor's first State Drug Commission.

The attitude of parents toward pot has changed. They used to be alarmed. Now, they're saying it's okay to smoke pot as long as you don't get into the harder stuff," Kenney said.

He told a meeting of the Omaha Mid-West Clinical Society that "if you speak out about the dangers of marijuana today, you're apt to be looked at as if you were a fussy little old lady."

"The thing that frightens me is the use of hallucinogens," Kenney said.

The young are adopting a blase attitude towards such drugs, he said, because they feel certain there will be help available and means of treatment if their narcotics problems get out of hand.

Kenney said the quality of drug education needs improvement, and said it should be given in small groups, not to large assemblies.

Kenney said he opposes using methadone to get young people off heroin

"I don't think it's a very good way to help a kid by substituting one drug for another," he said.

Parents need to make the drug problem a top-priority for discussion with their children, he said.

'Minimum Truck Rates Won't Hurt Consumers'

. . . Motor Carrier Official Says

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Consumers will not experience any price increase in the cost of beef, pork or poultry directly attributable to a proposed minimum rate schedule for livestock truckers, the managing director of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association stated unequivocably Wednesday.

"In no way, shape or form will consumers be affected by a minimum rate for livestock haulers," James N. Preston assured in an interview.

"I defy anyone to dispute that."

Transportation, he maintained, is a "minute" part of the total cost of meat — one estimate he quoted put the total trznsportation costs of meat at 6¢-8¢.

Pointing to other states which have set minimum rates for livestock haulers as evidence, Preston asked, "Is meat any more expensive in Kansas than it is in Nebraska?" He noted that all of Nebraska's neighboring states have rate controls on livestock truckers.

The Nebraska Motor Carriers Association has petitioned the Nebraska Railway Commission to set a minimum rate schedule for livestock haulers. The commission has accepted the application and will set a public hearing to hear objections from the meat-packing industry and agriculture groups.

Two attempts in the 1969 and 1971 Legislative sessions to give the commission the rate-setting authority over truckers were defeated. However, a subsequent attorney general's opinion held that the commission does have that constitutional power.

The efforts to get minimum rates set were criticized Tuesday by an attorney for the State Agriculture Department and several state senators as being unwarranted and detrimental to farm interests.

However, Preston disputed that saying, "Quite honestly, the farm groups are beng duped by the packers. They're subsidizing the packers and apparently they don't realize it."

A minimum rate schedule is not an attempt to effect a rate increase, he said. What the association is seeking, he maintained, is a collective rate based on weight and mileage.

"The large packers are playing the carriers against each other. They're using discriminatory rates for large haulers and small haulers. The carriers have no choice. A uniform rate structure would do a lot to eliminate discrimination The rate for 100 loads would be the same as the rate for one load. And that would help the farmer, too."

Holding up a recent auction notice for defunct livestock hauling company, Preston said, "This is what I'm trying to prevent."

He said there is no question in his mind that a uniform rate structure would go a long way towards stablizing the nmber of small livestock haulers. Although he conceded that the large hauler would be helped also, he said right now he is concerned about the large hauler being the only one left.

The packers have a "stranglehold" on the small haulers, he said.

Answering charges that the minimum rate schedule might permit unreasonably high profits, Preston said the commission has never set rates so high that exorbitant profits result.

The transportation system since the beginning has been under controls, he said. "Regulation is good for the transportation industry."

He estimated that of the 15 million head of livestick produced each year in Nebraska 98% are hauled by the estimated 150-200 full-time truckers.

School Age Not Best Time For Sickle Cell Screening

Omaha (AP) — School age is not the best time to screen for sickle cell anemia from the point of view of persons who carry the trait but don't have the disease, a Boston pediatrician and geneticist said Wednesday.

Sickle cell anemia is an incurable blood disease primarily affecting blacks, explained Dr. Park S. Gerald, a native Omahan who is now chief of the clinical genetics division of Boston's Children's Medical Center.

If two persons carrying the inherited sickle cell trait marry there is one chance in four the disease will appear in a child. A person with only the trait does not get the disease.

Dr. Gerald said experience has shown that genetic counseling means nothing to a 6 or 8-year-old child. Despite educational programs those children told that they carry the trait are certain they have the disease.

Observing that sickle cell screening has become an emotional and political issue, Dr. Gerald said many believe that screening should be done at a time when it is meaningful for persons affected. It might be better to screen for the trait as part of a premarital or early pregnancy tests, he said.

Dr. Gerald spoke at the annual assembly of the Omaha Mid-West Clinical Society, which closes Wednesday in Omaha.

In another talk before the society Col. William E. Burkhalter, chief of the orthopedic service at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver, said the hospital is regularly getting patients with fractures up in four weeks, by contrast with three months in traction and another one to two months in bed as was done in the past.

Richard And Roger Grant Jailed In Stabbing Incident

Omaha (AP) — Twin brothers Richard and Roger Grant, 37, Macy, were held in the Douglas County jail after failing to place bonds of $5,000 each in connection with a stabbing Sunday which left a 16-year-old youth in critical condition.

U.S. Dist. Atty. William K. Schaphorst said the two men are being held on two counts of stabbing with intent to kill wound or maim in the stabbing of Stephen Grant.

Schaphorst said that Lucinda Free, also of Macy, allegedly was attacked by Roger Grant during a drinking bout at her home. Her brother, John Free, and her son, Stephen, came to her aid.

Schaphorst said that Stephen is in a South Sioux City, Neb., hospital, and that Free is in fair condition at a Winnebago hospital.

Bond was set by U.S. Magistrate Richard Peck when the Grant twins appeared before him Tuesday.

Idaho Company Wins Federal Building Pact

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Morrison-Knudsen Co. of Boise, Idaho, won a $14,850,000 contract Wednesday for construction of a new federal building and parking ramp in Lincoln.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis and First District Rep. Charles Thone of Lincoln made the announcement after bids were opened in General Services Administration (GSA) offices in New York City and Kansas City.

The five-story building will occupy the square block north of O Street between 15th & 16th, and the two-story parking ramp will cover the square block across the street south of O.

Under Estimate

Earlier, GSA estimated the construction cost at $18 million, Thone said. The more than $3 million undercut makes it "a terrific bid and we should get good fast construction," he said, "since Morrison-Knudsen is one of the largest general contractors in the world."

Salomon Brothers of New York City submitted the low bid of 7.25% to provide funds for the project. The investment securities house will loan the federal govtrnment $25.1 milion to be repaid over a 30-year period.

That total represents estimated construction costs, property costs, fees for architects, engineers and financial consultants, and taxes.

Ceremonies Set

Ground-breaking ceremonies, open to the public, are scheduled 10 a.m. Thursday at the site, unless weather forces the event across the street inside the Elks Lodge. Arthur Sampson, GSA acting administrator, will attend.

Construction is expected to begin sometime in November, with demolition of the structures now remaining on the two blocks.

The federal government is letting contracts this week for five federal buildings on lease-purchased construction. Funds for the projects may be transferred from one of the five to another, reducing total borrowing if a smaller total is required.

Will Pay Taxes

Salomon Brothers will hold title to the federal building and parking ramp and to the land under them. The firm will pay local property taxes during the payoff period, ending in the year 2002, according to Bill Palmer, Thone's executive assistant.

Completion of the new building, Thone said, will end rental payments of more than $500,000 by the federal government for private space now occupied in Lincoln.

Morrison-Knudsen's contract, Thone said, requires completion of the building and parking ramp in 690 days — by June 1974.

Must Pay Losses

If Morrison-Knudsen fails to complete the contract within the year-and-seven-month period and delays are not caused by weather or construction change orders, the contractor must pay the government's actual dollar losses caused by inavailability of the two new buildings.

GSA awarded Morrison-Knudsen and Salomon Brothers the contracts from separate bids on construction and financing. In addition, the GSA took package bids, combining the two contracts.

Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln was low bidder for the combination package.

First OK'd In '65

Lincoln civic leaders have bten pressing for construction of the new federal building for about the last 12 years, Palmer said. The U.S. Senate authorized construction for it in 1965 and the House okayed the measure a year later.

Congress this year approved final legislation, which Thone co-sponsored. The bill provided for more than 40 federal buildings through lease-purchase agreements, including Lincoln's new building.

Architects for the structures are Leo A. Daly Co. of Omaha and Dean E. Arter Associates of Lincoln. The two firms will provide supervision of contractor work for the federal government, Palmer repored.

180,000 Sq. Ft.

The building will have a limestone, aluminum and glass exterior, and will house 1,400 employes in more than 180,000 square feet of floor space.

Principal occupants will be the U.S. Department of Agriculture — to use about one-fourth — the Veterans Administration regional office, U.S. courts and the Smithsonian Institution.

About 15% of space in the building remains uncommitted, but has been designated for future expansion.

"I am already working on efforts to get regional offices of other federal agencies assigned to Lincoln," Thone said.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A McGovern task force has come out with a report on Latin America which, we would guess, will win the South Dakota senator hardly a vote. That is because Latin America today just is not an issue with the people of the United States and that is unfortunate.

Presumably, nothing drastic enough has happened in Latin America of late to put that large populous area in the headlines. Chile gets a little notice now and then when its citizens appear to be stirring up trouble for their Marxist government but that is only because we like to think of governments in South America as carbon copies of our own.

Thus, when Allende seems to be in trouble, we rejoice in the smug assurance that we knew along that democracy was the only salvation for our neighbors to the south. Brazil, however, with a military government since 1964 has proven us wrong.

★

Brazil still is referred to as the awakening giant in Latin America, although this is not all so good as we might think. With her success, the U.S. has cozied up to her with rather large amounts of aid and loans but the success of Brazil has engendered some discomfort among her neighbors.

As we tend to look at Brazil as the leader in South America, the rest of the Latin countries began to feel left out. Also, not even Brazil has really solved her fundamental problems of poverty and social inequality.

Overall, it has seemed that South America has received very little attention from this country in recent years. The McGovern report criticizes our government for pursuing a political policy of special interests in South America—the special interests of big corporations.

Also, we tended to look critically at forms of government and public policies that are not in keeping with our own ideas of democracy and individual freedom. That may be a lofty ideal but it may be highly unrealistic, too.

Also, Latin America is now beginning to worry about the same thing that is worrying some other nations—the possible division of the world into two more or less amenable power blocs. The blocs would consist of Russia and her satellites on one hand and the U.S. and her major allies on the other.

This, it is feared, may be the ultimate consequence of improved U.S. relations with China and the Soviet Union. Without a cold war type of situation to motivate us, we may settle for a comfortable political security and let the rest of the world go by.

In other words, without a threat from Russia or China, we lack motivation to build a stronger alliance with such areas as South America, which we see in the first place as somewhat of a burden upon us.

Certainly, it is true that most of South America has managed to improve itself little in the past decade. The Alliance for Progress of the late John F. Kennedy administration was a fine blueprint but it is said largely to have failed.

It is pretty tough to come up with anything by way of a program for South America out of the Nixon administration. That administration has done nothing really but continue some of the grant and loan programs of the past, programs that have proven to be unworthy of the challenge they face.

Thus, it is disappointing to contemplate the impact of the McGovern criticism of U.S. policy toward Latin America. It is disappointing because that criticism will be met largely by indifference.

Too many U.S. citizens are indifferent to South America simply because our leadership has failed to encourage any kind of concern for the nations south of our border. We wonder if the U.S. will ever wake up to the potential that exists in that area.

It needs to do so because the potential is of two kinds, good and bad. A friendly Latin America would be a real asset to us and a hostile Latin America would be a serious liability.

'This Time No Fooling?'

More Voters Good Omen

The extraordinary increase in Nebraska's voter registration figures since May is good news for both major political parties — and for the state itself. Nearly 100,000 new voters have registered since spring. That's one out of every 15 Nebraskans, and that flood of new registrants increased the eligible voter list by an astonishing 13%.

Republicans added nearly 37,000 registrants while the Democrats increased their total by 49,000. Those figures not only add strength to both major parties, but they signal a new momentum in moving Nebraska toward a truly two-party state. With more than 800,000 Nebraskans now registered to vote, the traditional Republican edge over Democrats has shriveled to a bare 30,000. If the two-party system is to work effectively, it must be a system of two parties of almost equal strength. The potential for that kind of balance in Nebraska is now apparent.

The startling rise in registration figures points toward an underlying realization that the 1972 election offers voters the kind of basic choice they seldom receive. Both President Nixon and Senator McGovern suggest that this is the choice of the century, and Nebraskans have indicated that they want to participate in that reckoning in record numbers.

Citizen participation in his government is too often limited to voting itself. But, obviously, that is the place to start. More Nebraskans than ever before have declared their intent to participate by making their wishes known at the ballot boxes next Tuesday. Hopefully, that will be only the beginning of wider citizen interest in the political process which governs so much of his life.

Salvation Of Millions

Not everyone will accept very pleasantly the new and higher benefits of the Social Security program. Some will not be pleased with the fact that they will be contributing more in taxes to pay for the improvements that have now been made in the benefits.

But when you pay those higher taxes, you ought to keep in mind that Social Security has been the salvation of millions of people, giving them an economic security that they would never have achieved in any other way. No, the program has not solved all economic problems for the elderly but imagine what life in this nation would be like without such a program.

We would have millions of retired people, virtually, with insufficient means of sustaining themselves. One needs to supplement Social Security benefits if he can but those benefits will at least keep you going if you have nothing else. And there are considerable numbers of people who have nothing else.

This is one program that, in our mind, should have a top priority in the thinking of the American people. There is no other government-sponsored program that returns as much in human terms to the people as does Social Security, no other program where the people get as much for the money they contribute to it.

Increased tax payments are disliked but they should be considered in a relative sense. They are a burden in relation to the other taxes you pay. Thus, when it comes to dislike of taxes, Social Security ought to be at the bottom of the list.

In nearly all categories, the new benefits improve and equalize the coverage of the program. One conflict, however, encourages continued working beyond age 65 in anticipation of higher benefits while another provision discourages work beyond 65 by corresponding reductions in benefits. Overall, the program still remains a credit to the nation and an asset to the people.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

Sometimes life seems so inconsistent. One would never think overalls would figure in this inconsistency but they have.

There seems to be a current fashion trend that many young men have adopted and that is to wear a pair of bib overalls and blue work shirts. In fact, one store sold its supply of denim overalls because as the clerk said, "We are having such a run of selling bib overalls to those who latch on to the fad of the day that we are unable to stock enough."

When The Farmer goes to the city, he dons a suit, shirt and tie. What does he see when he gets there? Any number of individuals wearing blue work shirts and overalls. "Next time we leave the farm, all you need to do is wash the good earth from your face, put on a clean pair of overalls and feel as natural as a fresh country breeze," I said one day. And I might add he will look more natural, if he should choose to go back to nature that far, if he doesn't shave. He can also get that rugged "down-home" look if he stops going to the barbershop.

"However, I might add, farmers as a whole do not fit into this pre-conceived picture of "down-on-the-farm" look or "nature-boy" look whichever it is that the faddists are trying to portray.

And what has my mind going in circles is an ad I saw for bib overalls for the jet set . . . for those faraway, quiet, hidden green hills and valleys where a man can find himself. Somewhere in the ad, overalls were billed as the "in clothes" for the organic man who wanted to relax away from it all.

An organic man? I suppose because of the organic foods that have come into play recently, the ad hoped to catch the eye of more readers but is somewhat organic himself and always has been. It did strike me as rather laughable that we now have man billed as an organic man.

Without too much imagination a vision of such a man comes to mind. He has a pumpkin head, a carrot nose and cauliflower ears.

His torso is a huge hubbard squash with corn stalk limbs. He has a thatch of alfalfa hair and a milkweed floss beard. Of course he is attired in overalls and wears a straw hat made from wheat straw gleaned from this year's harvest. In other words, he could very easily look like a left-over Halloween spook or some one's prank that failed to self-destruct at the proper time.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Farmer continues to harvest the milo between the heavy fogs, slight drizzles and cloudy days. When the sun does make its appearance for a couple of days, there is a frenzy of work that takes place.

Other trucks travel our road either hauling corn or milo and combines come and go at a rapid pace as the farmers move from field to field.

How quickly it seems the leaves have fallen from the trees. The cottonwood trees were a brilliant yellow-gold shimmering in the sunlight and I enjoyed looking at them while washing the dishes. But all too soon they seemed to lose their leaves . . . within a couple of days they were bare.

I watched them fall one morning as the wind was quite harsh. Each time the wind shook their branches, a whirlwind of leaves seemed to shower to the ground.

I was surprised to see the swinging nest of an oriole now abandoned and a robin's nest built into the crotch of one of them. How empty and forlorn they look. Soon they will be etched in snow and ice and look bleak and gray as if no living thing ever inhabited them. So far away are they with their song . . . so far away is another spring.

Why didn't Nixon do this four years ago? This is not the only issue. Let's not forget the 1½ million dead in Vietnam, the four million wounded and the 8½ million refugees. Let's not forget Watergate and the $40 million in Nixon's campaign that is unaccounted for.

Let's not forget Watergate and unemployed. Let's not forget the rising inflation and cost of living. Let's not forget the youngsters in Vietnam and the bombing of the dikes. Let's not forget the heroin traffic from South Vietnam and Thieu's corrupt dictatorship which we are supporting.

No, I can't believe Mr. Nixon! So he says we've reduced troops in Vietnam What about the troops in Laos and Cambodia? Bombing the dikes was an accident, right? How come the letter bombs, so popular recently, are American-made?

Wake up America, and come home!

Price Too High

Lincoln, Neb.

It baffles me how President Nixon can be so trusted and Senator McGovern so mistrusted. Nixon was an underdog at one time and it so embittered him that he made the childish, sour-grapes remark that "No one will have Richard Nixon to kick around any more." Now that he is finally in power, he seems bent on staying there at any expense. Upon looking over the ITT scandal, the Watergate caper, and the secret funds incident, it seems to me the price is a bit too high.

Nixon even tried to get complete control of the nation's pursestrings. Luckily, our congressmen were courageous enough to vote down this proposal, despite heavy political pressure.

McGovern, on the other hand, is the current underdog, but I hear no childish remarks smacking of a persecution complex. His reaction to the Watergate incident is certainly understandable. Any conscientious American should be shocked and worried by these gestapo tactics.

McGovern shows compassion for the "little people." His campaign dinners are $50-a-plate affairs, while Nixon's are $1,000-a-plate deals. Who is trying to attract whom? Nixon wants only the rich, obviously, because that's where the power is that will prevent him from being an underdog again. McGovern is taking his campaign to the people, the real backbone of this country. Without us hard-working "middle-and lower-classers," where would the big-wigs be? They would have no one to do their dirty work while they rake in the money needed to keep them in power and force their "inferiors" to work even harder for even less.

It's truly unfortunate that so many people are influenced by money and power, rather than honesty and compassion. I intend to cast my vote for Senator McGovern. He's only human like the rest of us and is bound to make mistakes, but he keeps an open mind and is big enough to admit it when he does make a mistake.

I urge everyone to think carefully and then, regardless of the decision, to vote. Our ancestors fought hard for the right to elect our own way of life. As we all know, no living thing survives without exercise, so let's keep democracy alive and exercise our right to vote before we lose it.

Urges A Vote

Lincoln, Neb.

My personal preference for president is President Nixon. During this campaign, I have been doing volunteer work on his behalf for GOP headquarters here in Lincoln and also some door-to-door contacts in my neighborhood.

In my conversations with voters, some rather surprising and disturbing attitudes have come to light. For instance, many Republicans feel that Nixon is so certain of re-election that they have said they do not intend to make the effort to vote. And many Democrats have voiced a similar opinion. Many among the older voters have said, too, that they do not intend to vote.

If enough such voters were to stay away from the polls on election day, we could automatically be giving the victory to Mr. McGovern by default. For this reason, I urge everyone to cast his vote for his preferred candidate.

Nixon Outburst of 1962 Recalled Decade Later

WASHINGTON — It is Nov. 7. All the election returns are in. Richard M. Nixon speaks to the press: "I leave you gentlemen now, . . . but as I leave you I want you to know — just think how much you're going to be missing. You won't have Nixon to kick around anymore, because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference. . . ."

Those bitter words were spoken a decade ago — on Nov. 7, 1962, the day after Nixon had lost the California gubernatorial race to Democrat Edmund G. (Pat) Brown by almost 300,000 votes. Two years earlier, John F. Kennedy had nosed out Nixon for the presidency by less than half as many popular votes cast in all 50 states. So few doubted, on that autumn morning in Los Angeles 10 years ago, that Richard Nixon had delivered his political swan song.

Nixon's 1962 outburst was uncharacteristic. As he himself said in his book, "Six Crises:" "The point of greatest danger for an individual confronted with a crisis is not during the period of preparation for the battle itself, but in the period immediately after the battle is over. Then, completely exhausted and drained emotionally, he must watch his decisions most carefully. There is an increased possibility of error because he may lack the necessary cushion of emotional and mental reserve which is essential for good judgment."

When Nixon moved to New York City to join a Wall Street law firm in June, 1963, his retirement from public life seemed irrevocable. But then he began to edge back into politics. He campaigned for Barry Goldwater in 1964 and for GOP congressional and gubernatorial candidates in 1966; he held numerous press conferences and on "business" trips abroad often commented on U.S. foreign policy.

By 1968, Nixon was ready for a comeback, and the Republican party again was ready for him. In the primaries and then in the presidential election campaign, Jules Witcover has observed, Nixon "successfully occupied the middle ground first between (Nelson) Rockefeller and (Ronald) Reagan, then between (Hubert) Humphrey and (George) Wallace Nixon's performance, by any yardstick, was a remarkable exercise in political strategy and discipline."

Countless newspaper columns and books have been written in an effort to explain how Nixon was able to transform the humiliation of 1962 into the triumph of 1968. Garry Wills, a believer in "the inevitability of Nixon," offered this rationale:

"If our system does not choose 'the best man,' its winnowings tend to produce an appropriate man to lead us, one amenable to merchandising trends of the moment; one who, if not really answering the needs of popular symbolism, can nonetheless be given the requisite garb of relevance. He becomes our 'man of the moment' by accommodating the moment."

Nixon may have sensed that his moment would one day arrive. In "Six Crises," he recalled having heard Charles de Gaulle, quoting Sophocles, say: "One must wait until the evening to see how splendid the day has been." Nixon then added: "For me, the evening of my life has not yet come."

JAMES RESTON
Trend To Conservatism On Worldwide Scale; Colorful Political Personalities In Background

WASHINGTON — These are hard days on liberal democracy and charismatic leaders. Seldom a week goes by without news of some conservative comeback or triumph somewhere in the world, or the revival of nationalism and protectionism.

The startling success of the conservatives in Canada and the decline of the Liberals under their flamboyant intellectual leader, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, is only the latest evidence of a worldwide swing to the right.

It is by no means general. Chile, for example, has elected the first Marxist government ever voted into office in this hemisphere. Also, all ideological parties are modifying their traditional views so sharply that the old terms of conservative, liberal, and socialist now have little precise meaning in practical politics.

Nevertheless, though each nation has its own unique set of problems and reasons for political change, there seems to be some kind of trend or at least tendency toward the more conservative parties.

In Europe, even Chancellor Willy Brandt, probably the most attractive and innovative political leader on the continent, is having trouble keeping his Social Democrats in power in West Germany.

On the other hand, Prime Minister Edward Heath and his Conservatives, despite all their economic troubles and battles with the unions in Britain, seem to have a good chance of holding their own, and President Pompidou of France, successor to Charles de Gaulle's political philosophy of authority and centralized control, is favored to win re-election next year. Meanwhile, the colonels maintain their dictatorial control over the home of democracy in Greece.

In Asia, the swing to the right is much more dramatic. South Vietnam retains a few democratic forms but fills the jails with its political opponents and disobedient journalists, and South Korea and the Philippines, the other states that have come under American democratic influence, have just gone under martial law.

Even Japan, reacting to President Nixon's new economic policy, his opening to China, and his promised withdrawal from direct military intervention in the affairs of Asia, is taking a more conservative, independent, and nationalistic view of its affairs under Premier Kakuei Tanaka.

The United States seems to be going in the same general direction in next Tuesday's election. It would probably be wrong to say that the re-election of President Nixon marked a swing to the right. In comparison with the policies he offered the American people four years ago, he has been going to the left ever since, but compared with the policies offered the country by Sen. George McGovern, the American voters seem determined to choose the more conservative of the two — and probably by a very large margin.

Moreover, the American campaign has been fought out largely on the issue of who could get out of Vietnam faster, and provide the most prosperity and security for the American people.

McGovern has devoted a great deal of time and energy to the charge that the Nixon administration has steadily weakened the civil liberties of the people and even debased the democratic election process by the use of corruption, espionage and sabotage, but there is not much evidence that his appeals to the principles of liberal democracy have had anything like the effect he exptcted.

Even in the midst of the most sustained campaign against the First Amendment rights of a free press in the last 50 years, the American newspapers have urged the re-election of the President by more than 600 to 38.

No doubt the explanation of this tendency toward conservatism differs from country to country. In Canada, for example, it could be argued that Trudeau declined precisely because he took an arrogant attitude toward the People's Parliament, whereas Nixon has steadily increased his power at the expense of the Congress and has seen his popularity rise with his power.

Thus, in recent years there has been a tendency to agree with James Madison that "Democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention . . . " and to put greater emphasis on the need for more authority rather than for more individual freedom.

Often in times past, the people have turned in periods of great stress to eloquent and charismatic men, but with Trudeau and Brandt in trouble, most of the great personalities of world politics seem to be passing from the scene and the rising men are the efficient political managers — the Nixons, Heaths, Pompidous, Brezhnevs, Tanakas — who speak of authority, efficiency, and the security of life at home.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A McGovern task force has come out with a report on Latin America which, we would guess, will win the South Dakota senator hardly a vote. That is because Latin America today just is not an issue with the people of the United States and that is unfortunate.

Presumably, nothing drastic enough has happened in Latin America of late to put that large populous area in the headlines. Chile gets a little notice now and then when its citizens appear to be stirring up trouble for their Marxist government but that is only because we like to think of governments in South America as carbon copies of our own.

Thus, when Allende seems to be in trouble, we rejoice in the smug assurance that we knew along that democracy was the only salvation for our neighbors to the south. Brazil, however, with a military government since 1964 has proven us wrong.

★

Brazil still is referred to as the awakening giant in Latin America, although this is not all so good as we might think. With her success, the U.S. has cozied up to her with rather large amounts of aid and loans but the success of Brazil has engendered some discomfort among her neighbors.

As we tend to look at Brazil as the leader in South America, the rest of the Latin countries began to feel left out. Also, not even Brazil has really solved her fundamental problems of poverty and social inequality.

Overall, it has seemed that South America has received very little attention from this country in recent years. The McGovern report criticizes our government for pursuing a political policy of special interests in South America—the special interests of big corporations.

Also, we tended to look critically at forms of government and public policies that are not in keeping with our own ideas of democracy and individual freedom. That may be a lofty ideal but it may be highly unrealistic, too.

Also, Latin America is now beginning to worry about the same thing that is worrying some other nations—the possible division of the world into two more or less amenable power blocs. The blocs would consist of Russia and her satellites on one hand and the U.S. and her major allies on the other.

This, it is feared, may be the ultimate consequence of improved U.S. relations with China and the Soviet Union. Without a cold war type of situation to motivate us, we may settle for a comfortable political security and let the rest of the world go by.

In other words, without a threat from Russia or China, we lack motivation to build a stronger alliance with such areas as South America, which we see in the first place as somewhat of a burden upon us.

Certainly, it is true that most of South America has managed to improve itself little in the past decade. The Alliance for Progress of the late John F. Kennedy administration was a fine blueprint but it is said largely to have failed.

It is pretty tough to come up with anything by way of a program for South America out of the Nixon administration. That administration has done nothing really but continue some of the grant and loan programs of the past, programs that have proven to be unworthy of the challenge they face.

Thus, it is disappointing to contemplate the impact of the McGovern criticism of U.S. policy toward Latin America. It is disappointing because that criticism will be met largely by indifference.

Too many U.S. citizens are indifferent to South America simply because our leadership has failed to encourage any kind of concern for the nations south of our border. We wonder if the U.S. will ever wake up to the potential that exists in that area.

It needs to do so because the potential is of two kinds, good and bad. A friendly Latin America would be a real asset to us and a hostile Latin America would be a serious liability.

'This Time No Fooling?'

More Voters Good Omen

The extraordinary increase in Nebraska's voter registration figures since May is good news for both major political parties — and for the state itself. Nearly 100,000 new voters have registered since spring. That's one out of every 15 Nebraskans, and that flood of new registrants increased the eligible voter list by an astonishing 13%.

Republicans added nearly 37,000 registrants while the Democrats increased their total by 49,000. Those figures not only add strength to both major parties, but they signal a new momentum in moving Nebraska toward a truly two-party state. With more than 800,000 Nebraskans now registered to vote, the traditional Republican edge over Democrats has shriveled to a bare 30,000. If the two-party system is to work effectively, it must be a system of two parties of almost equal strength. The potential for that kind of balance in Nebraska is now apparent.

The startling rise in registration figures points toward an underlying realization that the 1972 election offers voters the kind of basic choice they seldom receive. Both President Nixon and Senator McGovern suggest that this is the choice of the century, and Nebraskans have indicated that they want to participate in that reckoning in record numbers.

Citizen participation in his government is too often limited to voting itself. But, obviously, that is the place to start. More Nebraskans than ever before have declared their intent to participate by making their wishes known at the ballot boxes next Tuesday. Hopefully, that will be only the beginning of wider citizen interest in the political process which governs so much of his life.

Salvation Of Millions

Not everyone will accept very pleasantly the new and higher benefits of the Social Security program. Some will not be pleased with the fact that they will be contributing more in taxes to pay for the improvements that have now been made in the benefits.

But when you pay those higher taxes, you ought to keep in mind that Social Security has been the salvation of millions of people, giving them an economic security that they would never have achieved in any other way. No, the program has not solved all economic problems for the elderly but imagine what life in this nation would be like without such a program.

We would have millions of retired people, virtually, with insufficient means of sustaining themselves. One needs to supplement Social Security benefits if he can but those benefits will at least keep you going if you have nothing else. And there are considerable numbers of people who have nothing else.

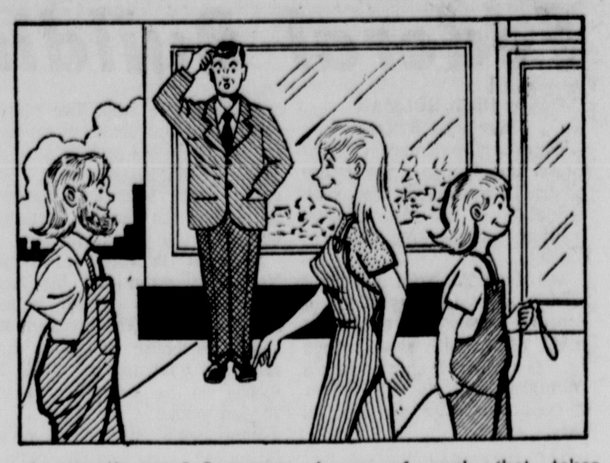

This is one program that, in our mind, should have a top priority in the thinking of the American people. There is no other government-sponsored program that returns as much in human terms to the people as does Social Security, no other program where the people get as much for the money they contribute to it.

Increased tax payments are disliked but they should be considered in a relative sense. They are a burden in relation to the other taxes you pay. Thus, when it comes to dislike of taxes, Social Security ought to be at the bottom of the list.

In nearly all categories, the new benefits improve and equalize the coverage of the program. One conflict, however, encourages continued working beyond age 65 in anticipation of higher benefits while another provision discourages work beyond 65 by corresponding reductions in benefits. Overall, the program still remains a credit to the nation and an asset to the people.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Sometimes life seems so inconsistent. One would never think overalls would figure in this inconsistency but they have.

There seems to be a current fashion trend that many young men have adopted and that is to wear a pair of bib overalls and blue work shirts. In fact, one store sold its supply of denim overalls because as the clerk said, "We are having such a run of selling bib overalls to those who latch on to the fad of the day that we are unable to stock enough."

When The Farmer goes to the city, he dons a suit, shirt and tie. What does he see when he gets there? Any number of individuals wearing blue work shirts and overalls. "Next time we leave the farm, all you need to do is wash the good earth from your face, put on a clean pair of overalls and feel as natural as a fresh country breeze," I said one day. And I might add he will look more natural, if he should choose to go back to nature that far, if he doesn't shave. He can also get that rugged "down-home" look if he stops going to the barbershop.

"However, I might add, farmers as a whole do not fit into this pre-conceived picture of "down-on-the-farm" look or "nature-boy" look whichever it is that the faddists are trying to portray.

And what has my mind going in circles is an ad I saw for bib overalls for the jet set . . . for those faraway, quiet, hidden green hills and valleys where a man can find himself. Somewhere in the ad, overalls were billed as the "in clothes" for the organic man who wanted to relax away from it all.

An organic man? I suppose because of the organic foods that have come into play recently, the ad hoped to catch the eye of more readers but is somewhat organic himself and always has been. It did strike me as rather laughable that we now have man billed as an organic man.

Without too much imagination a vision of such a man comes to mind. He has a pumpkin head, a carrot nose and cauliflower ears.

His torso is a huge hubbard squash with corn stalk limbs. He has a thatch of alfalfa hair and a milkweed floss beard. Of course he is attired in overalls and wears a straw hat made from wheat straw gleaned from this year's harvest. In other words, he could very easily look like a left-over Halloween spook or some one's prank that failed to self-destruct at the proper time.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Farmer continues to harvest the milo between the heavy fogs, slight drizzles and cloudy days. When the sun does make its appearance for a couple of days, there is a frenzy of work that takes place.

Other trucks travel our road either hauling corn or milo and combines come and go at a rapid pace as the farmers move from field to field.

How quickly it seems the leaves have fallen from the trees. The cottonwood trees were a brilliant yellow-gold shimmering in the sunlight and I enjoyed looking at them while washing the dishes. But all too soon they seemed to lose their leaves . . . within a couple of days they were bare.

Also, all ideological parties are modifying their traditional views so sharply that the old terms of conservative, liberal, and socialist now have little precise meaning in practical politics.

Nevertheless, though each nation has its own unique set of problems and reasons for political change, there seems to be some kind of trend or at least tendency toward the more conservative parties.

In Europe, even Chancellor Willy Brandt, probably the most attractive and innovative political leader on the continent, is having trouble keeping his Social Democrats in power in West Germany.

On the other hand, Prime Minister Edward Heath and his Conservatives, despite all their economic troubles and battles with the unions in Britain, seem to have a good chance of holding their own, and President Pompidou of France, successor to Charles de Gaulle's political philosophy of authority and centralized control, is favored to win re-election next year. Meanwhile, the colonels maintain their dictatorial control over the home of democracy in Greece.

In Asia, the swing to the right is much more dramatic. South Vietnam retains a few democratic forms but fills the jails with its political opponents and disobedient journalists, and South Korea and the Philippines, the other states that have come under American democratic influence, have just gone under martial law.

Even Japan, reacting to President Nixon's new economic policy, his opening to China, and his promised withdrawal from direct military intervention in the affairs of Asia, is taking a more conservative, independent, and nationalistic view of its affairs under Premier Kakuei Tanaka.

The United States seems to be going in the same general direction in next Tuesday's election. It would probably be wrong to say that the re-election of President Nixon marked a swing to the right. In comparison with the policies he offered the American people four years ago, he has been going to the left ever since, but compared with the policies offered the country by Sen. George McGovern, the American voters seem determined to choose the more conservative of the two — and probably by a very large margin.

Moreover, the American campaign has been fought out largely on the issue of who could get out of Vietnam faster, and provide the most prosperity and security for the American people.

McGovern has devoted a great deal of time and energy to the charge that the Nixon administration has steadily weakened the civil liberties of the people and even debased the democratic election process by the use of corruption, espionage and sabotage, but there is not much evidence that his appeals to the principles of liberal democracy have had anything like the effect he exptcted.

Even in the midst of the most sustained campaign against the First Amendment rights of a free press in the last 50 years, the American newspapers have urged the re-election of the President by more than 600 to 38.

No doubt the explanation of this tendency toward conservatism differs from country to country. In Canada, for example, it could be argued that Trudeau declined precisely because he took an arrogant attitude toward the People's Parliament, whereas Nixon has steadily increased his power at the expense of the Congress and has seen his popularity rise with his power.

Thus, in recent years there has been a tendency to agree with James Madison that "Democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention . . . " and to put greater emphasis on the need for more authority rather than for more individual freedom.

Often in times past, the people have turned in periods of great stress to eloquent and charismatic men, but with Trudeau and Brandt in trouble, most of the great personalities of world politics seem to be passing from the scene and the rising men are the efficient political managers — the Nixons, Heaths, Pompidous, Brezhnevs, Tanakas — who speak of authority, efficiency, and the security of life at home.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Writer Finds Hobbies Are No Panacea For The Ills Of Retirement

By ROBERT PETERSON

While I occasionally use the word "hobby" I acually dislike the term. This because hobbies are so frequently hailed as a panacea for all the ills of retirement.

"Get a hobby," they tell you, "and life will be full and rewarding."

My aversion to the word can be traced to a story a minister once told me about a large notebook filled with mysterious numbers which arrived at his office. There was no accompanying letter and for all he knew this was some rare and important ledger.

A week later an explanation arrived when a parishioner — a retired businessman — dropped in to say he had sent the notebook to the minister as a gift.

The notebook contained scores on 7,500 games of solitaire which the man had played in the seven years of his retirement.

"You told me to get a hobby when I retired," he explained, "so I took up solitaire." The minister swallowed hard and asked if he had enjoyed his hobby. "I guess so," was the indifferent reply, "it kept me busy aand helped me kill time." Needless to say, the minister now thinks twice before blithely recommending hobbies to retired friends.

It is a sad commentary when mature people take up a leisure-time pursuit whose chief value is its time-killing nature.

And its small wonder that many older people who casually take up such trite and tedious hobbies soon lack spirit and self-respect. This is because their hobby is so trivial as compared with the work they did in their active years that it constantly reminds them of their reduced status.

Time is the essence of life, and to kill time is to deprive ourselves of life's basic blessing. Time should be cherished and utilized in such a way as to bring us a flow of rich and satisfying experiences.

If you find yourself looking for ways to kill time, its high time you sat down and re-evaluated the purpose and meaning of existence. Instead of killing time, try to find ways of using it in a satisfying, worthwhile manner. Here are some possibilities:

(a) Consider going back to work: If no one will hire you, offer to work for nothing if you can afford to do so and the work would prove satisfying.

(b) Take up an art or craft. Try painting, woodworking, weaving. Take some lessons in piano, Spanish or ceramics.

(c) Sign up for a course or two at a local school. Most school systems offer adult education classes and many are free.

(d) Volunteer your services to a hospital or charitable organization.

(e) Volunteer for work on committees in your church, club or political party.

"A pleasure shared is twice enjoyed," says an ancient maxim which we should bear in mind when choosing a leisure-time pursuit. While it's pleasant to sit down for an occasional game of solitaire, our most gratifying satisfactions in the long run come from activities we can experience and share with others.

This Week's Health Tip

The Nebraska Medical Association warns that it is not logical or effective to be treating yourself for something when you do not know what it is.

Self-medication should be avoided. Covering up pain with a pain killer, insomnia with a sleeping pill, anxiety with a tranquilizer, or fatgue with a stimulant fails to get at the basic causes of these conditions. Serious diseases may be permitted to progress to a point of danger.

A common practice is using a left-over drug from a previous illness under what seem to be similar circumstances. The Nebraska Medical Association warns this may waste valuable time in getting proper treatment.

Reactions to drugs differ with different people, as well as the same person at different times under different conditions. All but the most simple drugs must be given with care subject to medical judgment.

More Wheat Is Sold To Red Chinese

©The New York Times

Washington —The Department of Agriculture confirmed Wednesday the sale of more wheat to China

The sale was 970,000 bushels of soft red winter wheat valued at about $2.5 million. Department sources said the sale was made by the Louis Dreyfus Corporation, a French international trading organization with offices in New York.

It was the third sale of grain to the People's Republic of China by the Dreyfus Corporation. The first sale was 15 million bushels of wheat contracted for last September A sale of 12 million bushels of corn worth about $18 million was announced this week.

The latest sale of wheat carried no export subsidy. Subsidies were removed from wheat by the Agriculture Department after earlier large sales to the Soviet Union which generated charges that grain dealers reaped a windfall in export subsidies The first two grain sales to China carried about $5.9 million in subsidies.

Egypt May Get Missiles Back

Beirut — The Soviet Union has agreed to bolster Egypt's air defense system by restoring SAM-6 mobile missiles that had been removed when Soviet advisers were ousted in July, according to reports published here Wednesday.

Western diplomatic sources said that if the SAM-6, described as a sophisticated weapon, were being installed anew, it was likely they would be accompanied by Soviet advisers and technicians.

Governor To Provide For Youth

Harrisburg, Pa. (UPI) — Gov Milton Shapp, a millionaire industrialist, Wednesday personally assured Mrs. Bonnie Marshall that Pennsylvania would provide costly, life-saving serum for her 12-year-old hemophiliac son without forcing the family onto the welfare rolls.

"This is what I've been hoping for," said Mrs Marshall after receiving a telephone call from Shapp. "I'm shocked."

Shapp, who said he would immediately send money but did not explain where he would get it, reversed other state officials who had ruled that the family would have to become welfare dependents to qualify for free medicine for young Kevin Marshall Treatments cost between $900 and $1,000 a month.

Lesser state officials also said the Marshalls could not obtain welfare payments unless Kevin's father, Francis, quit his $7,800-a-year job with Simplex Time Corp or found some way to earn less.

Barker Gets A Suspended Term In Jail

Miami (UPI) — Bernard L Barker drew a suspended 60-day jail term at a Florida trial Wednesday which failed to uncover any more secrets of the Watergate political spying case in Washington, where he also faces trial in Federal Court Jan 8.

Criminal Court Judge Paul Baker concluded a two-hour, 20-minute non-jury trial by ruling the Miami real estate man guilty of a misdemeanor violation of Florida's law prohibiting improper use of a notary public seal. State Attorney Richard E Gerstein had sought a felony fraud conviction but Judge Baker reduced the charge.

Gerstein urged the judge to sentence Barker to prison, claiming the $25,000 check Barker notarized was used to carry out "a criminal scheme by hired burglars to re-elect President Nixon"

Barker, a stocky, poker-faced former CIA agent, did not testify and the defense presented no witnesses.

Prisoners Freed By E. Germany

Berlin (UPI) — East Germany Wednesday began releasing several thousand political and criminal prisoners in an amnesty agreed upon during its campaign of reconciliation with West Germany.

Wearing new clothes and looking fit and healthy, those with homes in the West walked through the Berlin Wall — some for only a few steps of freedom. West Berlin arrested 6 of 54 persons who crossed the fortified barricade, on old warrants charging them with burglary, theft, or embezzlement

Another 71 persons crossed to the West at other points on the border between the two Germanys

"We were told only yesterday (Tuesday) that we would be released" said a West Berliner picked up five years ago at a border railroad station and sentenced to six years imprisonment for fleeing East Germany earlier

Thone Tells NU Audience Value-Added Tax Idea 'Leaves Me Cold'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Congressman Charles Thone told University of Nebraska students Wednesday night he would "in all probability" oppose a value-added tax if it is proposed to the Congress by President Nixon.

"As of now, it leaves me cold," Thone declared.

"We don't need another tax at the federal level."

But the First District Republican congressman cautioned some 90 persons at a talks and topics committee question-and-answer session at the Nebraska Union that his present position could change if he becomes convinced that he is wrong.

Thone said he tries not to adopt "rigid' positions.

On other matters, Thone said he might seek a seat on the House Agriculture Committee if he is re-elected and if one becomes available in 1973.

While he did not serve on that committee in his first term, he noted, the basic farm act of 1970 will be "reworked" by that unit in the 1973 session and he may want to participate in those deliberations.

But, Thone pointed out, agriculture faces its greatest problems on the House floor, not in the committee.

Thone declined an invitation from a representative of his Democratic opponent, Darrel Berg, to participate in a "live" televised discussion Sunday night. "I'm fully booked," he explained.

The discussions or debates proposed by Berg during the campaign would have generated "more heat than light," Thone said. "I'm running on my record," he noted.

If re-elected, the congressman said, he will send First District residents a questionnaire asking them to help him reassess the nation's priorities as peace comes to Vietnam.

"This will be a time of re-evaluation and re-examination," he said.

Americans must determine whether they now want a reduction in taxes or whether they are willing to pay more "for things you want government to do" badly enough, he said.

It took 22 questions before Thone was queried on his Vietnam position.

The congressman said he decided that the Nixon policy was "the wisest procedure," and therefore he opposed amendments in the House urging "unilateral withdrawal" of American troops. "That would take away the only negotiating power the President had," Thone said.

On other matters, Thone said:

—Lincoln's new federal office building is "one of the tangible things I can point to" after 22 months in the House.

—He supported the President's proposal for a $250 billion federal spending ceiling because "Congress had shown itself irresponsible in this area."

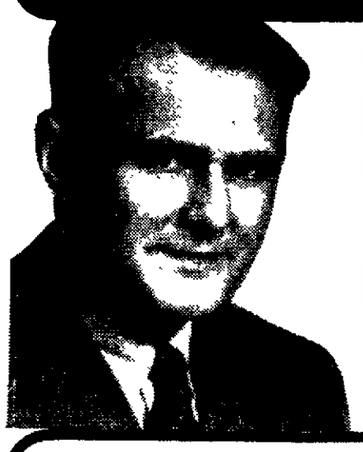

—he continues to oppose public financing of election campaigns.

—amnesty should be handled on "a case by case basis" after the war is concluded. "I am against a blanket amnesty," he noted.

Hester Charges Nixon Could Have Ended War Any Time

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Crete — Brig. Gen. Hugh B. Hester, introduced as "the leading critic of the Vietnam conflict," said here Wednesday night that President Nixon could have halted the war at any time had he so desired.

He not only had failed to act previously, charged the 77-year-old retired Army officer, but still "has no intention whatsoever of getting us out of Indochina." Hester further accused Nixon of pushing for increased Vietnam involvement ever since the Eisenhower administration.

Firing much the same vollevs he has leveled previously from throughout the country, the general spoke at a gathering sponsored by Young Democrats for McGovern - Shriver. Sponsors blamed an attendance of only 40 — most of them non-students — on short notice regarding the visit.

It was learned Tuesday that the general would speak in advance of two campus appearances in Lincoln Thursday. He is scheduled at the UNL Union ballroom at 12:30 p.m. and Nebraska Wesleyan University Student Union at 7:30 p.m.

A veteran of both world wars, Gen. Hester has devoted much of his time the past few years to opposing administration policy.

Again Wednesday night, he depicted the war as "illegal, immoral, dastardly and fought with no excuse whatsoever." The United States is present at nobody's invitation, he asserted.

"When people tell you we're there to give the Vietnamese self-determination, they're totally ignorant," Hester continued. "Were there for no good purpose."

Tracing American intervention since 1954, the speaker said this country actually blocked an election which would have prevented the war. He also accused the United States of "sparking every increase in the terrible arms race since 1945."

He labeled the decision to drop the atomic bomb "Truman's opting to rule the world" and said this was the first step toward our involvement in Vietnam.

"This is not even a civil war, but an imperial war," he continued. "It has nothing to do with Indochina except they're furnishing some mercenaries."

Although speaking more anti-Nixon than pro-McGovern, Hester said the election of McGovern is "the only way we're going to get out of Indochina."

School Bus Driver, 18 Students Injured

Nauvoo, Ill. (UPI) — A school bus making its afternoon rounds collided with a truck on a wet highway along the bank of the Mississippi River Wednesday. Eighteen students and the bus driver were injured, one boy seriously.

The accident occurred as the bus, from the Nauvoo-Colusa School District, was taking pupils home after the school day.

Stae Police said a truck had passed the bus and then the truck ran into standing water on Illinois 96. The truck was slowed by the water and the bus struck the rear of the truck, slid sideways off the pavement and sideswiped a tree on the river bank, police said.

Eighteen students, aged 6 through 17, and the bus driver, William J. Metternick, 47, Nauvoo, were taken to two Koekuk, Iowa, hospitals.

Metternick and five pupils were treated and released at Graham Hospital.

"When people tell you we're there to give the Vietnamese self-determination, they're totally ignorant," Hester continued. "Were there for no good purpose."

Tracing American intervention since 1954, the speaker said this country actually blocked an election which would have prevented the war. He also accused the United States of "sparking every increase in the terrible arms race since 1945."

He labeled the decision to drop the atomic bomb "Truman's opting to rule the world" and said this was the first step toward our involvement in Vietnam.

"This is not even a civil war, but an imperial war," he continued. "It has nothing to do with Indochina except they're furnishing some mercenaries."

Although speaking more anti-Nixon than pro-McGovern, Hester said the election of McGovern is "the only way we're going to get out of Indochina."

School Bus Driver, 18 Students Injured

Nauvoo, Ill. (UPI) — A school bus making its afternoon rounds collided with a truck on a wet highway along the bank of the Mississippi River Wednesday. Eighteen students and the bus driver were injured, one boy seriously.

The accident occurred as the bus, from the Nauvoo-Colusa School District, was taking pupils home after the school day.

Stae Police said a truck had passed the bus and then the truck ran into standing water on Illinois 96. The truck was slowed by the water and the bus struck the rear of the truck, slid sideways off the pavement and sideswiped a tree on the river bank, police said.

Eighteen students, aged 6 through 17, and the bus driver, William J. Metternick, 47, Nauvoo, were taken to two Koekuk, Iowa, hospitals.

Metternick and five pupils were treated and released at Graham Hospital.

Harris Poll Reports:

Public Has Supported Nixon Vietnam Moves

By LOUIS HARRIS

During the period that President Nixon pursued a policy of escalating the bombing and mining of North Vietnam, while intensifying negotiations with the Hanoi government, the American people for the most part have stood more in support than in opposition to Mr. Nixon's policies.

However, so skeptical were the American voters about obtaining a peaceful settlement of Vietnam that throughout the 1972 campaign the President could obtain no better than a slim 52-47 per cent positive rating on his handling of the war.

And, it was not until the final stages of Henry Kissinger's negotiations in Paris and Saigon that the public finally gave the President positive marks of 53-42 per cent in later October on "negotiating a final settlement."

As far back as last May, the Harris Survey recorded public support for two basic parts of the Kissinger-Hanoi terms:

—By 51-31 percent, a majority favored a "stand-still cease-fire", which would allow each side to remain in place where it was when the fighting ended.

—By 44-38 percent, the public also supported "an agreement to end the war but to allow the North Vietnamese to continue to occupy the territory it now occupies."

At no time during 1972 did the Harris Survey ever record more than 16 percent of the American public who felt that President Thieu of South Vietnam was not expendable. In mid-October, voters were asked this question which had been repeated earlier in the year:

"Suppose the only way we could get peace in Vietnam were to have President Thieu resign from office. Would you favor or oppose such a move?"

Of course, as part of the proposed settlement, Gen. Thieu would still remain in office and would control the territory his Saigon government occupies, until elections in South Vietnam determine the make-up of the new government of that country.

By the same token, the American people have also been steadfastly against establishing a coalition government with the communists which would take over in Saigon. Periodically, the public has been asked this question by the Harris Survey, most recently from Octoger 24-26, among 1,648 likely voters nationwide, interviewed in their homes in person:

"Suppose the only way we could get peace in Vietnam were to agree to a coalition government which included the communists. Would you favor or oppose such a coalition in Saigon?"

Fair Officials Ordered Not To Block Leaflets

Federal District Court Judge Warren Urbom Wednesday issued a permanent injunction blocking State Fair officials from prohibiting Ron Kurtenbach to distribute leaflets on the fairgrounds.

Kurtenback had filed a suit after he was arrested at the 1971 State Fair for handing out anti-war leaflets on the fairgrounds.

Urbom said that the action of State Fair Manager Henry Brandt and the State Fair Board was an "impermissable restraint" on Kurtenbach's exercising his right to freedom of speech and press as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

Urbom said the leafleting could not be restricted if it was done in a way that did not impede the flow of pedestrain or vehicular traffic or interfere with the operation of concessions, businesses or persons licensed or permitted to operate on the fairgrounds.

Great Public Park Is Seen On Site Of Fort Robinson

By The Associated Press

A federal decision to turn 315 acres of land at Fort Robinson over to the state assures "the opportunity to develop one of the nation's great public parks," State Game and Parks Commission Director Willard Barbee said Wednesday.

The land had formerly been used as a beef research station and was turned over to the state for use in conjunction with the current state park in the area, site of the killing of the Sioux Indian chief Crazy Horse.

With adequate funding "the game and parks commission can proceed with long-term planning and development to preserve this area for its best and highest use," Barbee said.

The deeded land includes the actual fort area, along with surrounding land.

"Transfer of this land to the state is the culmination of 10 years of effort to insure the future of this outstanding scenic and historic area for all the people," he said.

Application For Branch Office Wil Be Heard

The State Banking Department announced Wednesday the approval of an application to establish a branch savings and loan office in O'Neill.

The branch office request was made by the Nebraska State Savings and Loan Association of Fremont.

The Department also announced a hearing is scheduled for Jan. 17 on a request from Citizens Security Bank of Wallace to change its location to 410 Rodeo Road in North Platte.

The hearing will be held at the department offices in the Capital City beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Curtis Is Asked To Apologize To State Patrol

By United Press Inernational

Larry G. Korbelik of Lincoln, pesident of the State Troopers Association of Nebraska, Wednesday requested an apology from U.S. Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., for recent comments.

Korbelik said Curtis has been "widely quoted as using what evidently is an attempt at humor" involving a state patrolman in one of his campaign speeches.

The association said the story was that a patrolman, appointed by Gov. J. J. Exon, stopped a speeder near Ogallala, but gave him a ticket after he passed Ord because the patrolman couldn't spell Ogallala.

Korebelik said the asssociation "resented the implication and thought it was in bad taste" even as a joke.

Curtis should know troopers are not appointed by the governor and are selected after merit examinations on a "highly competitive basis" are given, he said.

He also said the patrol should not be "brought into partisan politics and Curtis owes the men of the patrol an apology."

Reorganization Plan For Paxton Hotel OK'd

Omaha (AP) — A plan to reorganize the financial affairs of the New Paxton Hotel Co. Ltd. was approved Tuesday by the firm's creditors. Some of the creditors accepted immediate payment of 10c on the dollar.

Wililam Seidler, the company's attorney, said the New Paxton Hotel in downtown Omaha will be taken over by a new partnership, the Farnam Street Hotel Co. Ltd. Many of the partners in the new company are the same as in the New Paxton Hotel Co. Ltd., he said.

The new partnership will assume the old company's debt of $1.9 million, Seidler said, adding that the value of the hotel is $1.4 million.

Seidler said the "large majority" of the creditors accepted notes from the new partnership guaranteeing to pay debts in full out of future profits. Some of the creditors wanted immediate cash settlement and agreed to a payment of 10c on the dollar.

Seidler said it will take a few weeks to complete the takeover. The new partnership will hire a management firm to operate the hotel, he said. The old partnership has handled the management.

The New Paxton will remain in operation while the purchase is being completed, Seidler said.

The Olympic Village for the Olympic Games was first instituted in Los Angeles in 1932.

Lincoln Heights Trendwood Hollingsworth Heights Country Club Manor suburban areas

With the first day of this year's pheasant and quail hunting season scheduled to begin a mere 48 hours from this morning's sunrise, many men throughout Lincoln are preparing for their opening day outings.

Gathering hunting gear, preparing maps, and oiling the guns is man's business, and among the many men in the suburban neighborhoods who anxiously are awaiting Saturday's opening day venture is Harold Sattler, a resident of the Lincoln Heights neighborhood.

Accompanying Mr. Sattler on his hunting expedition will be his cousin, Robert Miklos of Chicago, Ill. It has become a tradition for Mr. and Mrs. Miklos to spend the first week of the game-bird season in Lincoln — and the couple is planning to arrive on Friday. While the men are tracking through the cornfields, Mrs. Sattler and Mrs. Miklos plan to spend their days on shopping expeditions.

Out of town guests seem to flock to the suburban neighborhoods while visiting friends and relatives in the city — and Dr. and Mrs. Edward Rack of Trendwood have been entertaining a very special visitor to the city.

Dr. Joseph Merrigan, who resides in Rochester, N.Y., and who was Dr. Rack's first Ph D. student, spent the early part of the week in Lincoln where he visited with Dr. and Mrs. Rack and also conducted interviews with University of Nebraska students for the Eastman-Kodak Co

Before going on to Maryville, Mo., where he rejoined his family on Wednesday, Dr Merrigan took time out from his interviewing duties to entertain his host and hostess at a dinner out on the town

Dr. and Mrs. Rack have been doing more than their share of entertaining in other ways as well. For example, they hosted a gala homecoming dinner party on Saturday evening — and then Mrs. Rack entertained a group of her friends at a festive autumn luncheon the following Tuesday afternoon. The guest list for the affair included Mrs. Jack Bradley, Mrs. Ted Jorgenson, Mrs. Jim Austin, Mrs. Carl Chlopek, and Mrs. Charles Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klanecky of Hollingsworth Heights spent some time recently in the Ozarks region where they visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Smith of Blue Eye, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Klanecky left Lincoln on Sunday, Oct. 22, accompanied by Mr Klanecky's sister, Mrs Louis Holoun of Sargent, and the threesome enjoyed the scenic landscape as they drove through Missouri to Blue Eye, which is located on the Missouri-Arkansas border

On their way home on Friday, Oct 27, our travelers made a brief stop in Topeka, Kan., where Mrs Klanecky's aunt, Mrs Ruby DuMars, resides The reunion was a joyous one as Mrs. DuMars, who will be 83 years old this month, and Mrs. Klanecky had not seen one another for several years

Sunday, Oct 29, was also a busy day for the Klanecky couple, due to th fact that Mrs Holoun's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs Jim Markvicka of Kearney, came to Lincoln to take her back to her home in Sargent Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs Klanecky attended a cake and ice cream party at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs. James L. Brox, in celebration of Mr Brox's birthday

A recent houseguest at the home of Mr. and Mrs Millard Brumfield was Mrs Brumfield s mother, Mrs Edward Meyer of Topeka, Kan

Arriving on Monday, Oct 16, Mrs. Meyer had time for visiting between shopping sprees before returning to her home on Sunday, Oct 22

BOOKS—"One More Time"

BY CYNTHIA JOHNSON

Faith Baldwin has been at it again. Some 65 novels and hundreds of short stories later, she continues to produce literary soap operas at the rate of one a year. Her most recent endeavor, "One More Time." (Holt, Rinehart and Winston), is another in this genre — certain to appeal to Baldwin fans and those who are up for some not-too-heavy reading.

The plot is decidedly domestic in orientation, although those who are looking for a traditional story of inter-family relationships are in for a surprise. The 1970's have left their mark on Miss Baldwin's narrative.

Three generations, each with its own set of values and hang-ups, are represented by the main characters in "One More Time" — Cynthia Pemberton Warren, her daughter, Viki, and her mother, Lucy Pemberton.

Cynthia, middle-aged, affluent and pant-suited, is in the midst of a disintegrating marriage. After 20 years, her husband who has given her "Europe, Asia and Caribbean cruises, not to mention minor amenities such as a well-stocked wine cellar" and a spacious bedroom with a walk-in closet, has fallen in love with another woman and has asked for a divorce.

This is not the end of Cynthia's problems. Her 20-year-old daughter, Viki, is a typically "hip" college student with a social conscience and value system quite different from that of her mother. The problem arises when Mrs. Warren discovers the "impropriety" of Vicki's relationship with her boyfriend, Mac.

Then there is Lucy Pemberton, Cynthia's mother and Viki's grandmother, whose marriage, before her husband's death some 10 years before, had been the epitome of an ideal relationship. Liberated, yet not too, her relationship with her husband had been apparently far more stable than those undertaken by her daughter and granddaughter.

Still very much "with it," even at her grandmotherly age, Lucy confronts the problems of the other two women with a great deal of understanding and a bit of sage advice. She finds Cynthia to be a trifle too staid and self-centered, hinting at the influence of "victorian hang-ups." On the other hand, her granddaughter is perhaps a little too rash — "being in love is not the same as loving someone."

The story that Miss Baldwin weaves is mildly interesting if somewhat cliche. Her character development leaves something to be desired, primarily because the people she describes are too stereotyped to be quite real. There is something about all three characters that can't quite be believed, and as a result the narrative is rather superficial.

This is not to say that the book will not appeal to anyone. Given the success of her previous novels, it must be surmised that Miss Baldwin does have an audience; and for those who enjoy reading this type of book, "One More Time" is a passable piece of fiction.

Included on the national best seller list this week are the following books:

AROUND THE TOWN

The rain, the snow (if any) and the fact that there is no home game could make the approaching weekend sound mighty dull and gloomy. It won't be since the Cornhusker-Colorado game is to be televised there will be noumerous "watch" parties in the afternoon, but there still is Saturday night—

* * *

Well, the Terpsichorean has seen to it that Saturday evening won't be a dull one—at least for its members who will be dining and dancing.

The party will be held at the Airport Holiday Inn.

Planning all of the details for the festivities which have a "Harvest Time" theme are Mr. and Mrs. Al Kuper, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Gudmunson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Baack, and Dr. and Mrs. Rudy Meyer. And that reminds us that there is to be a party guest—Dr. Meyer's sister, Miss Irene Meyer of St. Louis, Mo.

Two new member couples will join in on the fun, too—They are Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Hueninck and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hermanson.

* * *

You may remember that the Fifty Fifty Club has a theme that will continue throughout the season—"Around the World in Fourteen Days and Two Nights". The first party of the season—a dinner dance, was in the Japanese decor.

But the next stop is the United States and since the bridge-dinner is to take place next Tuesday evening—Nov. 7—election day—at the Legion Club, it is to be a "United States Election Party."

Anyway, serving as party chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McVicker who have Mr. and Mrs. Len Burke as their co-chairmen.

* * *

All of the news this morning isn't limited to dining, dancing, and bridge, however. We have news from Seattle, Wash., that will be of interest to Lincoln—and to Alpha Delta Pi and Phi Gamma Delta circles.

The news revolves around a future debutantalizer, Miss Jennifer Kenagy, who arrived on Monday, Oct. 30. The baby is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Kenagy of Seattle, and her mother is the former Barbara Lynn Penterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Penterman of Kailua, Hawaii, and an Alpha Delta Pi at Nebraska.

And now for those beaming paternal grandparents—They are Mr. and Mrs. Wyman B. Kenagy—of Lincoln, of course.

Young Miss Jennifer has another relative in Lincoln, by the way. She is Mrs. Marie Penterman, the baby's great-grandmother

Lincoln Attorneys' Wives Organize

L.A.W. is the appropriate nickname of one of Lincoln's newest organizations — the Lincoln Attorneys' Wives.

That group had its charter and membership meeting in First Federal's party room on Monday evening, Oct. 30—and the organization's first officers will be elected and installed at a pre-holiday luncheon to be held at the Knolls on Thursday, Nov. 30.

Membership in L.A.W. is open to wives of lawyers who are members in good standing of the State Bar of Nebraska, wives of judges, and widows of deceased members and judges who reside in the metropolitan area of Lincoln, according to Mrs. Gene D Watson, who was instrumental in organizing the new social and service club.

Any potential members who are interested in learning more about L.A.W. may contact Mrs. Watson at 434-3737.

Speaker

Dr. Robert Rutford, a member of the Antarctic Research Program, will be the guest speaker at the Thursday afternoon, Nov. 2, meeting of the Ceres Club.

"Button Up Your Overcoat" will be the topic of Dr. Rutford's address when he speaks at the 1:30 o'clock meeting to be held at the Second Baptist Church, 525 No. 58th St.

New Officers

The Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club held its usual election of officers away back in June but delayed announcement due to the fact that the newly elected treasurer moved away from Lincoln shortly after the election.

The alumnae group now has named a new treasurer to fill the vacancy, and also is announcing all of the officers who will serve during the 1972-1973 year.

Named to the presidency was Mrs. John E. Hicks who heads a staff of officers which includes Mrs. Robert E. Harris, vice-president; Mrs. Lowell L. Poage, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. Richards, corresponding secretary, and treasurer — Mrs. Bruce A. Cutshall.

New Officers

The Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club held its usual election of officers away back in June but delayed announcement due to the fact that the newly elected treasurer moved away from Lincoln shortly after the election.

The alumnae group now has named a new treasurer to fill the vacancy, and also is announcing all of the officers who will serve during the 1972-1973 year.

Named to the presidency was Mrs. John E. Hicks who heads a staff of officers which includes Mrs. Robert E. Harris, vice-president; Mrs. Lowell L. Poage, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. Richards, corresponding secretary, and treasurer — Mrs. Bruce A. Cutshall.

Evening Wedding

The marriage of Miss Linda Rosenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Chris Rosenberg of North Platte, to Richard Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner, was solemnized at a 7 o'clock ceremony which took place on Friday evening, Oct. 21 at the First Baptist Church in North Platte. The Rev. Earl Byleen of North Platte read the lines of the service.

Mrs. William Coker of Bloomington, Ind. attended her sister as matron of honor; and the bridesmaids included Miss Joni Taylor of Rochester, Minn., and Miss Elaine Waggoner of Kimball.

Tim Longlio of Columbus, Ga., served Mr. Wagner as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Jeff Bell, Ron Neiderkofler, Robert Neely and Joe Snyder.

The gown chosen by the bride for her wedding was fashioned of antique peau de faille. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace, trimmed with seed pearls and crystals accented the wedding band collar and the leg-o-mutton sleeves, and beneath the lace-encircled Empire waistline, the skirt was styled in the A-line silhouette. A Juliet cap held in place her floor-length veil of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of yellow cymbidium orchids

The couple will reside in Honolulu, Hawaii where Mr Wagner is serving a tour of duty with the United States Navy.

City Of Hope Auxiliary Aids Research

Just 24 miles from Los Angeles, Calif., is a town called 'Duarte.' To the average citizen of Lincoln, Duarte, Calif., doesn't mean a thing.

There will be those, however, who consider Duatre all of the things that the "City of Hope" stands for in its role as a pilot medical center for research.

Through the intense research done by the medical men and medical scientists at the City of Hope in Duarte, many diseases have been conquered, and doubtless more and more will be head of the City of Hope accomplishments.

Research takes money, and to the credit of enthusiastic auxiliaries through the county, it gets it.

Three years ago a City of Hope Auxiliary was organized in Lincoln, and its members have done their share in the effort to raise funds for the California pilot medical center.

On Sunday, Nov. 5, the members of the Lincoln auxiliary will be making a house to house canvas, not only for funds, but to acquaint the city's residents with the City of Hope projects.

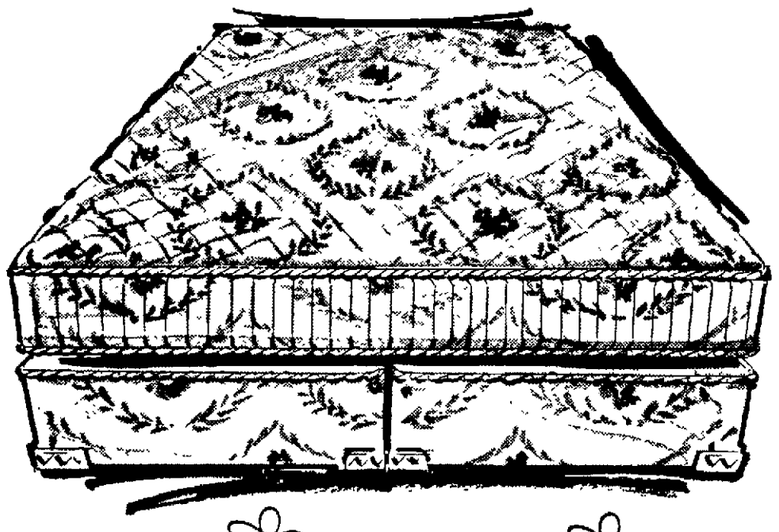

A few days ago members of the auxiliary met at the home of their treasurer, Mrs. William Kaiser, to pack kits which will be distributed next Sunday.

A guest at the kit-packing meeting was Mrs. Robert Rosen of Omaha, regional coordinator for City of Hope Auxiliaries.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl and everyone tells me I have a beautiful face, but I am very, very heavy, and I've been this way all my life. I've tried every kind of diet imaginable, but have never lost more than 20 pounds, which I always put right back on, so I've decided to give up dieting.

I've never dated much, but I didn't let it make me miserable. I have a good bookkeeping job, read a lot and do beautiful needlework.

My problem: I am going with a 54-year-old man who wants to marry me. Before you say he is too old for me, please finish this. He's a widower with married children who thinks I'm the greatest. He loves me and says he likes me just the way I am. He would be a good provider, and I wouldn't have to work, but he says I could if I wanted to. We like the same things (we're both homebodies) and I know we could be happy together.

My parents are against him because he's older than my father. Abby, if being treated well can make a girl love a man, I know I could learn to love him. We have never been intimate (He hasn't even tried.)

Should I marry him? Who else would want a girl who is 100 pounds overweight?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: A girl who marries a man, hoping to "learn to love him" is risking a lot. That is not to say that only couples who are wildly in love can be happy. (Many are.) But your reason for wanting a 54-year-old man at age 19, ("who else would want me?") is a weak one. I vote with your parents. Don't rush into marriage. I urge you to make a sincere effort to lose that weight — then consider marriage. You have a lot to lose — but everything to gain.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

The Bath Has An Interesting History

Josephine Lowman

The art of the bath has just taken a big step forward or backward, depending on how you look at it, with the recent introduction of an egg-shaped $6,000 washing machine in which a person can recline and be washed, massaged and dried without lifting a finger. That seems to me to be the epitome of the sedentary life. If you want to spend $6,000 that way, you do not even have to scrub yourself.

It is hard to believe that only 135 years ago there wasn't a bathroom in Buckingham Palace and that the White House got its first bathtub when Millard Fillmore was president. Benjamin Franklin was considered very eccentric because he bathed regularly and several states debated bills banning baths as dangerous to public health.

Americans and other modern-day humans are not the only people in history so well and luxuriously bathed. Ancient Greeks made a religion out of cleanliness and Romans spent part of every day meeting and chatting with friends in magnificent public baths. Today bathing is a solitary rather than a social occassion. However this has its advantages!

The bath can be a time of great relaxation, when worries and muscles untense. The warm water promotes this happy condition. There is something very restful about a warm (not a hot or a cold) bath. This is also an excellent time for a beauty treatment Cleanse your face and neck before getting into the tub. Apply a lubricating cream. It will be more easily absorbed by your skin because of the heat of the water.

The busier a woman is the more important it is for her to make her bath leisurely, if she can possibly manage to do so.

Opening lead-queen of hearts

"If the cards must be a certain way for you to make the contract, assume that they lie that way. If the cards must lie a certain way for your contract to be in danger, assume that they lie that way (and take appropriate precautions)."

These very sound words of advice appear in the book by Marshall Miles titled All Fifty two Cards. The California star illustrates the first part of the quotation by citing this deal where South, obviously a nut so far as using Blackwood is concerned, gets to six clubs.

When dummy comes down, it is plain to see that, barring a miracle, the slam will go down. The odds strongly favor losing a diamond and at least one heart.

But there is a chance of making the contract if the adverse cards are favorably divided. This possibility can exist in only one form—West must have precisely three spades to the king.

In line with this, South wins the heart with the ace, finesses the jack of spades, ruffs a spade, and cashes the A-K of trumps. When he then plays the ace of spades, flooring the king, he is able to discard his three heart losers on the spades and so make the slam. He loses only a diamond trick.

Note that you cannot divide the spades any other way and make the contract. Thus, it would not help to find either defender with the singleton or doubleton king, for you have to make four spade tricks to land the contract and nothing less will do the job.

Faced with this contingency, South must shape his play to fit the only distribution that will allow the slam to be made. Nil desperandum!

Backing Seen For Change In Bylaws

. . . Faculty Senate Action Expected

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate President Wallace Rudolph said Wednesday he expects the senate will adopt a resolution next week in support of two changes in the Board of Regents version of the new university bylaws.

In an interview, Rudolph said he was satisfied the two changes represent a reasonable compromise on the regents' changes which caused the greatest negative reaction from the faculty.

The two sections deal with a definition of academic freedom and the rights of tlontenured professors who believe their academic freedom being violated.

In a memo sent to the Board of Regents, NU President B. Varner has recommended the the board alter the two sections to reflect an agreement reached last week in a meeting involving Varner and members of the faculty inter-campus coordinating committee.

Rudolph said he attended that meeting, which he described as a cordial one.

Calling the Varner-proposed revisions a compromise, Rudolph said the faculty had "conceded" on the matter of a requirement to give a nontenured professor the reasons for a recommendation that he not be reappointed.

On the administration side, Rudolph said, Varner conceded to the two changes he is recommending to the board.

"That's the trade-off," said Rudolph.

The faculty has stressed throughout the discussion on the bylaws that many of the sections represented compromises among various factions.

The original document was drafted by a specially constituted University Goverance Commission.

Rudolph said a resolution asking faculty senate support of the changes will be presented to the senate next Tuesday by the faculty liaison committee.

He said he expected the senate to adopt the resolution and asked that it be presented to the regents at the public hearing on the bylaws on Nov. 9.

Dr. David McGill Is Recipient Of National Award

Miami Beach, Fla. — The University of Nebraska's Dr. David McGill has earned the Agronomic Education Award, a national award presented at the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy here.

Dr. David McGill

Dr. McGill, NU professor of agronomy and assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, was the sole recipient of the coveted award in recognition of his principle contributions as a teacher of undergraduate courses and as an advisor.

Dr. McGill became a member of the NU staff in 1946. He was active in plant breeding and crop production research projects before he started teaching genetics in 1956. After teaching for only four years, his reputation spread beyond the campus of the College of Agriculture and in 1960 he was recipient of NU's "Distinguished Tetaching Award."

Industry Told To Sell Ideas, Beliefs As Well As Products And Services

Because industry cannot rid society of all the ills engendered by technological offshoots, industry must accept a role of informing the public to achieve an understanding of the problems.

"Until we get alternate technologies or until we change our life styles, we've got to accept the minuses as well as the plusses," Louis R. Larsen said Wednesday.

Larsen, president of Corporate Studies Group Inc., Wellesley, Mass., told some 145 persons attending the American Public Power Association (APPA) Marketing-Public Relations Workshop that that industry must sell ideas and beliefs as well as products and services.

In selling a product, Larsen said, "We concentrate more on that product than on the person's feelings."

Larsen contended that "believability and credibility have deteriorated in industry within the last year." He attributed that mistrust to two factors: Industry's fear to publicize its failures, an inability to "cope with and defend industrial policies that are socially poor."

Industry views social responsibility "as an old kind of public relations problem," Larsen said. He maintained that the "traditional systems are not sufficient: They're forms of one-way communications" in which technical aspects of communicating override getting the message across.

Larsen urged that industry "start focusing on people's attitudes, their beliefs, their opinions." It might be contrary to industry's position, he said, but industry must invite conflict.

Those attending the four-day workshop represent public utility groups from across the U.S. and Canada. Charles D. Sayre, public relations director for the Nebraska Public Power District and chairman of the APPA public relations committee, presided over the group.

Carpenter Hits At Advertisement

Democratic senatorial nominee Terry Carpenter Wednesday said political advertisements reprinting a student column unfavorable to him is "the perfect example of how Seantor Curtis buys the votes of the people of Nebraska."

The column was originally published in the Daily Nebraskan, the student newspaper at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus.

And it was written, Carpenter said, by John Vihstadt who is "the intern of the Republican Party on campus. He receives credit from the political science department at the university as a representative of the Republican Prty."

Carpenter said he wants voters to know that "the person who wrote it is not an unbiased journalist, and I believe the money for this advertising extravaganza didn't come from the students, but from the Curtis campaign funds."

It is "absolutely unbelievable" to think NU students would vote for Carl Curtis, "even if he was only running for dog-catcher," Carpenter said.

"After all, our young people are educated well enough to know that last year when the Senate was voting on the 18-year-old vote bill, Curtis tried to defeat it.

"And, when he failed, he tried to postpone its going into effect until January, 1973. If Curtis had his way, he'd outlaw all students from voting."

Curtis, Carpenter said, has "the worst" voting record on education in the Senate.

"The statement not only is false, but it is misleading, not only to elderly people but to the entire population of Nebraska," Curtis said. "It does not fall into the category of campaign rhetoric or justifiable criticism."

Curtis said it was a "brazen attempt to mislead thousands of voters" in the election.

The senator said the truth is that he has supported dozens of bills and amendments to increase benefits in Social Security, and has taken the lead in broadening the program to serve all citizens.

Sen. Curtis Lodges Complaint For Alleged Unfair Practices

Omaha (UPI) — Sen. Carl T Curtis, R-Neb., Wednesday night indicated he has lodged a complaint against Democratic Senate candidate Terry Carpenter for alleged unfair campaign practices.

Curtis said he has filed the grievance with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee in Washington.

Curtis cited a letter which Carpenter has caused to be sent to many voters in Nebraska in which he states 'Senator Curtis has been opposed to Social Security from the enactment of the original law to the present time."

ASUN Okays Budget With No Dissent

The student senate (ASUN) of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Wednesday approved without dissent a $41,000 budget and readied the document for transmission to the NU Board of Regents.

ASUN President Bruce Beecher said he expected the budget would be on the board's agenda when it meets next week in Lincoln.

The exact budget figure is $41,134.41.

Support for the budget comes from student fees, a fact which has apparently led to the decision to suggest the board consider it.

Last year, the board objected to some of the programs financed with student fees.

UNL Chancellor James Zumberge told the ASUN senate last week that he believes it appropriate for the board to approve the budget.

In the past, the budget has been approved at the chancellor level.

Berg Says Nixon Veto Hurts Aged

Democratic congressional nominee Darrel Berg Wednesday said President Nixon's recent vetoes have "dealt serious setbacks to federal programs affecting older Americans and Vietnam veterans."

Nixon vetoed 11 important bills during the last week "in the name of economy," Berg said.

"I am particularly concerned about his vetoes of the veterans drug treatment bill and the Older Americans Act. I have great difficulty seeing how the small inflationary impact of these bills could outweigh the social benefits which they would bring."

There are few programs which should receive a higher priority than federal drug treatment and rehabilitation for veterans, Berg said.

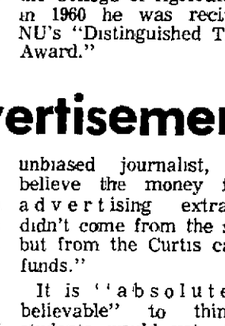

Under the Older Americans Act, Berg said, Nebraska was to receive an additional $2.1 million for programs for the elderly.

"This would have greatly expanded state and local funding of nutrition programs, foster grandparents programs, such as the one at the Beatrice State Home, and multi-purpose senior citizen centers," he said.

Respiratory Disease Club Plans Meeting

Fair Campaign Group Is Planning To Disband

. . . Central Nebraska Unit Cites Dispute

Grand Island (AP) — A Central Nebraska Fair Campaign Practices Committee is being disbanded according to an announcement made by its chairman.

R. I. Westbrook, a Sargent physician, said late Wednesday, the decision was made following a discussion with two other committee members, Wheeler County Judge Arnold Menuey of Bartlett and Ron Bahensky of Palmer.

Earlier Menuey and Bahensky had said they were resigning from the committee because it did not appear to be non-partisan as they had originally understood.

A dispute arose after Westbrook publicly released a statement charging 41st district legislative candidate Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia with not complying with campaign contribution disclosure laws.

"We have done a public service by bringing this before the voters," Westbrook said, "but now we are being harassed by both sides."

He said the committee is being hit by a "front-lash" by supporters of Rasmussen and a "backlash" by the supporters of his opponent, the Rev. J. H. Schroeder of Ord. Both think the situation is hurting their candidates.

Earlier Sherman County Judge Elden Bass of Loup City resigned from the committee when he first heard of the dispute in a published report Sunday.

It was disclosed Wednesday that Westbrook, Menuey and Bahensky had all made campaign contributions to Schroeder.

Westbrook said it is "a little aggravating" to have such a reaction when a group gets together to do what it thinks is in the public interest.

"We think the people should be made aware of it. But they don't want this sort of help."

"We'll let the voters make the decision," he said.

Mysterious Old Sewer Pipe Adds To Civic Center Cost

Omaha (AP) — Builders have blamed an ancient, mysterious sewer pipe for adding $15,000 to the cost of the $16 million Omaha Douglas Civic Center and forcing closure Wednesday of a downtown street.

Officials said 18th Street between Farnam and Harney Streets will be closed for about two weeks so Hawkins Construction Co. can build 200 feet of new sewer line to replace 90 feet inadvertently filled with concrete Oct. 6.

Vern Vance, assistant city attorney for the Omaha-Douglas County Public Building Commission said responsibility for the $15,000 added cost has not been determined.

A spokesman for Hawkins, prime contractor, said a subcontractor discovered the problem after concrete was poured for part of the foundation.

He said there were no records of the pipe in any of the city records.

The spokesman, William Epstein, said the old pipe apparently led to a main stem of a combination storm and sanitary sewer nearly 25 feet under the main business district.

He said the weight of the concrete could have broken the old pipe, adding that there was no way to determine precisely what happened.

The sewer which was filled with concrete had carried storm sewer runoffs from the city block bounded by 18th and 19th, between Farnam and Harney.

Since it became clogged, construction engineers have set up a bypass system with pumps to direct sewage into another pipe.

Madison County Probes Irregularities In Ballots

Norfolk (AP) — Information concerning possible irregularities in the casting of disabled voter ballots at a Madison nursing home has been turned over to Madison County Atty. Vincent Kirby, it was disclosed Wednesday by Lonnie Renner of Battle Creek, northeast Nebraska coordinator of the George McGovern campaign.

Renner said the wife of a prominent Madison Republican, while acting as a voters agent, apparently exerted illegal influence and disregarded lawful procedures in assisting nursing home residents in casting disabled voter ballots Oct. 18.

The woman was not named.

Renner cited three apparent violations and one possible violation of Nebraska election laws.

He said the information was supplied to him by Brenda Kuester of Norfolk, a nurse employed at the home. He said she and several other employes witnessed these events and also indicated that possible irregularities may have occurred during the primary.

Renner said the U.S. attorney's office in Lincoln also has been informed.

KITE FLYING TAKES ON A NEW TWIST

Steve Peck of Omaha, shown with kite in top photo, likes to fly his man-carrying kite on Carter Lake, Iowa, while wearing water skis. Last weekend he decided the lakes' waters were too cold, so he hitched his kite to a truck and took off over land, right photo. That meant he had to land on the ground, gliding in from several hundred feet up, left photo.

Koefoot Defends NU President Varner

Omaha (AP) — University of Nebraska Regent Robert Koefoot of Grand Island responding to what he called "accusations" by Clifton Batchelder, said Wednesday that N.U. President Durward B. Varner "is one of the greatest things that ever happened to our university and to our state."

In a news release, Dr. Koefoot praised Varner's record at the university and charged that Batchelder "wants to turn the university into a trade school."

"Since Mr. Batchelder has implicated the entire Board of Regents in his campaign to unseat Regent Kermit Hansen, and since I am a proud member of that board, I feel it is only proper to voice my opinion concerning the University of Nebraska and its future." Dr. Koefoot said.

Batchelder and Hansen, both of Omaha, are competing for the 2nd District seat on the board.

Hansen has done an "outstanding" job on the board, Dr. Koefoot said.

He said he tends to dismiss many of Batchelder's charges "which are made primarily to get votes in a close campaign."

But Batchelder, he said, "has seriously questioned" Varner's ability. "It's impossible for me to remain silent on that charge," said Dr. Koefoot.

Spirit of Pride

Varner, he said, has generated a spirit of pride throughout Nebraska.

"He has shown us how we can be greater — in livestock production, in cultural activities, in community development and in education," said Dr. Koefoot.

Dr. Koefoot said Varner has applied rare management skills to a "complex organization that defies simple solutions. He has traveled many thousands of miles throughout the state to explain what the univesity is doing and hopes to do, but more importantly, to listen carefully to what the people have to say about their university."

Some Disgreement

Dr. Koefoot said he and other regents have disagreed with Varner on some issues in the past and will do so in the future.

"The charge that the board is dominated by the chief executive of the university, or by a Chamber of Commerce or so-called 'O Street Gang' is not true," Dr. Koefoot said.

He said Varner "has always made it clear that he works for the Board of Regents" and his decisions "have always been made with our consultation and approval."

Dr. Koefoot said the Cresap report on the university's management two years ago concluded that the overall management was sound. He said the specific recommendations that were made are being carried out.

Concern Expressed

He also said he is concerned "about what appears to be Mr. Batchelder's philosophy of education as applied to N.U. He was quoted as saying that the university should be involved only in job-oriented training. Nothing else. I submit that he wants to turn the university into a trade school.

"Somewhere the search for new knowledge and the means to put it into useful practice must take place. Somewhere our cultural heritage must be preserved . . . . The university has always played an important role in the state's economy, most visibly . . . in agriculture."

Dr. Koefoot said he questions "whether people want all that to go down the drain. We should be trying to move the university forward, not backward."

Earlier Wednesday Batchelder issued a campaign flyer in which he charged that UNO is running out of funds despite a 17.2% increase granted by the legislature for the current operating year. He blamed the situation on what he termed mismanagement by Varner of the University systems.

'Not True'

Hansen said the charge is not true, calling it "reprehensible and inaccurate."

Batchelder's flyer also said an emergency meeting was called Oct. 17 to discuss the problem and "apparently" it was decided not to reveal the situation to the public until after Nov. 7.

Hansen denied this, saying UNO Chancellor Ronald W. Roskens held one of his periodic meetings with the heads of departments that day to consider what to do about a drop in student credits hours for this semester. Roskens said Monday the UNO budget outlook is unclear because it's still awaiting a credit hour total from the N.U. computer network.

Going To Work With Your New Cold Disservice To People Around You

Omaha (AP) — You may have feelings of pride and self-sacrifice as you plug to work with your new-blown cold, but you are doing a disservice to the people around you a specialist in respiratory diseases said here Wednesday.

You would see a decrease in the number of colds if people would stay home for the first two or three days with their colds," said Dr. Donald F. Egan.

"When your nose is running and you're sneezing, you are a walking syringe of virus," said the physician, who heads the section of chest diseases at New Britain General Hospital in Connecticut.

A person is more likely to stay away from work when the cold has progressed to the deep coughing stage because that's when he feels worse. But by then you are less infectious to others, Dr. Egan said.

Because so many people are about with colds, Dr. Egan said, he advises patients with chronic lung problems to stay out of crowds during the winter.

"I encourage these patients to stay out of movies, to sit in the back pew in church and to avoid crowded buses if at all possible," he said.

Adding a cold to a chronic lung problem can result in a life threatening situation, he said. Some chronic patients wind up as patients in hospital intensive care units because of episodes which start with a cold, he said.

Chronic lung disorders are among the top two or three disabling conditions in the United States, and, at the rate they are increasing, may become No. 1.

Dr. Egan was among the speakers at the 40th anniversary assembly of the Omaha Mid-West Clinical Society, which concluded Wednesday.

Community Of Syracuse Is Ready For Its Official Grand Reopening

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Syracuse — This Otoe County town of 1,560 was crushed March 16 when a fire destroyed five businesses at the west end of 5th St., the town's main business street.

Mrs. Erv Kehlenbeck, wife of the mayor and one of eight proprietors who will participate in Saturday's official grand reopening, remembers the evening vividly.

"It was a sad night, I'll tell you, to stand and watch a whole block burn," she recalls. "It crushed us a little bit. But you don't see many communities that have fires this big and build back this fast."

Mrs. Kehlenbeck's own Pat's Fashion Shoppe, a women's clothing store, is one of two brand-new establishments which have rushed in to fill the gap in Syracuse's commercial services.

The Fashion Shoppe occupies a new building on the site of the burned-out Reuter Shoe Store, the only one of five damaged firms to go out of business. Its owners, Edna Reuter and her brother Lester, were insured but decided not to rebuild.

The other new business, Nannen's Shoe Store across the street, quickly took up the Reuters' footwear business.

Four other five-damaged businesses have moved or rebuilt, including Jourdan's Radio Communications, the West End Lounge and Staack Furniture. The other, Hauschild Ford, has even expanded its space some 25%. Two other former businesses not damaged by the fire, Hill's Pharmacy and the Legion Club, have remodeled and will also participate in the Saturday ceremony.

All of the businesses have actually been open for some time except the West End Lounge, which will be ready just in time for Saturday. But all will celebrate their official "grand opening," in honor of the town's dramatic comeback, with drawings and giveaways throughout he day.

Next door to the Fashion Shoppe is Staack's Furniture, whose entire stock was heavily damaged by smoke and water. It has new stock now.

Jourdan's Radio Communications, destroyed by the blaze, moved into slightly smaller quarters a block off 5th St. and had to settle for a little less space, said Glenn Jourdan.

"It gives you a little more confidence in the community," concluded Mrs. Kehlenbeck. "It's the kind of town that always comes back."

Bish Says Statements Based On Demo Report

Republican State Chairman Milan Bish Wednesday told the Fair Campaign Practices Committee that his recent statements on Democratic Party finances were based on reports filed by Democratic officials.

"We have every reasonable right to rely on this notarized federal filing of the Democrat Party as being a true and open disclosure of their financial conditions," Bish wrote the committee.

"In light of this, when they showed $104,000 cash on hand 15 days before the election, money they had held since June 10, it was reasonable to assume that the money was not to be spent on their 1972 candidates, particularly in light of the fact that Democrats had been indicating they were in need of funds."

Bish wrote the committee in response to Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas' earlier letter filing a formal complaint against Bish for alleged "intentional misrepresentation" of Democratic financial reports.

Last week, Bish said the Democrats were sitting on the $104,000 for use in Gov. J. James Exon's anticipated re-election campaign in 1974.

Bish included with Wednesday's letter a copy of the Democratic Party's financial report filed Oct. 16.

That statement lists $104,510.49 as "cash on hand.

Dyas says the $104,000 represents party receipts which have been and are being expended for party operations. The financial report lists expenditures only for candidates which, Dyas says, is all that is requested under the law.

The Dyas complaint, Bish said, "contains the very same campaign practices violation of which he accused me.

Bish said he is "prepared to defend (his own statement) on its own merit at any time and place or by any means designated by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

The Dyas complaint "reflects more of a political response designed to use the Fair Campaign Practices Committee as a medium for making access to the news columns and broadcasts for the purpose of expressing his point of view, and for maligning and vilifying me personally, then for the purpose of having an impartial evaluation and adjudication made of his complaint, Bish said.

Bish said the Republican Party files "complete and detailed reports in an effort to make it abundantly clear where our funds come from and where they are spent.

"This relieves the public of any suspicion they may have regarding political party finance, he said.

Suspension Of Liquor License Stayed By Order

Lancaster District Judge Sam Van Pelt Wednesday stayed a Liquor Control Commission order suspending the liquor license for "The Place," 3618 No. 30th, in Omaha for 90 days.

The action came in response to a suit filed by Patrick W. O'Connor, of Omaha the operator of the tavern. The suit claims the suspension was unsupported by competent and material evidence.

Council To Meet

The Nebraska Radiation Advisory Council to the State Health Department will meet Nov. 13 at 2 p.m. in the Lincoln Building third floor conference room.

Dr. Koefoot said the Cresap report on the university's management two years ago concluded that the overall management was sound. He said the specific recommendations that were made are being carried out.

Concern Expressed

He also said he is concerned "about what appears to be Mr. Batchelder's philosophy of education as applied to N.U. He was quoted as saying that the university should be involved only in job-oriented training. Nothing else. I submit that he wants to turn the university into a trade school.

"Somewhere the search for new knowledge and the means to put it into useful practice must take place. Somewhere our cultural heritage must be preserved . . . . The university has always played an important role in the state's economy, most visibly . . . in agriculture."

Dr. Koefoot said he questions "whether people want all that to go down the drain. We should be trying to move the university forward, not backward."

Earlier Wednesday Batchelder issued a campaign flyer in which he charged that UNO is running out of funds despite a 17.2% increase granted by the legislature for the current operating year. He blamed the situation on what he termed mismanagement by Varner of the University systems.

'Not True'

Hansen said the charge is not true, calling it "reprehensible and inaccurate."

Batchelder's flyer also said an emergency meeting was called Oct. 17 to discuss the problem and "apparently" it was decided not to reveal the situation to the public until after Nov. 7.

Hansen denied this, saying UNO Chancellor Ronald W. Roskens held one of his periodic meetings with the heads of departments that day to consider what to do about a drop in student credits hours for this semester. Roskens said Monday the UNO budget outlook is unclear because it's still awaiting a credit hour total from the N.U. computer network.

Going To Work With Your New Cold Disservice To People Around You

Omaha (AP) — You may have feelings of pride and self-sacrifice as you plug to work with your new-blown cold, but you are doing a disservice to the people around you a specialist in respiratory diseases said here Wednesday.

You would see a decrease in the number of colds if people would stay home for the first two or three days with their colds," said Dr. Donald F. Egan.

"When your nose is running and you're sneezing, you are a walking syringe of virus," said the physician, who heads the section of chest diseases at New Britain General Hospital in Connecticut.

A person is more likely to stay away from work when the cold has progressed to the deep coughing stage because that's when he feels worse. But by then you are less infectious to others, Dr. Egan said.

Because so many people are about with colds, Dr. Egan said, he advises patients with chronic lung problems to stay out of crowds during the winter.

"I encourage these patients to stay out of movies, to sit in the back pew in church and to avoid crowded buses if at all possible," he said.

Adding a cold to a chronic lung problem can result in a life threatening situation, he said. Some chronic patients wind up as patients in hospital intensive care units because of episodes which start with a cold, he said.

Chronic lung disorders are among the top two or three disabling conditions in the United States, and, at the rate they are increasing, may become No. 1.

Dr. Egan was among the speakers at the 40th anniversary assembly of the Omaha Mid-West Clinical Society, which concluded Wednesday.

Bish Says Statements Based On Demo Report

Republican State Chairman Milan Bish Wednesday told the Fair Campaign Practices Committee that his recent statements on Democratic Party finances were based on reports filed by Democratic officials.

"We have every reasonable right to rely on this notarized federal filing of the Democrat Party as being a true and open disclosure of their financial conditions," Bish wrote the committee.

"In light of this, when they showed $104,000 cash on hand 15 days before the election, money they had held since June 10, it was reasonable to assume that the money was not to be spent on their 1972 candidates, particularly in light of the fact that Democrats had been indicating they were in need of funds."

Bish wrote the committee in response to Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas' earlier letter filing a formal complaint against Bish for alleged "intentional misrepresentation" of Democratic financial reports.

Last week, Bish said the Democrats were sitting on the $104,000 for use in Gov. J. James Exon's anticipated re-election campaign in 1974.

Bish included with Wednesday's letter a copy of the Democratic Party's financial report filed Oct. 16.

That statement lists $104,510.49 as "cash on hand.

Dyas says the $104,000 represents party receipts which have been and are being expended for party operations. The financial report lists expenditures only for candidates which, Dyas says, is all that is requested under the law.

The Dyas complaint, Bish said, "contains the very same campaign practices violation of which he accused me.

Bish said he is "prepared to defend (his own statement) on its own merit at any time and place or by any means designated by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

The Dyas complaint "reflects more of a political response designed to use the Fair Campaign Practices Committee as a medium for making access to the news columns and broadcasts for the purpose of expressing his point of view, and for maligning and villifying me personally, then for the purpose of having an impartial evaluation and adjudication made of his complaint, Bish said.

Bish said the Republican Party files "complete and detailed reports in an effort to make it abundantly clear where our funds come from and where they are spent.

"This relieves the public of any suspicion they may have regarding political party finance, he said.

Community Of Syracuse Is Ready For Its Official Grand Reopening

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Syracuse — This Otoe County town of 1,560 was crushed March 16 when a fire destroyed five businesses at the west end of 5th St., the town's main business street.

Mrs. Erv Kehlenbeck, wife of the mayor and one of eight proprietors who will participate in Saturday's official grand reopening, remembers the evening vividly.

"It was a sad night, I'll tell you, to stand and watch a whole block burn," she recalls. "It crushed us a little bit. But you don't see many communities that have fires this big and build back this fast."

Mrs. Kehlenbeck's own Pat's Fashion Shoppe, a women's clothing store, is one of two brand-new establishments which have rushed in to fill the gap in Syracuse's commercial services.

The Fashion Shoppe occupies a new building on the site of the burned-out Reuter Shoe Store, the only one of five damaged firms to go out of business. Its owners, Edna Reuter and her brother Lester, were insured but decided not to rebuild.

The other new business, Nannen's Shoe Store across the street, quickly took up the Reuters' footwear business.

Four other five-damaged businesses have moved or rebuilt, including Jourdan's Radio Communications, the West End Lounge and Staack Furniture. The other, Hauschild Ford, has even expanded its space some 25%. Two other former businesses not damaged by the fire, Hill's Pharmacy and the Legion Club, have remodeled and will also participate in the Saturday ceremony.

All of the businesses have actually been open for some time except the West End Lounge, which will be ready just in time for Saturday. But all will celebrate their official "grand opening," in honor of the town's dramatic comeback, with drawings and giveaways throughout he day.

Next door to the Fashion Shoppe is Staack's Furniture, whose entire stock was heavily damaged by smoke and water. It has new stock now.

Jourdan's Radio Communications, destroyed by the blaze, moved into slightly smaller quarters a block off 5th St. and had to settle for a little less space, said Glenn Jourdan.

"It gives you a little more confidence in the community," concluded Mrs. Kehlenbeck. "It's the kind of town that always comes back."

Suspension Of Liquor License Stayed By Order

Lancaster District Judge Sam Van Pelt Wednesday stayed a Liquor Control Commission order suspending the liquor license for "The Place," 3618 No. 30th, in Omaha for 90 days.

The action came in response to a suit filed by Patrick W. O'Connor, of Omaha, the operator of the tavern. The suit claims the suspension was unsupported by competent and material evidence.

Expatriate American Poet Ezra Pound, 87, Dies In Italy

Venice, Italy (AP) — Ezra Pound, praised for his verse and vilified for his politics, died Wednesday night He had marked his 87th birthday Monday

The expatriate American poet, once indicted for treason for pro-Fascist broadcasts he made in Italy during World War II, had been hospitalized Tuesday at Saints John and Paul Hospital in Venice with an intestinal disorder

Pound paired a public life of shocking statements with an artistic one that produced intellectual poetry that some unfriendly critics said was deliberately obscure and incoherent.

For Who's Who he listed his principal amusement, as "the public taste"

When the treason indictment was dropped in 1958 and Pound was permitted to return to Italy, he said "I do not know how it would be possible to live in America outside a madhouse"

He had been declared mentally incompetent and had served 12 years in a Washington, D.C., mental hospital

Late in life—bone-thin, plagued by illness—the bearded author of the Pisan Cantos lapsed into self-imposed silence and his bitterness ebbed Ten years ago he told a rare interviewer he had reached "the age of doubt I have erred always and spoiled whatever came into contact with me.

Ezra Pound

"I know now that I no longer know anything I have become an illiterate literary man . . I am unable to think. I am aware only of my disconcerting uncertainty"

He steadfastly denied until his death that he was a traitor to his country.

Pound stayed in Italy after leaving the United States, dividing his time between an ancient castle at the foothills of the Alps and a residence in Venice

Pisan Cantos

As a poet, Pound was best known for the lengthy Pisan Cantos, a series of more than 100 songs in verse that combined cynicism and lament. He completed them in prison.

Pound also wrote experimental verse and literary criticism, and translated poetry by Italy's Dante Alighieri and other poets.

The poet called his Cantos an epic on the human comedy. American critic Edmund Wilson once called them "a monument . . . a kind of political bankruptcy."

Carl Sandburg once hailed Pound's work as "the greatest single influence on American poetry" But another poet said, "Ezra would rather perplex his readers than enchant them"

Prize Winner

While held in the Washington hospital, Pound was awarded the $1,000 Bollingen Prize by the Library of Congress for the Pisan Cantos, completed at a U.S. military prison near Pisa, Italy The award caused a congressional uproar.

The council of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences voted 13 to 9 last May against giving Pound a literary award.

Past winners of the academy's Emerson and Thoreau Prize have included poets T. S Eliot and Robert Frost.

Born of Quaker stock Oct 30, 1885, in Hailey, Idaho, Pound was educated at Hamilton College and the University of Pennsylvania. He taught briefly before leaving for Europe in 1907.

Wed A Shakespeare

In 1914 he married Dorothy Shakespeare, daughter of a British solicitor and a descendent of William Shakespeare's family

During his 38 years in England, France and Italy, Pound built a formidable reputation as a poet, editor, translator, critic and iconoclast, although his verse sometimes defied interpretation

In the summer of 1965, when he was nearly 80, Pound was invited to the annual Festival of Two Worlds at Spoleto to give poetry readings A microphone was brought to his seat and glumly, in a frail voice, he read poems by Robert Lowell Marianne Moore and some of his own translations from Dante He won an ovation The next day, in high spirits, he gave impromptu recitations and read three pages from his Pisan Cantos at a sidewalk restaurant table in Spoleto

New Jersey GOP Worker Says Segretti Approached Him

©The New York Times

New York — A New Jersey man says that Donald H Segretti told him last spring of the political espionage and disruption directed against Democratic presidential candidates in the Florida primary, holding up the tactics "as examples of what could be done to help re-elect President Nixon

Eric Joice, 23, of Fair Haven, said Segretti had approached him last April to ask for his help and had cited the Florida activities to illustrate what he meant

Democrats in Florida complained that bogus campaign literature and misleading press releases were sent out on various candidates' stationery during the primary race antagonizing voters and disrupting some public appearances

Segretti, a 31-year-old lawyer, was a college classmate of White House aide Dwight Chapin.

Joice said Segretti telephoned him in April and asked to have lunch with him The following day, the two spent 45 minutes together in a luncheonette, where Segretti posed not as a Nixon worker, Joice recalled, but "as a disinterested party almost, a person who had some money who was willing to use it to see that President Nixon got re-elected

The whole pitch was not so much for Nixon as anti-Democrats," Joice said "You didn't get the impression from him that you were expected to work for the President, just the deep dark fears of what would happen to the country if it fell into the hands of the Democrats"

Segretti seemed interested in the outcome of the New Jersey primary, according to Joice, although he never specified what it was he wanted the young man to do. He merely described the Florida effort, without saying that he was personally involved, and left the impression that he wanted similar tactics employed elsewhere, Joice said.

Joice, who headed the Students for the Re-Election of the President at the University of Miami and who is now a paid worker at Monmouth County Republican headquarters, said that he gave Segretti no sign he would help him, and as a result, Segretti never followed up the conversation

Joice declined to relate the specifics that he said Segretti had described in the Florida effort, but he said they were the same as those reported last week in the New York Times, involving false campaign literature and the like.

Segretti Wanted 'Radical-Looking' Youths, Lawyer Says

©The New York Times

Los Angeles —An Orange County lawyer Byron J Beam reported that Donald H Segretti had approached him last spring and asked if he knew any long-haired, "radical-looking" youths who might want to work at the Republican convention in San Diego and "have some fun" The convention was later shifted to Miami Beach

Beam said in an interview that Segretti was an old college friend They had lunch together last April and Segretti made his request for the long-haired youths, Beam said

Beam was uncertain what Segretti wanted the youths for but he remembers his friend mentioning "a few demonstrations" and "other activities that might be planned at the Republican Convention"

New Jersey GOP Worker Says Segretti Approached Him

©The New York Times

New York — A New Jersey man says that Donald H. Segretti told him last spring of the political espionage and disruption directed against Democratic presidential candidates in the Florida primary, holding up the tactics "as examples" of what could be done to help re-elect President Nixon.

Eric Joice, 23, of Fair Haven, said Segretti had approached him last April to ask for his help and had cited the Florida activities to illustrate what he meant.

Democrats in Florida complained that bogus camapign literature and misleading press releases were sent out on various candidates' stationery during the primary race, antagonizing voters and disrupting some public appearances.

Segretti, a 31-year-old lawyer, was a college classmate of White House aide Dwight Chapin.

Joice said Segretti telephoned him in April and asked to have lunch with him. The following day, the two spent 45 minutes together in a luncheonette, where Segretti posed not as a Nixon worker, Joice recalled, but "as a disinterested party almost, a person who had some money who was willing to use it to see that Prsident Nixon got re-elected.

"The whole pitch was not so much for Nixon as anti-Democrats," Joice said. "You didn't get the impression from him that you were expected to work for the President, just the deep dark fears of what would happen to the country if it fell into the hands of the Democrats."

Segretti seemed interested in the outcome of the New Jersey primary, according to Joice, although he never specified what it was he wanted the young man to do. He merely described the Florida effort, without saying that he was personally involved, and left the impression that he wanted similar tactics employed elsewhere, Joice said.

Joice, who headed the Students for the Re-Election of the President at the University of Miami and who is now a paid worker at Monmouth County Republican headquarters, said that he gave Segretti no sign he would help him, and as a result, Segretti never followed up the conversation.

Joice declined to relate the specifics that he said Segretti had described in the Florida effort, but he said they were the same as those reported last week in the New York Times, involving false campaign literature and the like.

Segretti Wanted 'Radical-Looking' Youths, Lawyer Says

©The New York Times

Los Angeles —An Orange County lawyer, Byron J. Beam, reported that Donald H. Segretti had approached him last spring and asked if he knew any long-haired, "radical--looking" youths who might want to work at the Republican convention in San Diego and "have some fun." The convention was later shifted to Miami Beach.

Beam said in an interview that Segretti was an old college friend. They had lunch together last April, and Segretti made his request for the long-haired youths, Beam said.

Beam was uncertain what Segretti wanted the youths for, but he remembers his friend mentioning "a few demonstrations" and "other activities that might be planned at the Republican Convention."

Adm. McCain Quietly Retires

Washington (UPI) — Adm. John S. McCain, Jr., former commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific, quietly retired from the Navy Wednesday after 41 years of active duty.

McCain, 61, ended his long career without ceremony. "He just didn't come to work today," said one close associate.

Snow Paralyzes Colorado

Denver (UPI) — A Halloween snowstorm paralyzed Colorado with 15 inches of snow Wednesday. Airline employes were trapped overnight at the Colorado Springs Airport and more than 15,000 federal employes, including Air Force officers, got the day off.

Lesser amounts of snow fell in Wyoming.

Stranded travelers clogged ticket counters at Stapleton International Airport at Denver, which closed at midday, trying to get flights. The Alamosa, Colo., airport also was shut down.

More than 40% of the public schools in the state shut down. Interstate highways were closed in all directions from Denver and officers at the Air Force Academy outside Colorado Springs got a half day off. Lowry Air Force Base at Denver was idled as was the fort.

POSTCARD by Stan Kallenberg

If you didn't know it, your grandma's feather boa is worth it's weight in gold these granny days.

Feather boas were a kind of feathery scarf. Worn around the neck. My grandmother wore one. Real feathers — it was before the days of ecology and synthetic fibers. Feathers grew only on real birds.

Today's chicks have returned to grandma's day: Granny glasses. Granny dresses. And hopefully —

"Feather boas," a granny shopkeeper girl told me. "I could sell a thousand feather boas if I could find them."

Alas, most feather boas went into storage in the attic. And when the house was sold, into the throwaway bag.

☆ ☆ ☆

A sunny noon in Sausalito — Marin County, California, home of the rock bands and hash pipe shops. Exotic Indian sex stimulants, four-letter word bumper stickers and underground newspapers offering erotic companionship

In a four-letter word, Sausalito is with" it.

Shaggies sunning in the little park Barefoot guitar players reaching for that far-out string note Sad young girls hustling today's fix for herself and the old man

Gift shops and art shops. Astrology books — do the stars have the answers for tomorrow? Where are the ostriches of yesterday? The bad-tempered birds who furnished the feathers.

☆ ☆ ☆

Arizona — ("Where the sunshine spends the winter") — was the prime supplier of feathers.

Today the state booms with electronics. Tourists, dude ranches and Navajo silver. Not so in other days. Before people discovered how wonderful the desert is, they filled their water bags and drove right on through to Los Angeles.

An early settler name of M. E Clanton decided to raise ostriches.

Ostrich feather boas were made by pulling wing and tail feathers from the ostrich. It must have been interesting for an ostrich can kick like a mile — no doubt the Arizona ostriches didn't care much for having their feathers pulled Nonetheless, the industry flourished. You could get two pounds of feathers a year from an ostrich.

Feathers sold at $20 a pound. You could graze four birds on an acre of alfalfa. This gave the ostrich rancher a return of $80 per acre. In the saguaro cactus desert, this was a blooming fortune.

☆ ☆ ☆

There were some expenses. You had to hire ostrich cowboys to watch the ostriches kick nest holes in the desert. Often kicked the cowboy too.

Ostrich cowboys got extra pay for such booting around.

By 1914 there were 8,000 ostriches, eating alfalfa, kicking cowboys and getting their feathers pulled.

☆ ☆ ☆

In Sausalito, the shopkeeper had one feather boa. "I wish I had a million."

Well, there were a million, I imagine, when one day all our grandmas decided they wouldn't be caught dead in a feather boa. (Females are a flighty bunch.)

The boas went up in the attic. The price of an ostrich in Arizona dropped from $400 to $5. The boom had bust.

The ostriches did not know this. They went right on eating expensive alfalfa and kicking expensive ostrich cowboys. By and by, the owners got mad and started kicking ostriches. They kicked them off the ranch into the desert.

The ostriches got mad and tried to get back to their green birdseed.

A few owners tried to put ostrich on restaurant menus. But nobody could figure how to get an ostrich into a frying pan.

The last thousand ostriches were shot and ground up for fertilizer.

And if the ostrich men had only held on until this golden day—. Well, boys, that's how Dad lost the ranch.

Education Board Election Could Shift Balance

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska's often-divided state Board of Education will find itself with at least two, and maybe three, new members after Tuesday's election.

Half the seats on the eight-member board are up for grabs next week, although one incumbent, Board President Frank Landis of Lincoln, faces no opposition and thus will be re-elected after having been on the board since 1954.

The even number of members has created problems in recent years because the board has found itself divided on a number of issues.

Among those splits were the 1969 firing of Education Commissioner Floyd Miller and last summer's series of 4-4 votes which resulted in a first-ever decision not to recommend any amount for state aid to education

Unable to agree on how much above the current $35 million level state aid should be raised, the board simply decided to leave the decision to the legislature.

The board division has centered along conservative-moderate lines but it appears to be evenly split again and thus next week's balloting could again shift the balance of power

Aside from Landis, only one incumbent is seeking another four-year term. In the fourth district, 75-year-old Reynolds farmer Lloyd Wright faces stiff opposition from state Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt, prevented by last year's reapportionment from seeking another Unicameral term.

In the other two districts, the seats are vacant, with Patrick Cooney of Omaha running for Congress on the Democratic ticket and Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk seeking election to the government board of the Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College Board.

In the second district, opponents for Cooney's seat are John Adair, district manager of the Denver-Geppert company and a founder of the preschool Montessori education center; and R Jerry Hargitt, general traffic manager for the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Competing in the third district race for Burkhardt's spot on the board are Walter Moller, Wayne real estate man and Mrs. Velma Price, publisher of the Newman Grove Reporter newspaper.

The state aid issue has been a factor in all the three district campaigns thus far and is expected to be one of the main issues in the 1973 legislative session with a number of differing bills expected to be offered

Adair says the current aid level "is not enough," although adding "money alone is not the only thing" involved in quality education. Hargitt also supports an aid increase to "somewhere in the $70 million level."

An increase in aid "is going to have to come about," says Moller, although he also cites the need for accompanying property tax relief. Mrs. Price feels state aid should be held to "a reasonable level" which she says she would not want to "get too high."

Both Wright and Waldo have said on occasion they support changes in the present state aid set-up.

Wright has also based his campaign on the need for additional vocational education and has been elected as the board's representative to the state Board of Technical Community Colleges.

Waldo says he feels the board should develop quality education "at a minimum cost in tax dollars."

Hargitt has also made increased vocational-technical education a part of his campaign while Adair suggests public schools "ignore 70 per cent of the time that a child grows and develops" during the preschool years.

Moller feels the education department should become more active in making local school districts aware of "good and tried" innovations developed by other schools.

Mrs. Price says she is stressing "local control" during her campaign.

From a famous bulb grower near Amsterdam in Holland. When I visited their bulb fields they reminded me that people in this country should:
"Plant nu en geniet van prachtbloemen in het Voorjaar"

Actually, these Dutch Bulbs can be successfully planted up until the time the ground freezes heavily. The weather may be cold and disagreeable then, but any hardy man or woman who can sit thru a football game in a cold stadium, can get this planting done. Over 94.5 Million Voters Registered

©The New York Times

Washington — More than 94.5 million Americans—an increase of some 13 million since 1968—are registered to vote in next Tuesday's presidential election, according to a New York Times analysis of preliminary registration data.

Moreover, the analysis showed, the proportion of adults registered is almost certain to surpass that in 1968, when 68.1% of the voting-age population was registered.

The proportion this year, the Times analysis indicated, was 67.7%, judging only from the often-obsolete state figures now available. Even these could be ascertained only after an exhaustive survey by Congressional Quarterly.

When subsequent registration is included, the registration rate is likely to go well above the 1968 figure.

What the same figures also dramatize is how much of a barrier registration is to voting.

They show that nearly a third of the voting-age population—some 44 million people—will be ineligible to vote Tuesday because of failure or inability to register.

This is true even after a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 and court-ordered reforms easing residency and other registration requirements.

The potentially massive new youth vote has been a major target of Sen. George McGovern's campaign. His strategists have hoped for a sizable margin among first-time voters, aged 18 to 24, with one adviser foreseeing a margin of 8 million.

The Democratic nominee could benefit substantially from late registration drives whose effects are not reflected in the preliminary data and thus are not yet known.

But if current poll findings are accurate, it now appears that McGovern will run about even among first-time voters with President Nixon.

The young voters appear to have registered at about the same rate as their elders. Survey analysts estimate that among college youth, the proportion is 80%, among non-college youth about 55%. Taken together, these estimates would produce a 63% youth registration rate.

The national rate of 68.1% in 1968 is based on findings by the Republican National Committee and other organizations. The voting-age population then was estimated at 120.4 million and the number registered at 82 million.

This year, the Census Bureau estimates that 139.6 million persons will be of voting age by election day. The national survey of preliminary figures by Congressional Quarterly indicates that at least 94.5 million are registered.

In some states, the proportion of persons registered is well above the national average of 67.7%. It exceeds 80%, according to the Times analysis, in Idaho, Indiana, Maine, South Dakota and West Virginia.

In three states, according to the obsolete totals they reported to Congressional Quarterly, the rate was between 50 and 60%—Nevada, New Hampshire and Texas. The same was true of the District of Columbia.

The registration in New York was 63.3%, a little lower than the national rate. In Connecticut, it was 71.8, a little higher. New Jersey's 67.1 rate was about the national average.

Even a 67.7% national registration rate does not mean that all 94.5 million-plus registered persons will vote. In 1968, only 73 million of the 82 million registered persons in fact voted.

Should those registered go to the polls at the same rate next Tuesday, the total turnout would be about 84.8 million.

The difficulties of compiling total registration figures experienced by Congressional Quarterly reflect the welter of different shale registration rules, dates and methods of reporting.

In seven states, there are no statewide figures available at all. The Times analysis imputed to them the average registration rate found in the other 43 states.

Other states reported figures going back to the spring and even, in the case of South Dakota and Utah, to 1970.

Estimates of registration by party are even more difficult. Only 25 states were able to furnish figures by party and many of these were incomplete.

The estimate of how first-time voters would divide were based on survey figures showing that, of 25.7 million persons aged 18 to 24, a third have college background and two-thirds do not.

According to the last Times-Yankelovich political survey, the college group favors McGovern, 51 to 43, while the non-college group favors Nixon, 49 to 44.

Lincoln High Dismissal Attended By Policemen

Lincoln Police officers were on hand as classes were dismissed at Lincoln High School Wednesday afternoon, but no serious incidents occurred.

A group of about 10 to 15 black students had gathered in a hallway near the student lounge when 1:30 classes dismissed. The lounge was closed for the day.

According to Inspector Sawdon, Lincoln High principal William Bogar told them they would have to leave when 2:30 classes dismissed, and that the students did leave without resistance at 2:30, when requested to do so by police.

At that time there were six to eight officers in the school building.

Two juveniles, one 17, the other 16, have been turned over to Lancaster Juvenile Court for their alleged involvement in an assault on principal Bogar Tuesday.

Lincoln police were also questioning a youth Wednesday in connection with an assault on James R. Weygint, a student at Lincoln High. Weygint told police that he was attacked as he left school Tuesday afternoon.

Inspector Sawdon said two of Weygint's front teeth were knocked out.

Students at the school Wednesday said that several fights had taken place during the day, but police said they had received no report on any assaults.

NU Professor Sees A New Trend Towards Architecture With 'Feeling'

Modern architecture has begun in the last year to bow to the "emergence of a new kind of architecture based not on style but on environmental design."

Goal of the new direction would "not simply create an environment," said Prof. Dale Gibbs. It aims at function as well as evoking other kinds of responses — feeling, for example.

Gibbs, professor of environmental design at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, explained the new movement to about 60 Lincoln civic leaders whose professions are as diversified as the program that brought Gibbs before them.

His appearance Wednesday was the second of six in the Sheldon Gallery Luncheon Series, a program on the arts sponsored by the Nebraska Art Association.

The series brings experts such as Gibbs, also an architect, before the group to promote enthusiasm and a broadening interest in art.

Norman Geske, gallery director, introduced a depression-era painting by Georgia O'Keeffe, an American artist of international stature. Her painting, "New York Night," depicts her reaction to the urban scene, which tied in with Gibbs' presentation as another regular feature of the series.

In discussing urban design as it affects one's life, Gibbs said functional architecture, prevalent for at least 50 years, tried to establish an ideal relationship between utility and beauty. But it hardened into a line of order or its appearance, he said.

For years, Gibbs said, prevailing architectural thought represented the main thrust of American society, industry. The result was long, sleek buildings.

The emerging approach Gibbs sees has three bases: Awareness of environmental relationships "which must be kept in balance," development of less subjective, sophisticated design methods, and "awareness to seek solutions to urban design in their context."

He said he foresees a greater sense of humility wherein architecture as such no longer remains the primary element. It would incorporate elegance with efficiency and artistry, and would satisfy pragmatic needs while realizing some kind of ideal.

Gibbs, winner of the University Foundation's distinguished teacher award, will teach architecture for six months at the University of London in an exchange program beginning in January.

Luncheon series patrons last month heard a discussion about the art of printmaking.

Series topics in future months include "The American Landscape" by Alan Gussow, a nationally known author and artist concerned about preservation of the natural environment; and "Conservation of Art Collections" by James Roth, conservator of Kansas City's Nelson Gallery.

Officials Pessimistic On Return Of Hijackers

Washington (UPI) — The State Department said Wednesday it is not encouraged by Cuba's initial response to its request for the return of four airplane hijackers who left a trail of death on their way to Havana.

Spokesman Charles W. Bray said Cuba's formal reply to Washington's informal request raised "some questions which we are now pondering." But he said "we do not draw any initial encouragement from the reply."

The note from Havana reportedly said the four hijackers — two of them accused of murdering a policeman and a bank official during an attempted holdup in Arlington, Va., last week — were under arrest. The Pirates also killed an airline clerk in Houston before taking an Eastern jet and its passengers to Havana Sunday.

Burden Of Guilt

It was reported, meanwhile, that one of the four, Charles W. Tuller, a 48-year-old ex-government executive, suffered from a burden of guilt brought on by the death of his younger brother 40 years ago.

Tuller's background was detailed by Edward J. Dwight Jr., of Denver, described as one of his closest friends, in an interview with the Washington Star-News.

Tuller and one of his sons, Bryce, 19, were charged with murder and attempted bank robbery in the Arlington holdup. The FBI said the two also took part in the hijacking.

Dwight, a black who was once an astronaut-trainee before he quit alleging racial discrimination, said Tuller often recounted that his father's last words before dying were: "I never forgave you and I never will."

When he was 9, Tuller had raced across a highway in New Jersey to greet his father while his four-year-old brother lagged behind and was killed by a truck.

"I'm a murderer. My father said so, Dwight quoted Tuller as saying.

Dwight also confirmed what a colleague of Tuller at the Commerce Department said — "It bugged him that he was born white.

On the hijacked Eastern Airlines jet from Houston Sunday passengers said one gunman lectured them on race relations, Cuba and revolution.

Tuller's co-workers in Washington told UPI that he was "a beautiful person" and a good boss, but that in recent months he had been getting short-tempered and physically weak because of diabetes.

Government Won't Press Bomb Charge

New York (AP) — Federal bomb conspiracy charges against antiwar activist Leslie Bacon will be dropped by the federal government to avoid disclosing the contents of sealed wiretaps, authorities said Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, who had ordered the government to disclose the surveillance material Wednesday or face contempt, was advised by the U.S. attorney's office that the case would be dismissed in the near future.

Ryan gave Asst. U.S. Attorney Richard J. Davis until this Friday to file the dismissal papers.

Miss Bacon, 21, Atherton, Calif., had been charged with conspiracy to fire-bomb a First National City Bank branch here nearly two years ago.

Miss Bacon was arrested 18 months ago and held as a material witness in the bombing of the Capitol building in Washington in March 1971.

She was indicted on perjury charges in connection with her grand jury testimony about the Capitol bombing. But the Justice Department last summer dropped those charges rather than disclose the contents of its wiretaps.

In the charge involving the First National City branch at Madison Avenue and 91st Street, Miss Bacon was accused along with five others. The five were arrested outside the bank and later pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to commit arson.

New Member To Be Named By Full Board Of Education

The Lincoln Board of Education will be back at full strength Tuesday, when the board will appoint a new member to succeed Robert Magee.

Board President Marvin Stewart said Wednesday that the appointment will be made during a board meeting set to begin at 8 a.m.

He did not reveal the identity of the person who will be named to the post.

The board, since Magee's resignation several weeks ago, has met several times to deliberate on the matter of the appointment. The last meeting was a brief one Tuesday evening.

Stewart said last week the board was taking considerable time in order to reach unanimity on an appointee.

Candidates Will Participate In 'Political Party' Program

Over 40 candidates for state and national office are expected to participate in a unique "Political Party" program Friday, according to Joel Fowler, senior producer of public affairs for the Nebraska ETV Network.

The live program will originate from the Lincoln studios beginning at 8 p.m. and will feature informal statements by candidates, voting tips, a young voter rap session, and a statewide free phone-in on issues.

During the program viewers will be invited to call in toll-free to the Nebraska ETV Network in Lincoln to have their votes recorded on four issues including the Vietnam war, taxes and the economy, foreign policy, and the balance of power between executive and legislative branches of the federal government.

Fowler said viewers will be asked to rank these four topics in order of importance to them or to add other issues they consider more important. Results will be tallied by League of Women Voter members and will be reported periodically throughout the program.

Omaha National Bank Turns Over Mortgage Loans To Realbanc, Inc.

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha National Bank has turned its mortgage loan operations over to a newly-formed company, Realbanc, Inc., according to Board Chairman Morris F. Miller.

Realbanc is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Omaha National Corp., a holding company formed in 1968 which owns the bank and Travel and Transport, Inc., Miller said.

The new mortgage banking company was formed to "free Omaha National's mortgage operations from restrictions of the national banking law," he said.

Miller said, for example, that a commercial banking company is prohibited from making loans on "raw ground" for real estate development, but a mortgage banking firm can.

"There are a number of other mortgage companies operating here and now we will be able to compete with them," Miller said.

Keith L. Morphew, formerly vice president in charge of the loan department, is president and board chairman of the new company.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again . . Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Over 94.5 Million Voters Registered

©The New York Times

Washington — More than 94.5 million Americans—an increase of some 13 million since 1968—are registered to vote in next Tuesday's presidential election, according to a New York Times analysis of preliminary registration data.

Moreover, the analysis showed, the proportion of adults registered is almost certain to surpass that in 1968, when 68.1% of the voting-age population was registered.

The proportion this year, the Times analysis indicated, was 67.7%, judging only from the often-obsolete state figures now available. Even these could be ascertained only after an exhaustive survey by Congressional Quarterly.

When subsequent registration is included, the registration rate is likely to go well above the 1968 figure.

What the same figures also dramatize is how much of a barrier registration is to voting.

They show that nearly a third of the voting-age population—some 44 million people—will be ineligible to vote Tuesday because of failure or inability to register.

This is true even after a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 and court-ordered reforms easing residency and other registration requirements.

The potentially massive new youth vote has been a major target of Sen. George McGovern's campaign. His strategists have hoped for a sizable margin among first-time voters, aged 18 to 24, with one adviser foreseeing a margin of 8 million.

The Democratic nominee could benefit substantially from late registration drives whose effects are not reflected in the preliminary data and thus are not yet known.

But if current poll findings are accurate, it now appears that McGovern will run about even among first-time voters with President Nixon.

The young voters appear to have registered at about the same rate as their elders. Survey analysts estimate that among college youth, the proportion is 80%, among non-college youth about 55%. Taken together, these estimates would produce a 63% youth registration rate.

The national rate of 68.1% in 1968 is based on findings by the Republican National Committee and other organizations. The voting-age population then was estimated at 120.4 million and the number registered at 82 million.

This year, the Census Bureau estimates that 139.6 million persons will be of voting age by election day. The national survey of preliminary figures by Congressional Quarterly indicates that at least 94.5 million are registered.

In some states, the proportion of persons registered is well above the national average of 67.7%. It exceeds 80%, according to the Times analysis, in Idaho, Indiana, Maine, South Dakota and West Virginia.

In three states, according to the obsolete totals they reported to Congressional Quarterly, the rate was between 50 and 60%—Nevada, New Hampshire and Texas. The same was true of the District of Columbia.

The registration in New York was 63.3%, a little lower than the national rate. In Connecticut, it was 71.8, a little higher. New Jersey's 67.1 rate was about the national average.

Even a 67.7% national registration rate does not mean that all 94.5 million-plus registered persons will vote. In 1968, only 73 million of the 82 million registered persons in fact voted.

Should those registered go to the polls at the same rate next Tuesday, the total turnout would be about 84.8 million.

The difficulties of compiling total registration figures experienced by Congressional Quarterly reflect the welter of different shale registration rules, dates and methods of reporting.

In seven states, there are no statewide figures available at all. The Times analysis imputed to them the average registration rate found in the other 43 states.

Other states reported figures going back to the spring and even, in the case of South Dakota and Utah, to 1970.

Estimates of registration by party are even more difficult. Only 25 states were able to furnish figures by party and many of these were incomplete.

The estimate of how first-time voters would divide were based on survey figures showing that, of 25.7 million persons aged 18 to 24, a third have college background and two-thirds do not.

According to the last Times-Yankelovich political survey, the college group favors McGovern, 51 to 43, while the non-college group favors Nixon, 49 to 44.

Lincoln High Dismissal Attended By Policemen

Lincoln Police officers were on hand as classes were dismissed at Lincoln High School Wednesday afternoon, but no serious incidents occurred.

A group of about 10 to 15 black students had gathered in a hallway near the student lounge when 1:30 classes dismissed. The lounge was closed for the day.

According to Inspector Sawdon, Lincoln High principal William Bogar told them they would have to leave when 2:30 classes dismissed, and that the students did leave without resistance at 2:30, when requested to do so by police.

At that time there were six to eight officers in the school building.

Two juveniles, one 17, the other 16, have been turned over to Lancaster Juvenile Court for their alleged involvement in an assault on principal Bogar Tuesday.

Lincoln police were also questioning a youth Wednesday in connection with an assault on James R. Weygint, a student at Lincoln High. Weygint told police that he was attacked as he left school Tuesday afternoon.

Inspector Sawdon said two of Weygint's front teeth were knocked out.

Students at the school Wednesday said that several fights had taken place during the day, but police said they had received no report on any assaults.

Pheasant Opener Close

It's almost pheasant season (finally) and from the looks of things, Nebraskans may find one of the better seasons yet.

A short scouting ride in the country over the past weekend convinced this writer that the pheasants appear to be more numerous than last year and last year, as most hunters found out, was a very good season for bagging the wily Ringneck.

Just a few short miles south of Lincoln, the birds seemed to be taking advantage of harvested fields, and in thick brush west of Roca, the birds seemed to be holding tight, moving deeper into the brush, but not taking to wing when approached.

Other reports from different areas of the state by individuals searching for hunting spots tend to agree. The pheasants and quail are there for the taking.

Goose Season Reopening

With the reopening of goose season Thursday, hunters have an opportunity to add the Canadian to their larder that they may have missed during the first half of the split season.

The first half of the season was a disappointment to a lot of hunters due to the fine weather, but recent cold snaps on the Canadian wetlands have sent the flocks southward towards warmer ground and hunters should fare a little better.

Despite the success of a few hunters during the opener, it seemed there were more who failed in putting goose on the Sunday table.

"We tried four or five times during the first half of the season," Bill Jannissen says, "but the weather was too much against us

"One time up near Branched Oak Lake, we thought we might have it made when we found our blind surrounded by heavy fog, but when the sun came out, it went away and the flights never came in to our decoys," he explains. "This time, it should be a lot better.'

Jannissen's hunting partner, Doug Leaven agrees.

"I went out and checked a few fields north of Lincoln and found some snows out in the middle," he offers. "I think that cold snap up north has started them our way. About another week and they should be coming in pretty heavy"

Both agree that last year was only a mild success, but each express optimism for the rest of this season.

"We didn't have what you'd call a real lot of birds last year." Jannissen says. "But we still managed to get a few Canadians towards the end of the season

"So far this year, we've only managed to get one goose, but I think that'll pick up and we'll have a better season than last year's"

A Full Day Ahead

Jannissen and Leaven say they're going to take full advantage of the two seasons Saturday, planning their goose hunting for early morning, then moving on to pheasant in the afternoon.

"First, we plan on getting a good night's sleep Friday," Leaven grins. "That Saturday's going to really mean work for us. We think we've got a good chance to collect our limits on both pheasants and goose."

"I'm not looking forward to all that walking," Jannissen says, "but I'm not going to sit in the car while he has all the fun."

"If we're not too tired after walking the fields, we might even go a little further south and see if we can't find us a covey or two of quail also," Leaven offers.

But that drew a short comment from Jannissen.

"I don't know," he mused. "That's an awful lot of hunting for one day."

Cherry Rises From Obscurity To Prominence

Columbia, Mo. (AP)— One of the factors in Missouri's back-to-back upsets over Notre Dame and Colorado and its subsequent rise to 16th in the football poll is the development of quarterback John Cherry.

Before the season, the 22-year-old, 193-pounder was an unknown transfer from Oklahoma A and M Junior College. During the first five games he completed only 31 per cent of his passes.

Against Notre Dame and Colorado he hit on 11 of 19 for 193 yards and played every offensive down for the Tigers, running for key yardage and operating Mizzou's Wishbone T well.

"At the beginning of the year I'd go up to the line of scrimmage thinking through the plays, trying not to make a mistake," said the St. Louisan. "I was playing cautious football and you can't play that way.

"You have to go up there and react, and that's what I'm doing now," Cherry said. "Every play in every game is different, as things come you just have to react to them."

At Pattonville High in suburban St. Louis he played for a team that won only five games in three years. His grades didn't qualify him for a major college scholarship so he went to junior college in Miami, Okla., and led Northeastern to the national championship one year.

Cherry worked out of a pro-set formation and established a reputation as a passer. He didn't start working with the Wishbone until last spring but he likes it now.

"It's fantastic," he said. "There are so many things you can do off it."

Cherry thinks the Nebraska defeat had a beneficial effect.

"Getting beat 62-0 was really embarrassing. We were just humiliated. You don't want to be embarrassed in big-time football," he said. "We didn't play a good game, and we were just looking forward to playing our next game."

He said reaction to the Tigers' 30-26 upset of Notre Dame helped them in the Colorado game, which they won 20-17.

"We got a couple of letters from Notre Dame fans saying it was a fluke, that the only reason we won was because the game was played on a wet field," Cherry said.

About the rest of the season"

"We have to take our games one by one, "he said. "We have been what you'd call an unpredictable team.

"In the back of your mind you always think about going to a bowl.

What about going into Saturday's game against Kansas State as a favorite

"Being a favorite is something different," Cherry said but noted Missouri also was favored in the Baylor game.

"You know what happened there — 27-0." The Tigers lost.

Omaha — Jumping to a commanding early lead, the New York Knicks rolled past the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, 122-85 in a National Basketball Association contest before 5,888 here Wednesday night at Civic Auditorium.

New York, runnerup to Los Angeles in last season's NBA playoffs, zoomed to 6-0, 14-2 and 18-6 advantages and never trailed. The Kings fell to an overall 3-6 record and 0-2 in at Civic Auditorium.

One bright spot for coach Bob Cousy's Kings was Johnny Green joining only two other NBA players who have participated in 1,000 NBA games Green entered the contest with 3:05 remaining in the second quarter

While the Knicks were hitting early, the Kings were kept outside and had trouble making baskets consistently.

The Kings drew within four points, 21-17, near the end of the first period. Then the Knicks scored six straight points to pull away.

The Kings threatened on several other occasions, but were unable to pull even. The Knicks pulled away midway through the third quarter by scoring eight unanswered points in stretching a 65-55 lead to a bulging 73-55 cushion.

At the beginning of the last period, Knick coach Red Holzman pulled his starters but the score continued to mount. Dean Meminger led the Knicks' asssault in the last quarter and finished with 21 points

Meminger is no stranger to fans here as he played his collegiate basketball with Marquette. The Milwaukee team appears here every two years against Creighton.

The Knicks' highly-touted defense was mainly responsible for containing the Kings.

Both the Knicks' Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere were on the NBA's all-star defensive team last year. The Knicks held the NBA's leading scorer Nate Archibald of the Kings to 19 points.

Archibald had been averaging about 35 points per game and teammate Tom Van Arsdale, who has been averaging about 20 points a game, was held to 10 points.

The Knicks got balanced scoring with Frazier adding 22, Earl Monroe 19, DeBusschere 13 and Bill Bradley 16 in addition to Meminger's 21.

Archibald was the top scorer for the Kings with his 19 with Ron Riley adding 12.

The Kings' next game here will be Wednesday against the Philadelphia 76ers.

Dickey Recovery Termed 'Good'

Houston (UPI) — Quarterback Lynn Dickey has been hospitalized for treatment on a cut nerve resulting from a dislocated hip operation, coach Bill Peterson of the Houston Oilers said Wednesday.

Dickey, a second-year player from Kansas State, was injured in an exhibition game with St. Louis Aug 24. He required surgery and was lost for the season.

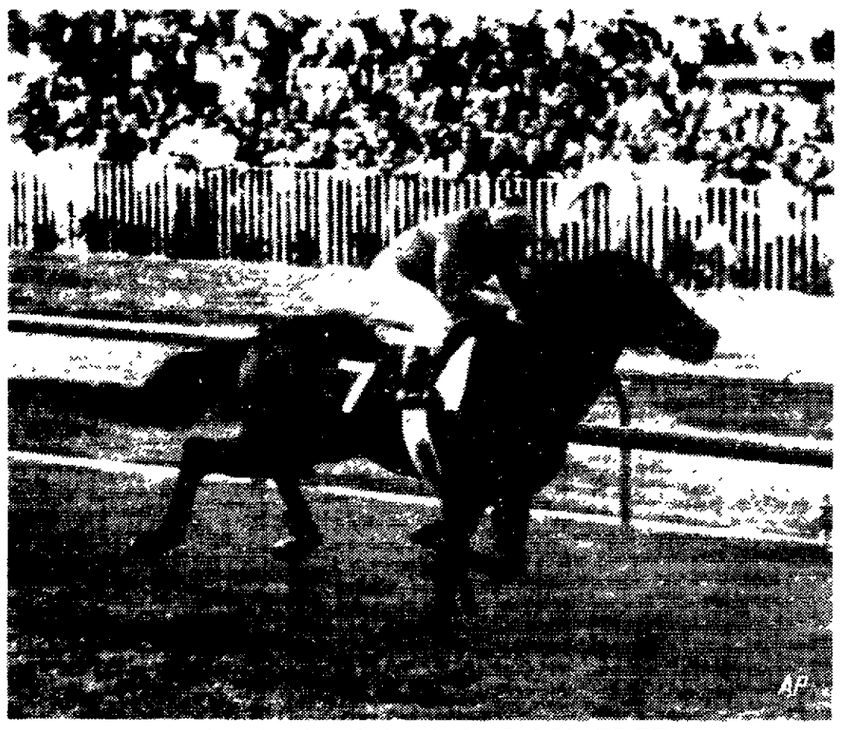

"The operation was very successful," Peterson said. "The problem is a cut nerve that pains him very badly. They are trying to block that pain."

Parker, Lefebvre Receive Honors For Drug Work

Chicago (AP) — Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre, both Los Angeles Dodger players, Wednesday received the first YMCA Brian Piccolo Award for their work in drug prevention among teen-agers.

Parker and Lefebvre, on their own expense and time, for the past two years have campaigned against drugs in schools, clubs and other youth groups.

Mrs. Joy Piccolo, widow of the late Chicago Bear football player who died of cancer, made the presentation.

Occult Doesn't Figure Around Huskers' Mental Awareness

. . . BUFFS POSE NEW TACTICAL PROBLEM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Colorado football coach Eddie Crowder remarked Tuesday that Nebraska does the best job of any team in the country at being "up" for every game it plays.

Nebraska coach Bob Devaney Wednesday brushed aside the suggestion that there was any magical secret to that Husker trait and recalled, "We weren't up very good for that UCLA game."

But in general he agreed that the Huskers did manage to be mentally ready most of the time when they take to the playing field on a Saturday afternoon.

"This team for the last three or four years has seemed to stay up," he pointed out. "That's due some to the fact that they have a lot of pride in thinking that they're the best team in the country and they want to prove it every week

"And after that loss to UCLA, they know that the only way they can prove that they're the best is to be ready to play every week."

Another factor could be that the Huskers under Devaney have never left their game on the practice field.

"We don't believe in beating our players up in practice," Devaney noted. "We run them a lot to keep them in shape, but we don't have them banging away at each other.

"We have never scrimmaged our top two units once the season starts."

The mental approach shouldn't be a problem for the upcoming game at Colorado, but Devaney pointed the Buffaloes will present his defense with a new tactical problem

"Colorado not only is the best team we will have faced thus far," he observed, "But they will be the first team that will run right at us.

"With wishbone teams, you face a lot of lateral movement, but not much running that comes right at you and with Charlie Davis and Bo Matthrews, they've got two powerful backs, who can hurt you by running right at you.

"That's one of the things about defensing the wishbone. If you can get that back while he's going laterally and before he has a chance to cut upfield, there's no gain.

"But, for instance, from our I formation, there are times where you think the back has been stopped for no gain, but because he's going straight at the defense and not running laterally, when they mark the ball, he's gained three yards."

Playing Way West

The Cornhusker Marching Band, which will perform at halftime of Saturday's Nebraska-Colorado football game, will play its way west.

The NU Band will leave Lincoln by bus at 7 a.m. Friday, playing for a school dedication at 10 a.m at Ansley and at halftime of the Bridgeport at Kimball high school football game Friday night.

—ISU'S STRACHAN PACES RUSHERS—

Humm, Rodgers, Sanger Leading Big Eight Statistics

KANSAS CITY (AP) —Mike Strachan, the Iowa State sensation, is almost making a runaway of the Big Eight Conference football rushing race.

Strachan, who started the season playing second fiddle to Jerry Moses, has carried the ball 136 times for 841 yards and a game average of 140 2 yards, the Big Eight Service Bureau reported Wednesday.

Charlie Davis of Colorado is second with a 98.1 yard game average, having rushed for 785 yards on 161 attempts, and Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, third, 81 7 game average yards on 82 rushes for 490

Dave Humm of Nebraska still holds a slight edge over Dave Jaynes of Kansas in passing Humm has connected on 89 of 162 pitches for 1,498 yards and 13 touchdowns and leads the league with an average gain of 214 yards a game

Jaynes has 101 completions on 189 tosses for 1,466 and a 209.4-yard average. Iowa State's George Amundson has 76 of 150 for 1,047 yards and a 174 5 average

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers is the top receiver. He has caught 34 passes for 645 yards and his catches per game average 4.9. Kansas State's John Goerger, 38 catches for 400 yards, is right behind Rodgers with 4.8 and Bruce Adams of Kansas another step away with 32 for 590 and 4.6.

Amundson is out front in total offense with an average game production of 227 yards and is followed by Humm, 208 yards, and Jaynes, 194.

Pruitt leads all scorers. He has crossed the goal 12 times and has a two point conversion for 74 points or 12.3 points a game Rodgers, with 66 points, is behind him with a 9.4 point game average. Davis, also with 66, has averaged 8.3 points

Rich Sanger of Nebraska leads in kick scoring and punting. The toe of the Cornhuskers has converted on 43 of 45 extra point attempts and made four of 11 field goal tries for 55 points for 7.9 points per game.

Sanger's punting log shows 23 for 970 yards, an average of 42.2.

Colorado's Steve Haggerty has taken over the punt return lead with 20 returns for 309 yards and a 15.5 yard average. Mike Fink of Missouri is tops in kickoff returns, 13 for 268 and a 20 6-yard average.

The most interceptions have been made by Oklahoma's Darryll Stewart, who has seven and returned them 109 yards

—KU COACH FAVORS JV PROGRAM—

Freshman Football Efforts Alter Fambrough's Outlook

Lawrence, Kan (AP) — "I've completely changed my thinking on freshmen players," says Kansas University football coach Don Fambrough.

"I didn't think freshmen would be able to compete on the varsity level, but I've been proved wrong."

Kurk Knoff and Steve Taylor, defensive backs, and Bob Swift, a kickoff specialist, all yearlings, have seen extensive varsity duty at KU this year Fambrough also points to the fine play of Kerry Jackson and Joe Washington, two freshmen who have logged a lot of time with the Oklahoma first unit.

This reversal of thinking has caused Fambrough to come to the conclusion that freshmen teams should be eliminated and junior varsity competition installed. He thinks a seven or eight game JV schedule could be worked out.

The coach said he knew such a program would cost more money than the current four-game freshmen schedule but he thought in the case of Kansas, a junior varisty team could play Kansas State and Missouri twice, perhaps Witchita State and some junior colleges.

Fambrough said his thinking is based on the fact that now that freshmen can compete on the varisty level, a junior varsity program would allow more players to participate in the sport.

Under his proposal, all junior varsity games would be played on Mondays. All players who did not compete in the varsity game the previous Saturday would be eligible, no matter what class rank.

Red-shirted players—those who are held out of competition one year—pose a problem Fambrough admits he hasn't solved. He said he hasn't gone deep enough into his plan to keep red-shirting as it is or to count junior varsity play as red-shirting.

"I know that if we had such a program at the time of our game with Kansas State, we could have had a game-experienced quarterback available when Dave Jaynes got hurt," Fambrough said.

Huskers Favored By Only 2-1 Margin To Beat Buffs

. . . UPI PICKER FAVORS COLORADO

United Press International

In some sporting leagues, the accepted cliche is that a loss in the first week of the season is just as vital as one in the closing weeks.

This doesn't quite stand up in college football, however, and as the national powerhouses rev up for their final run at conference championships and desired bowl berths, they are aware that a single loss the rest of the way can cost them their whole season's effort There is just no time left to make up for a mistake

Nebraska, ranked third in this week's ratings, is the team on the spot this Saturday. The Cornhuskers overcame a season-opening loss to UCLA to outscore their next six opponents, 315-14, and climb back into national prominence with a 6-1 record. They also lead the Big Eight Conference with a 3-0 mark.

But our regional forecaster in the Midlands, Charlie Smith, foresees another loss for Nebraska in Saturday's meeting with Colorado, which was upset itself last week against Missouri.

Smith's Big Eight forecasts:

Colorado 17, Nebraska 14 — A man could go broke in a hurry betting against the Cornhuskers, but if Colorado can whip Oklahoma in Boulder, so can Nebraska be beaten. Besides, the Cornhuskers' running attack is suspect

Kansas State 21, Missouri 17 —Oh, what a fall it will be after two weeks in the clouds, but the Tigers' bubble is due to be burst.

Oklahoma 34, Iowa State 21 —This is Oklahoma's last big hurdle before the Thanksgiving date with Nebraska and the Sooners don't figure to muff it.

Oklahoma State 31, Kansas 14 —The Jayhawks are going downhill and there's little reason to expect the slide to stop this week

. . . NISSENSON PICKS HUSKERS

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

New York (AP) — Can Colorado do to Nebraska on Saturday what it did to Oklahoma two weeks ago?

The unpredictable Buffaloes, who seem to be involved in an upset in one way or another just about every week, entertain the third-ranked but once-beaten Cornhuskers this weekend with a chance to destroy once and for all their dream of an unprecedented third consecutive national college football championship

Colorado has been a puzzlement, struggling past lowly California in the opening game, losing to underdogs Oklahoma State and Missouri but defeating highly ranked Oklahoma and Iowa State

Nebraska, on the other hand, has outscored its last six opponents 315-14 after dropping its opener to UCLA In addition, the Cornhuskers are second nationally in total offense, third in passing, first in scoring, tops in total defense — including four straight shutouts — eighth in rushing defense, sixth in pass defense and third in scoring defense. Colorado isn't among the leaders in any of those categories.

Nebraska's Bob Devaney doesn't lose many games and he's never lost in Boulder The pick . . Nebraska.

Other Big Eight games·

Oklahoma at Iowa State — This one matches the Big Eight's other two bowl teams of a year ago. Oklahoma's statistics are almost as impressive as Nebraska's — No 1 in total offense and rushing, third in scoring, eighth in total defense, seventh in rushing defense and tied for first in scoring defense with Michigan. Next for Iowa State is Nebraska. For the present, it's Oklahoma.

Missouri at Kansas State — Missouri has knocked off Notre Dame and Colorado and faces Oklahoma next week Logical spot for the Second Upset Special of the Week . . . Kansas State.

The Kings drew within four points, 21-17, near the end of the first period. Then the Knicks scored six straight points to pull away.

The Kings threatened on several other occasions, but were unable to pull even. The Knicks pulled away midway through the third quarter by scoring eight unanswered points in stretching a 65-55 lead to a bulging 73-55 cushion.

At the beginning of the last period, Knick coach Red Holzman pulled his starters but the score continued to mount. Dean Meminger led the Knicks' asssault in the last quarter and finished with 21 points.

Meminger is no stranger to fans here as he played his collegiate basketball with Marquette. The Milwaukee team appears here every two years against Creighton.

The Knicks' highly-touted defense was mainly responsible for containing the Kings.

Both the Knicks' Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere were on the NBA's all-star defensive team last year. The Knicks held the NBA's leading scorer Nate Archibald of the Kings to 19 points.

Archibald had been averaging about 35 points per game and teammate Tom Van Arsdale, who has been averaging about 20 points a game, was held to 10 points.

The Knicks got balanced scoring with Frazier adding 22, Earl Monroe 19, DeBusschere 13 and Bill Bradley 16 in addition to Meminger's 21.

Archibald was the top scorer for the Kings with his 19 with Ron Riley adding 12.

The Kings' next game here will be Wednesday against the Philadelphia 76ers.

Dickey Recovery Termed 'Good'

Houston (UPI) — Quarterback Lynn Dickey has been hospitalized for treatment on a cut nerve resulting from a dislocated hip operation, coach Bill Peterson of the Houston Oilers said Wednesday.

Dickey, a second-year player from Kansas State, was injured in an exhibition game with St. Louis Aug. 24. He required surgery and was lost for the season.

"The operation was very successful," Peterson said. "The problem is a cut nerve that pains him very badly. They are trying to block that pain."

Parker, Lefebvre Receive Honors For Drug Work

Chicago (AP) — Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre, both Los Angeles Dodger players, Wednesday received the first YMCA Brian Piccolo Award for their work in drug prevention among teen-agers.

Occult Doesn't Figure Around Huskers' Mental Awareness

. . . BUFFS POSE NEW TACTICAL PROBLEM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Colorado football coach Eddie Crowder remarked Tuesday that Nebraska does the best job of any team in the country at being "up" for every game it plays.

Nebraska coach Bob Devaney Wednesday brushed aside the suggestion that there was any magical secret to that Husker trait and recalled, "We weren't up very good for that UCLA game."

But in general he agreed that the Huskers did manage to be mentally ready most of the time when they take to the playing field on a Saturday afternoon.

"This team for the last three or four years has seemed to stay up," he pointed out. "That's due some to the fact that they have a lot of pride in thinking that they're the best team in the country and they want to prove it every week.

"And after that loss to UCLA, they know that the only way they can prove that they're the best is to be ready to play every week."

Another factor could be that the Huskers under Devaney have never left their game on the practice field.

"We don't believe in beating our players up in practice," Devaney noted. "We run them a lot to keep them in shape, but we don't have them banging away at each other.

"We have never scrimmaged our top two units once the season starts."

The mental approach shouldn't be a problem for the upcoming game at Colorado, but Devaney pointed the Buffaloes will present his defense with a new tactical problem.

"Colorado not only is the best team we will have faced thus far," he observed. "But they will be the first team that will run right at us.

"With wishbone teams, you face a lot of lateral movement, but not much running that comes right at you and with Charlie Davis and Bo Matthrews, they've got two powerful backs, who can hurt you by running right at you.

"That's one of the things about defensing the wishbone. If you can get that back while he's going laterally and before he has a chance to cut upfield, there's no gain.

"But, for instance, from our I formation, there are times where you think the back has been stopped for no gain, but because he's going straight at the defense and not running laterally, when they mark the ball, he's gained three yards."

Playing Way West

The Cornhusker Marching Band, which will perform at halftime of Saturday's Nebraska-Colorado football game, will play its way west.

The NU Band will leave Lincoln by bus at 7 a.m. Friday, playing for a school dedication at 10 a.m. at Ansley and at halftime of the Bridgeport at Kimball high school football game Friday night.

—ISU'S STRACHAN PACES RUSHERS—

Humm, Rodgers, Sanger Leading Big Eight Statistics

KANSAS CITY (AP) —Mike Strachan, the Iowa State sensation, is almost making a runaway of the Big Eight Conference football rushing race.

Strachan, who started the season playing second fiddle to Jerry Moses, has carried the ball 136 times for 841 yards and a game average of 140.2 yards, the Big Eight Service Bureau reported Wednesday.

Charlie Davis of Colorado is second with a 98.1 yard game average, having rushed for 785 yards on 161 attempts, and Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, third, 81.7 game average yards on 82 rushes for 490.

Dave Humm of Nebraska still holds a slight edge over Dave Jaynes of Kansas in passing. Humm has connected on 89 of 162 pitches for 1,498 yards and 13 touchdowns and leads the league with an average gain of 214 yards a game.

Jaynes has 101 completions on 189 tosses for 1,466 and a 209.4-yard average. Iowa State's George Amundson has 76 of 150 for 1,047 yards and a 174.5 average.

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers is the top receiver. He has caught 34 passes for 645 yards and his catches per game average 4.9. Kansas State's John Goerger, 38 catches for 400 yards, is right behind Rodgers with 4.8 and Bruce Adams of Kansas another step away with 32 for 590 and 4.6.

Amundson is out front in total offense with an average game production of 227 yards and is followed by Humm, 208 yards, and Jaynes, 194.

Pruitt leads all scorers. He has crossed the goal 12 times and has a two point conversion for 74 points or 12.3 points a game. Rodgers, with 66 points, is behind him with a 9.4 point game average. Davis, also with 66, has averaged 8.3 points.

Rich Sanger of Nebraska leads in kick scoring and punting. The toe of the Cornhuskers has converted on 43 of 45 extra point attempts and made four of 11 field goal tries for 55 points for 7.9 points per game.

Sanger's punting log shows 23 for 970 yards, an average of 42.2.

Colorado's Steve Haggerty has taken over the punt return lead with 20 returns for 309 yards and a 15.5 yard average. Mike Fink of Missouri is tops in kickoff returns, 13 for 268 and a 20.6-yard average.

The most interceptions have been made by Oklahoma's Darryll Stewart, who has seven and returned them 109 yards.

—KU COACH FAVORS JV PROGRAM—

Freshman Football Efforts Alter Fambrough's Outlook

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — "I've completely changed my thinking on freshmen players," says Kansas University football coach Don Fambrough.

"I didn't think freshmen would be able to compete on the varsity level, but I've been proved wrong."

Kurk Knoff and Steve Taylor, defensive backs, and Bob Swift, a kickoff specialist, all yearlings, have seen extensive varsity duty at KU this year. Fambrough also points to the fine play of Kerry Jackson and Joe Washington, two freshmen who have logged a lot of time with the Oklahoma first unit.

This reversal of thinking has caused Fambrough to come to the conclusion that freshmen teams should be eliminated and junior varsity competition installed. He thinks a seven or eight game JV schedule could be worked out.

The coach said he knew such a program would cost more money than the current four-game freshmen schedule but he thought in the case of Kansas, a junior varisty team could play Kansas State and Missouri twice, perhaps Witchita State and some junior colleges.

Fambrough said his thinking is based on the fact that now that freshmen can compete on the varisty level, a junior varsity program would allow more players to participate in the sport.

Under his proposal, all junior varsity games would be played on Mondays. All players who did not compete in the varsity game the previous Saturday would be eligible, no matter what class rank.

Red-shirted players—those who are held out of competition one year—pose a problem Fambrough admits he hasn't solved. He said he hasn't gone deep enough into his plan to keep red-shirting as it is or to count junior varsity play as red-shirting.

"I know that if we had such a program at the time of our game with Kansas State, we could have had a game-experienced quarterback available when Dave Jaynes got hurt," Fambrough said.

Huskers Favored By Only 2-1 Margin To Beat Buffs

. . . UPI PICKER FAVORS COLORADO

United Press International

In some sporting leagues, the accepted cliche is that a loss in the first week of the season is just as vital as one in the closing weeks.

This doesn't quite stand up in college football, however, and as the national powerhouses rev up for their final run at conference championships and desired bowl berths, they are aware that a single loss the rest of the way can cost them their whole season's effort. There is just no time left to make up for a mistake.

Nebraska, ranked third in this week's ratings, is the team on the spot this Saturday. The Cornhuskers overcame a season-opening loss to UCLA to outscore their next six opponents, 315-14, and climb back into national prominence with a 6-1 record. They also lead the Big Eight Conference with a 3-0 mark.

But our regional forecaster in the Midlands, Charlie Smith, foresees another loss for Nebraska in Saturday's meeting with Colorado, which was upset itself last week against Missouri.

Smith's Big Eight forecasts:

Colorado 17, Nebraska 14 — A man could go broke in a hurry betting against the Cornhuskers, but if Colorado can whip Oklahoma in Boulder, so can Nebraska beaten. Besides, the Cornhuskers' running attack is suspect.

Kansas State 21, Missouri 17 —Oh, what a fall it will be after two weeks in the clouds, but the Tigers' bubble is due to be burst.

Oklahoma 34, Iowa State 21 —This is Oklahoma's last big hurdle before the Thanksgiving date with Nebraska and the Sooners don't figure to muff it.

Oklahoma State 31, Kansas 14 —The Jayhawks are going downhill and there's little reason to expect the slide to stop this week.

. . . NISSENSON PICKS HUSKERS

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

New York (AP) — Can Colorado do to Nebraska on Saturday what it did to Oklahoma two weeks ago?

The unpredictable Buffaloes, who seem to be involved in an upset in one way or another just about every week, entertain the third-ranked but once-beaten Cornhuskers this weekend with a chance to destroy once and for all their dream of an unprecedented third consecutive national college football championship.

Colorado has been a puzzlement, struggling past lowly California in the opening game, losing to underdogs Oklahoma State and Missouri but defeating highly ranked Oklahoma and Iowa State.

Nebraska, on the other hand, has outscored its last six opponents 315-14 after dropping its opener to UCLA. In addition, the Cornhuskers are second nationally in total offense, third in passing, first in scoring, tops in total defense — including four straight shutouts — eighth in rushing defense, sixth in pass defense and third in scoring defense. Colorado isn't among the leaders in any of those categories.

Nebraska's Bob Devaney doesn't lose many games and he's never lost in Boulder. The pick . . . Nebraska.

Other Big Eight games:

Oklahoma at Iowa State — This one matches the Big Eight's other two bowl teams of a year ago. Oklahoma's statistics are almost as impressive as Nebraska's — No. 1 in total offense and rushing, third in scoring, eighth in total defense, seventh in rushing defense and tied for first in scoring defense with Michigan. Next for Iowa State is Nebraska. For the present, it's . . . Oklahoma.

Missouri at Kansas State — Missouri has knocked off Notre Dame and Colorado and faces Oklahoma next week. Logical spot for the Second Upset Special of the Week . . . Kansas State.

Oklahoma State over Kansas.

New York (AP) — Zing, zam, zoom. Push a button. Lights flash. Bells ring. Wheels whir. Out come the football winners. Just like that. It's all done by computers.

No more mirrors, no more tea leaves, no more crystal balls, just an infernal machine gorged with statistics which say Nebraska has too much strength for Colorado, Louisiana State is too tough on defense for Mississippi and Southern Cal may reach point-a-minute against Washington State.

Nebraska 38, Colorado 27: The Huskers lead the nation in total defense and scoring and are second in total offense. They also can move tanks.

Prep Forecaster Hits Season's Best Figure

. . . 83.4 PER CENT MARK ON 176 GAMES

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

With the last week of the regular season still staring him in the face, the prep football picker may have peaked out.

He had hoped to save his best until last with so many showdowns on this weekend's schedule.

But he can't complain with a season best percentage of .834 on 146 correct picks, 29 wrong and 1 tie. The mark, for the first time this season, was higher for 11-man selections than eight-man.

The prep picker hit 115 games, missed only 18 and tied 1 in 11-man forecasting. That included a 16-2 effort on what he considered feature matchups. The eight-man selections were 31-11 for .738.

Among the "closies" he missed were Bennington over Raymond Central (12-6), Friend over Exeter (9-6), Hastings over Grand Island (17-14), Kenesaw over Harvard (9-6), Ogallala over Holdrege (7-3), Pender over Oakland-Craig (7-3), Council Bluffs, Ia., Thomas Jefferson over Omaha Tech (11-8), Humphrey over Bartlett (26-24), and Gresham over Hordville (24-22).

The season mark now stands at .757 with 1,042 right, 334 wrong and 45 ties. Hoping to stay above the 75 per cent mark, we see:

North Platte vs. Lincoln Northeast, Friday night, Seacrest Field — The Platters may need a big win to stay in the ratings since they lost out in the West Big 10 race. They've won six straight, but Northeast is unbeaten and perhaps a couple touchdowns better.

Lincoln Southeast at Beatrice, Friday night — Beatrice may be the best team in the state with only two wins. The Orangemen are 2-3-3, having tied Columbus, Millard and Papillion. The Knights, however, should win to finish at 5-4.

Lincoln High at Grand Island, Friday night — The Islanders are like Beatrice. They're a lot better football team than their record shows (2-5-1). They have, for instance, beaten Southeast (10-7) and pressed Northeast (7-2). That should make GI a heavy favorite.

Lincoln East vs. Lincoln Pius X, Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Thunderbolts will be out to prove again they play best against Lincoln teams. But the Spartans are too good a football team to make it close.

The state's feature games are in Class B with four of the top six rated clubs meeting each other and another unrated but unbeaten pair colliding.

The prep picker foresees top-ranked Lexington turning back sixth-ranked Cozad and third-ranked Seward edging fourth-ranked David City in a battle of unbeaten teams.

Wayne and Pierce are both 8-0 Class B clubs, but both have played primarily Class C competition. The picker likes Wayne in what appears to be a tossup, according to comparative scores.

In a showdown of unbeaten Class C clubs, the prep picker foresees second-ranked Grant winning over third-ranked Medicine Valley.

In other key games, he sees Albion over Aurora, Bellevue over Omaha Benson, Fremont over Hastings for the East Big 10 title, Hebron over Harvard, Nelson over Red Cloud, Omaha Westside over Omaha Rummel and Silver Creek over Polk.

He also likes Kimball over Bridgeport, Waverly over Centennial, Central City over York, Fremont Bergan over West Point Central Catholic, Norfolk upsetting Millard, Farnam over Bartley and East Butler over Cedar Bluffs in other interesting matchups.

Cougar Rally Produces Win

Arcadia, Calif. (AP) — Heavily favored Cougar II staged his patented stretch run Wednesday and won the $100,000 Oak Tree Invitational for the second straight year to probably earn a berth in the rich Washington, D.C. International Handicap Nov. 11.

The 6-year-old from Chile, ridden by his usual pilot, Bill Shoemaker, completed the 1½-mile turf course at Santa Anita two lengths in front of a longshot, Queen's Hustler, with Bicker, the second betting choice, a neck back in third.

Ten candidates went to the post before an estimated 22,700 fans as the 20-day thoroughbred meeting of the Oak Tree Association came to an end.

Cougar returned $2.60, $2.20 and $2.10 as the odds on favorite. Queen's Hustler, ridden by Rudy Rosales, paid $11.20 and $3.80 and Bicker, $2.40.

The time was 2:27 1-5 on a firm course.

Wells Gains OK To Join Oilers

Oakland (AP) — Former Oakland Raider wide receiver Warren Wells, 29, was granted Wednesday court permission to leave Oakland for Houston to join the Houston Oilers of the National Football League.

Superior Court Judge William J. McGuiness modified Wells' probation on a 1969 attempted rape conviction so he could leave the area. But he said Alameda County Superior Court will retain jurisdiction until the probation expires Jan. 13, 1975 and in the interim Texas parole authorities will supervise Wells.

McGuiness told Wells that he had a "great opportunity" to rejoin major league football and wished him well.

But the judge warned that if there were "any substantial noncompliance with the normal terms of probation" Wells would be returned to Alameda County.

Bowl Scouts Set For ISU-OU Tilt

Ames, Iowa (AP) — At least four major bowl games selection committees will have representatives scouting the Iowa State-Oklahoma Big Eight Conference football game here Saturday, a university sports information spokesman said Wednesday.

Both teams are nationally ranked and representatives are expected from the Gator, Liberty, Sugar and Sun Bowls, the spokesman said.

The Cyclones drilled for nearly two hours behind closed gates Wednesday in preparation for their homecoming game.

Eight Cyclones from the first and second units haven't practiced this week because of minor injuries, Majors said.

Women's Tennis Tourney Circuit Includes Blacks

New York (AP) — Black tennis players will compete on the women's pro tour next season under an agreement announced Wednesday by the Women's International Tennis Federation and the American Tennis Association.

The ATA, a 4,000-membr organization that spawned Arthur Ashe and Althea Gibson Darben, will select up to six black women to qualify for the right to play against such women pros as Billie Jean King, Nancy Gunter, Margaret Court and Rosemary Casals on the Virginia Slims 18-tourney circuit.

Gladys M. Heldman, publisher of Tennis World magazine and organizer of the WITF, and Dr. Clyde C. Freeman, ATA president, called the agreement a "mutual recognition."

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association does not recognize the ATA and is threatening to bar the WITF from competing in major championships such as the U.S. Open.

'Skins' Jurgensen Hopes To Continue NFL Career

. . . RECEIVES URGING FROM NIXON

Washington (UPI) — The Redskins' aging quarterback, Sonny Jurgensen, said Wednesday he has no plans to retire, despite the prospect of a long recovery from a torn Achilles tendon he suffered in Washington's 23-16 victory over the Giants Sunday.

In an interview with United Press International, Washington's 38-year-old red-haired folk hero said, "I don't plan on quitting. I want to play if my recovery goes well."

Earlier, President Nixon (Duke University Law School Class of '37) telephoned Jurgensen (Duke University Class of '56) to urge him not to retire, pointing out that he had suffered setbacks in his political career before his election four years ago.

"He told me I have something special to offer to football," said Jurgensen, whose entire left leg is in a cast. He will remain at Georgetown University Hospital through the end of the week, will stay in the cast for 10-12 weeks and then faces a long period of rehabilitation.

"I'm gonna take it very slowly," he said, hoping to begin running again by March 1. At that point, said the 16-year veteran and the NFL's No. 1 lifetime passer, he will decide whether he can continue to play.

"Coach (George) Allen wants me to come back and feels I can make a contribution. I know nothing about plans to trade me," he said.

Jurgensen came off the bench after the Redskins only loss of the season, to the New England Patriots, and sparked the 'Skins to victories over Philadelphia and Dallas.

He called only 13 plays in the Giant game before the tendon snapped. No one had hit him, but "That's the kind of thing that can happen to anybody who's had a lot of wear and tear on it."

The Achilles tendon connects the heel bone to the calf muscle.

Jurgensen said if he does retire he will not go into coaching, but will stay with a local real estate firm he works for in the off-season.

The quarterback said he was still in pain and under sedation during the interview in his room filled with what a hospital spokeswoman said was "a phenomenal number of get-well cards and flowers."

AAU Head Seeking NCAA Probe

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Calling NCAA head Walter Byers a "tyrant" with an "insatiable appetite for power," AAU Presidant John B. Kelly Jr. urged Wednesday a congressional investigation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Kelly charged the NCAA has been in contempt of the U. S. Senate since 1968 by its interference in international athletic competition.

The former Olympic power cited an incident last summer prior to a scheduled AAU track and field meet between the United States and Soviet Union.

Kelly said Byers' Kansas City office notified its members schools and coaches a full month after the U. S. squad had been chosen and a week before the meet that their athletes would be liable to reprisals if the event were not certified by the NCAA.

"It is the blatant intimidation and harassment of these athletes and their schools that strikes at the very core of their personal freedom.'

Kelly said. He said the NCAA has often been guilty of such interference, which is "forbidden by terms of the Kheel Commission," a body set up by the Senate in 1968 at the request of the NCAA.

Kelly also accused the NCAA of playing a "dual role" and possible "conflict of interest." He said while "they are making critical decisions about which events will be televised . . . they are also making critical decisions about which institutions will be penalized for violations of NCAA rules." The AAU head acknowledged that Byers has been called a "petty tyrant," adding that when "one man has the total allegiance of the commissioners of some of the largest athletic conferences, when he supervises television receipts of $15 million and when he is the sole dispenser of his own perverse kind of justice ... then this is far from petty.

"Mr. Byers has a virtually insatiable appetite for power," Kelly said. "Not content with control of domestic amateur athletics, he's now branched out into the international field.

"The power he wields is considerable and should be challenged."

Last week, Byers announced the NCAA was withdrawing from the United States Olympic Committee because, in Kelly's opinion, he "had been thwarted in his attempt to gain control of the USOC."

Kelly said he will ask that a congressional commission be formed to determine the "legitimate scope of the NCAA's activities" and take into consideration tha NCAA's methods of enforcement and distribution of television receipts.

Fambrough Cites OSU's Defense

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas football Coach Don Fambrough said Wednesday the defense of Saturday's opponent, Oklahoma State, "is big and strong, and it will be very hard to run against them, tackle to tackle."

Of the Cowboy attack he said, "They like to run their fullback on the inside and they let Blackman keep it on the outside."

Jayhawk running back Robert Miller and linebacker Mike Gardner are doubtful starters. If necessary their places will be taken by Jerome Nellums and Randy Robinson, he said.

Norfolk's Ahern Trails By 13 Strokes

Napa, Calif. (AP) — Jim Ahern of Norfolk fell 13 strokes back of tourney-leader Larry Stubblefield after Wednesday's third 18-hole round in the Professional Golfers' Associated qualifying school tournament at Silverado Country Club.

Ahern's 226 score deadlocks him with three others while Stubblefield has a 213. Victor Regalado of Mexico, Tuesday's leader, dropped one stroke back at 214.

OSU Emphasizes Defensing Passes

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) —Placing special emphasis on pass defense, Oklahoma State blitzed through a hard workout behind closed doors Wednessay in preparation for Saturday's game with Kansas.

Secondary coach Clarence Dierking in charge of halting the aerial attack of Kansas quarterback David Jaynes, has been pleased with O-State pass defense so far this year.

"We have improved from week to week," Dierking said, "but Jaynes will be another stiff test for us. As far as throwing ability is concerned, Jaynes is in a class with Joe Ferguson of Arkansas and Don Strock of Virginia Tech."

Coach Dave Smith also praised OSU's secondary, saying, "We've been pleased with our pass coverage. Nebraska hit a deep ball on us last week, but Nebraska does that to everybody."

The Cowboys who, according to Smith are "in pretty good shape physically," will hold a light workout Thursday.

Prep Forecaster Hits Season's Best Figure

. . . 83.4 PER CENT MARK ON 176 GAMES

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

With the last week of the regular season still staring him in the face, the prep football picker may have peaked out.

He had hoped to save his best until last with so many showdowns on this weekend's schedule.

But he can't complain with a season best percentage of .834 on 146 correct picks, 29 wrong and 1 tie. The mark, for the first time this season, was higher for 11-man selections than eight-man.

The prep picker hit 115 games, missed only 18 and tied 1 in 11-man forecasting. That included a 16-2 effort on what he considered feature matchups. The eight-man selections were 31-11 for .738.

Among the "closies" he missed were Bennington over Raymond Central (12-6), Friend over Exeter (9-6), Hastings over Grand Island (17-14), Kenesaw over Harvard (9-6), Ogallala over Holdrege (7-3), Pender over Oakland-Craig (7-3), Council Bluffs, Ia., Thomas Jefferson over Omaha Tech (11-8), Humphrey over Bartlett (26-24), and Gresham over Hordville (24-22).

The season mark now stands at .757 with 1,042 right, 334 wrong and 45 ties. Hoping to stay above the 75 per cent mark, we see:

North Platte vs. Lincoln Northeast, Friday night, Seacrest Field — The Platters may need a big win to stay in the ratings since they lost out in the West Big 10 race. They've won six straight, but Northeast is unbeaten and perhaps a couple touchdowns better.

Lincoln Southeast at Beatrice, Friday night — Beatrice may be the best team in the state with only two wins. The Orangemen are 2-3-3, having tied Columbus, Millard and Papillion. The Knights, however, should win to finish at 5-4.

Lincoln High at Grand Island, Friday night — The Islanders are like Beatrice. They're a lot better football team than their record shows (2-5-1). They have, for instance, beaten Southeast (10-7) and pressed Northeast (7-2). That should make GI a heavy favorite.

Lincoln East vs. Lincoln Pius X, Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Thunderbolts will be out to prove again they play best against Lincoln teams. But the Spartans are too good a football team to make it close.

The state's feature games are in Class B with four of the top six rated clubs meeting each other and another unrated but unbeaten pair colliding.

The prep picker foresees top-ranked Lexington turning back sixth-ranked Cozad and third-ranked Seward edging fourth-ranked David City in a battle of unbeaten teams.

Wayne and Pierce are both 8-0 Class B clubs, but both have played primarily Class C competition. The picker likes Wayne in what appears to be a tossup, according to comparative scores.

In a showdown of unbeaten Class C clubs, the prep picker foresees second-ranked Grant winning over third-ranked Medicine Valley.

In other key games, he sees Albion over Aurora, Bellevue over Omaha Benson, Fremont over Hastings for the East Big 10 title, Hebron over Harvard, Nelson over Red Cloud, Omaha Westside over Omaha Rummel and Silver Creek over Polk.

He also likes Kimball over Bridgeport, Waverly over Centennial, Central City over York, Fremont Bergan over West Point Central Catholic, Norfolk upsetting Millard, Farnam over Bartley and East Butler over Cedar Bluffs in other interesting matchups.

Cougar Rally Produces Win

Arcadia, Calif. (AP) — Heavily favored Cougar 11 staged his patented stretch run Wednesday and won the $100,000 Oak Tree Invitational for the second straight year to probably earn a berth in the rich Washington, D.C. International Handicap Nov. 11.

The 6-year-old from Chile, ridden by his usual pilot, Bill Shoemaker, completed the 1½-mile turf course at Santa Anita two lengths in front of a longshot, Queen's Hustler, with Bicker, the second betting choice, a neck back in third.

Ten candidates went to the post before an estimated 22,700 fans as the 20-day thoroughbred meeting of the Oak Tree Association came to an end.

Cougar returned $2.60, $2.20 and $2.10 as the odds on favorite. Queen's Hustler, ridden by Rudy Rosales, paid $11.20 and $3.80 and Bicker, $2.40.

The time was 2:27 1-5 on a firm course.

Wells Gains OK To Join Oilers

Oakland (AP) — Former Oakland Raider wide receiver Warren Wells, 29, was granted Wednesday court permission to leave Oakland for Houston to join the Houston Oilers of the National Football League.

Superior Court Judge William J. McGuiness modified Wells' probation on a 1969 attempted rape conviction so he could leave the area. But he said Alameda County Superior Court will retain jurisdiction until the probation expires Jan. 13, 1975 and in the interim Texas parole authorities will supervise Wells.

McGuiness told Wells that he had a "great opportunity" to rejoin major league football and wished him well.

But the judge warned that if there were "any substantial noncompliance with the normal terms of probation" Wells would be returned to Alameda County.

Bowl Scouts Set For ISU-OU Tilt

Ames, Iowa (AP) — At least four major bowl games selection committees will have representatives scouting the Iowa State-Oklahoma Big Eight Conference football game here Saturday, a university sports information spokesman said Wednesday.

Both teams are nationally ranked and representatives are expected from the Gator, Liberty, Sugar and Sun Bowls, the spokesman said.

The Cyclones drilled for nearly two hours behind closed gates Wedntsday in preparation for their homecoming game.

Eight Cyclones from the first and second units haven't practiced this week because of minor injuries, Majors said.

Women's Tennis Tourney Circuit Includes Blacks

New York (AP) — Black tennis players will compete on the women's pro tour next season under an agreement announced Wednesday by the Women's International Tennis Federation and the American Tennis Association.

The ATA, a 4,000-membr organization that spawned Arthur Ashe and Althea Gibson Darben, will select up to six black women to qualify for the right to play against such women pros as Billie Jean King, Nancy Gunter, Margaret Court and Rosemary Casals on the Virginia Slims 18-tourney circuit.

Gladys M. Heldman, publisher of Tennis World magazine and organizer of the WITF, and Dr. Clyde C. Freeman, ATA president, called the agreement a "mutual recognition."

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association does not recognize the ATA and is threatening to bar the WITF from competing in major championships such as the U.S. Open.

'Skins' Jurgensen Hopes To Continue NFL Career

. . . RECEIVES URGING FROM NIXON

Washington (UPI) — The Redskins' aging quarterback, Sonny Jurgensen, said Wednesday he has no plans to retire, despite the prospect of a long recovery from a torn Achilles tendon he suffered in Washington's 23-16 victory over the Giants Sunday.

In an interview with United Press International, Washington's 38-year-old red-haired folk hero said, "I don't plan on quitting. I want to play if my recovery goes well."

Earlier, President Nixon (Duke University Law School Class of '37) telephoned Jurgensen (Duke University Class of '56) to urge him not to retire, pointing out that he had suffered setbacks in his political career before his election four years ago.

"He told me I have something special to offer to football," said Jurgensen, whose entire left leg is in a cast. He will remain at Georgetown University Hospital through the end of the week, will stay in the cast for 10-12 weeks and then faces a long period of rehabilitation.

"I'm gonna take it very slowly," he said, hoping to begin running again by March 1. At that point, said the 16-year veteran and the NFL's No. 1 lifetime passer, he will decide whether he can continue to play.

"Coach (George) Allen wants me to come back and feels I can make a contribution. I know nothing about plans to trade me," he said.

Jurgensen came off the bench after the Redskins only loss of the season, to the New England Patriots, and sparked the 'Skins to victories over Philadelphia and Dallas.

He called only 13 plays in the Giant game before the tendon snapped. No one had hit him, but "That's the kind of thing that can happen to anybody who's had a lot of wear and tear on it."

The Achilles tendon connects the heel bone to the calf muscle.

Jurgensen said if he does retire he will not go into coaching, but will stay with a local real estate firm he works for in the off-season.

The quarterback said he was still in pain and under sedation during the interview in his room filled with what a hospital spokeswoman said was "a phenomenal number of get-well cards and flowers."

AAU Head Seeking NCAA Probe

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Calling NCAA head Walter Byers a "tyrant" with an "insatiable appetite for power," AAU President John B. Kelly Jr. urged Wednesday a congressional investigation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Kelly charged the NCAA has been in contempt of the U. S. Senate since 1968 by its interference in international athletic competition.

The former Olympic power cited an incident last summer prior to a scheduled AAU track and field meet between the United States and Soviet Union.

Kelly said Byers' Kansas City office notified its members schools and coaches a full month after the U. S. squad had been chosen and a week before the meet that their athletes would be liable to reprisals if the event were not certified by the NCAA.

"It is the blatant intimidation and harassment of these athletes and their schools that strikes at the very core of their personal freedom.'

Kelly said. He said the NCAA has often been guilty of such interference, which is "forbidden by terms of the Kheel Commission," a body set up by the Senate in 1968 at the request of the NCAA.

Kelly also accused the NCAA of playing a "dual role" and possible "conflict of interest." He said while "they are making critical decisions about which events will be televised . . . they are also making critical decisions about which institutions will be penalized for violations of NCAA rules." The AAU head acknowledged that Byers has been called a "petty tyrant," adding that when "one man has the total allegiance of the commissioners of some of the largest athletic conferences, when he supervises television receipts of $15 million and when he is the sole dispenser of his own perverse kind of justice ... then this is far from petty.

"Mr. Byers has a virtually insatiable appetite for power," Kelly said. "Not content with control of domestic amateur athletics, he's now branched out into the international field.

"The power he wields is considerable and should be challenged."

Last week, Byers announced the NCAA was withdrawing from the United States Olympic Committee because, in Kelly's opinion, he "had been thwarted in his attempt to gain control of the USOC."

Kelly said he will ask that a congressional commission be formed to determine the "legitimate scope of the NCAA's activities" and take into consideration tha NCAA's methods of enforcement and distribution of television receipts.

Fambrough Cites OSU's Defense

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas football Coach Don Fambrough said Wednesday the defense of Saturday's opponent, Oklahoma State, "is big and strong, and it will be very hard to run against them, tackle to tackle."

Of the Cowboy attack he said, "They like to run their fullback on the inside and they let Blackman keep it on the outside."

Jayhawk running back Robert Miller and linebacker Mike Gardner are doubtful starters. If necessary their places will be taken by Jerome Nellums and Randy Robinson, he said.

Napa, Calif. (AP) — Jim Ahern of Norfolk fell 13 strokes back of tourney-leader Larry Stubblefield after Wednesday's third 18-hole round in the Professional Golfers' Associated qualifying school tournament at Silverado Country Club.

Ahern's 226 score deadlocks him with three others while Stubblefield has a 213. Victor Regalado of Mexico, Tuesday's leader, dropped one stroke back at 214.

OSU Emphasizes Defensing Passes

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) —Placing special emphasis on pass defense, Oklahoma State blitzed through a hard workout behind closed doors Wednessay in preparation for Saturday's game with Kansas.

Secondary coach Clarence Dierking in charge of halting the aerial attack of Kansas quarterback David Jaynes, has been pleased with O-State pass defense so far this year.

"We have improved from week to week," Dierking said, "but Jaynes will be another stiff test for us. As far as throwing ability is concerned, Jaynes is in a class with Joe Ferguson of Arkansas and Don Strock of Virginia Tech."

Coach Dave Smith also praised OSU's secondary, saying, "We've been pleased with our pass coverage. Nebraska hit a deep ball on us last week, but Nebraska does that to everybody."

The Cowboys who, according to Smith are "in pretty good shape physically," will hold a light workout Thursday.

Nebraska Leads Nation In Team Total Defense

. . . 173.9-YARD MARK PACES FOES

New York (AP) — Nebraska, Notre Dame, Michigan and East Carolina continue as the nation's defensive leaders in college football, but prospects of their holding their positions seem rather dim.

For instance, Nebraska is the top team in total defense, meaning it has been the stingiest of all in yielding yardage on the ground and through the air. It has limited its seven opponents to 173.9 yards a game and four touchdowns.

But take a look at the teams remaining on the Cornhuskers' schedule — Colorado, Iowa State, Kansas State and Oklahoma. These four teams as a group have averaged 401.5 yards a game.

Notre Dame is No. 1 in pass defense. The Fighting Irish, in their five victories and one defeat, have held their rivals to a niggardly 68.5 yards per game through the air.

Yet they close against Navy, Air Force, Miami, Fla., So. Cal., four teams which have been fairly proficient with the passing game, having as a group an average of 164.9 yards through the aerial route alone.

Unbeaten Michigan is in similar straits in its bid for the collegiate scoring defense title. In winning its first seven games, Michigan has given up only 4.3 points a game. Its final four opponents — Indiana, Iowa, Purdue and Ohio State — are going at a 21 point-a-game clip.

East Carolina, which owns the nation's best record against the rush among major college teams, must defend a 68.6 mark — the average of its seven foes on the ground — against Chattanooga, William & Mary, Dayton and North Carolina, who as a group have averaged 196.3 rushing yards.

Lincolnite's Arabian Wins National Honor

Oklahoma City, Okla.—"My Mystic Mirage," a six-year-old Palomino gelding, owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Albin of Lincoln, was named National Champion Half-Arabian Gelding and Half-Arabian English Pleasure Horse at the sixth annual U.S. National Champions Arabian and Half-Arabian Horse Show here Saturday.

"We did have a good idea he'd win the U.S. championship," George Albin commented Monday. "But we were surprised he'd won the English Pleasure."

"My Mystic Mirage" competed with 46 champion horses who qualified for the show by winning a reserve national championship, a regional championship or reserve championship, or a reserve or championship in a class "A" show approved by the Canadian or American Horse Shows Association in the past two years.

The Lincoln-owned horse was the Canadian National Champion nearly two months ago, according to Albin. Albin purchased the horse following its Canadian showing at $7,000.

The Albins have 17 Arabians in their stables located at 9001 Pioneers Boulevard.

The only other national prominence achieved by the Lincoln horse showing family was a pure-bred Arabian stallion, "Grazrasf" who was named in the Top Ten in the nation in 194 and in 19.

The Rose Bowl Parade people have already contacted the Albins concerning possible use of the Palomino colored "My Mystic Mirage" in the 1973 parade.

Early 'Raises' Cause Fine For Finley

New York (AP) —Charles O. Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland Athletics, was slapped with a $2,500 fine Wednesday for attempting to reward a couple of his World Series heroes.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, assessing the penalty, said Finley was acting in violation of baseball law. The A's owner, not immediately available for comment, has insisted that he is within his rights.

Finley provoked the displeasure of the commissioner after the second game of the World Series when he announced $5000 salary increases for catcher Gene Tenace and outfielder Joe Rudi.

He earlier disclosed that he had earlier awarded a similar raise to first baseman Mike Hegan.

Commissioner Kuhn reacted quickly, indicating that the payments were a violation of rule 46 which stipulates that contending clubs are forbidden to award a bonus, or prize to any players until the conclusion of the series.

Wrestling Support Canceled

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — The United States Wrestling Federation withdrew its support Wednesday from the U.S. Olympic Committee and urged Congress to speed an investigation of USOC policies and practices.

The decision, voted by the federation's governing council, was announced by Myron Roderick, executive director. Similar action was announced last week by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

Roderick said the Olympic committee "and its subcommittee on wrestling are puppets of the Amateur Athletic Union and have been for years."

He said that wrestling federation programs "are directly responsible for the success of our 1972 Olympic wrestling team, which won three gold medals and three other medals.

"All the international experience gained by our Olympic wrestlers the past two years has been through USWF exchange series," he said. "During the same time span the AAU made no contribution at all to development of international wrestling experience.

"Yet, because Olympic committee membership is stacked heavily — and unfairly — in favor of the AAU, the USOC consistently has supported the AAU in its attempts to destroy the federation and any other organization seeking a voice in governing U.S. athletic programs."

Roderick said that "this type of activity against the best interests of wrestling and other sports warrants an intensive investigation by congress."

"The NCAA has been informed by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., that he plans to conduct hearings early in the next session of Congress on his amendment to establish a presidential commission to investigate the USOC," Roderick said.

Trevino Ready For Texas Open Meet

. . . DISCIPLINARY ACTION STILL A POSSIBILITY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) —"I've got a plane ticket to El Paso and my check book's in my pocket so I'm ready for whatever happens," Lee Trevino said Wednesday.

A possible suspension or fine—or both—hung over his head as Trevino went about his business as usual Wednesday in his preparations for the opening round of the revived $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

"If it's a suspension, I just hope they wait until after this tournament is over," Trevino said, then flashed that famous grin.

"I'm not going to play any more this year anyhow."

The flamboyant guy from El Paso, one of the game's greatest gate attractions, faces possible disciplinary action for his abrupt departure from last week's Sahara Invitational in Las Vegas, Nev.

Trevino, after leveling a blast at the slow play and complaining that tour officials neglected their duty by allowing it to continue, stalked off the course midway through the third round witnout speaking to officials, a violation if the rules of the PGA Tournament Players Division.

"I ought to be fined or suspended," Trevino said. "I deserve it."

Any such action would come from Joe Dey of New York, Tournament Player Division commissioner.

He has the authority to levy a fine, place Trevino on probation or suspend him.

Dey now is attending the annual players' school tournament in Napa, Calif. There has been no indication when or what action he will take.

"I ought to get hit with a pretty good fine," Trevino said. "If they don't, then anytime one of the gate attractions is playing bad, he's just going to pick up. That hurts the sponsors We can't do that. We've got to protect them."

Trevino, winner of four titles, including the British Open, and $200,000 already this season, was a heavy favorite for the $125,000 first prize in the tournament that starts Thursday in the 7,011-yard, par-72 Lakewood Golf Club course.

The Texas Open, one of the oldest events on the tour, is being revived after a two-year absence from the schedule. It attracted only a relatively thin field, however.

Of the 16 men who have won $100,000 or more this season, only Trevino and Greer Jones, Chi Chi Rodriguez and rookie Lanny Wadkins, the Sahara winner, are on hand.

Jack Nicklaus, just named PGA's Player of the Year, and Arnold Palmer are among the missing.

Included in the field are such standouts as Billy Casper, Frank Beard, Gene Littler, Charles Coody, J. C. Snead and Dave Hill.

Graebner Triumphs

Port Talbot, Wales (AP) — Clark Graebner of New York fought off a strong challenge from Czechoslovakian Jan Zabrodski for a 6-7, 6-1, 7-6 victory Wednesday that moved the American into the quarterfinals of the Dewar Cup indoor tennis tournament.

Ozark Named Phillie Boss

Philadilphia (AP) — Danny Ozark, a veteran minor league manager and third base coach of the Los Angeles Dodgers the last four years, was named Wednesday as manager of the hapless Philadelphia Phillies.

The 48-year-old Ozark was the surprise choice of Phillies' general manager Paul Owens, who had said emphatically he wanted a man with major league managing experience to try and lead the Phillies out of the National League cellar.

Ozark is almost a carbon copy of Frank Lucchesi, who was fired by Owens last July. Lucchesi's only experience prior to taking the Phillies' job was as a minor league player and pilot. Ozark has managed at such stops at Wichita Falls, Cedar Rapids, Macon, St. Paul, Omaha and Spokane. A first baseman, he never advanced beyond Triple A as a player.

Nebraska Leads Nation In Team Total Defense

. . . 173.9-YARD MARK PACES FOES

New York (AP) — Nebraska, Notre Dame, Michigan and East Carolina continue as the nation's defensive leaders in college football, but prospects of their holding their positions seem rather dim.

For instance, Nebraska is tht top team in total defense, meaning it has been the stingiest of all in yielding yardage on the ground and through the air. It has limited its seven opponents to 173.9 yards a game and four touchdowns.

But take a look at the teams remaining on the Cornhuskers' schedule — Colorado, Iowa State, Kansas State and Oklahoma. These four teams as a group have averaged 401.5 yards a game.

Notre Dame is No. 1 in pass defense. The Fighting Irish, in their five victories and one defeat, have held their rivals to a niggardly 68.5 yards per game through the air.

Yet they close against Navy, Air Force, Miami, Fla., So. Cal., four teams which have been fairly proficient with the passing game, having as a group an average of 164.9 yards through the aerial route alone.

Unbeaten Michigan is in similar straits in its bid for the collegiate scoring defense title. In winning its first seven games, Michigan has given up only 4.3 points a game. Its final four opponents — Indiana, Iowa, Purdue and Ohio State — are going at a 21 point-a-game clip.

East Carolina, which owns the nation's best record against the rush among major college teams, must defend a 68.6 mark — the average of its seven foes on the ground — against Chattanooga, William & Mary, Dayton and North Carolina, who as a group have averaged 196.3 rushing yards.

Lincolnite's Arabian Wins National Honor

Oklahoma City, Okla.—"My Mystic Mirage," a six-year-old Palomino gelding, owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Albin of Lincoln, was named National Champion Half-Arabian Gelding and Half-Arabian English Pleasure Horse at the sixth annual U.S. National Champions Arabian and Half-Arabian Horse Show here Saturday.

"We did have a good idea he'd win the U.S. championship," George Albin commented Monday. "But we were surprised he'd won the English Pleasure."

"My Mystic Mirage" competed with 46 champion horses who qualified for the show by winning a reserve national championship, a regional championship or reserve championship, or a reserve or championship in a class "A" show approved by the Canadian or American Horse Shows Association in the past two years.

The Lincoln-owned horse was the Canadian National Champion nearly two months ago, according to Albin. Albin purchased the horse following its Canadian showing at $7,000.

The Albins have 17 Arabians in their stables located at 9001 Pioneers Boulevard.

The only other national prominence achieved by the Lincoln horse showing family was a pure-bred Arabian stallion, "Grazrasf" who was named in the Top Ten in the nation in 194 and in 19.

The Rose Bowl Parade people have already contacted the Albins concerning possible use of the Palomino colored "My Mystic Mirage" in the 1973 parade.

Early 'Raises' Cause Fine For Finley

New York (AP) —Charles O. Finley, owner of the world champion Oakland Athletics, was slapped with a $2,500 fine Wednesday for attempting to reward a couple of his World Series heroes.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, assessing the penalty, said Finley was acting in violation of baseball law. The A's owner, not immediately available for comment, has insisted that he is within his rights.

Finley provoked the displeasure of the commissioner after the second game of the World Series when he announced $5000 salary increases for catcher Gene Tenace and outfielder Joe Rudi.

He earlier disclosed that he had earlier awarded a similar raise to first baseman Mike Hegan.

Commissioner Kuhn reacted quickly, indicating that the payments were a violation of rule 46 which stipulates that contending clubs are forbidden to award a bonus, or prize to any players until the conclusion of the series.

He was 43.

Prior to coaching at Cozad he had spent 11 years at Axtell and five years at Loomis.

Turner received both his bachelor's and master's degrees in physical education from Kearney State College.

Turner is survived by his wife, Altheabell; two sons, Bill and Thomas, both at home; a brother, Leo, of Stratton, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Turner of Elm Creek.

Wrestling Support Canceled

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — The United States Wrestling Federation withdrew its support Wednesday from the U.S. Olympic Committee and urged Congress to speed an investigation of USOC policies and practices.

The decision, voted by the federation's governing council, was announced by Myron Roderick, executive director. Similar action was announced last week by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

Roderick said the Olympic committee "and its subcommittee on wrestling are puppets of the Amateur Athletic Union and have been for years."

He said that wrestling federation programs "are directly responsible for the success of our 1972 Olympic wrestling team, which won three gold medals and three other medals.

"All the international experience gained by our Olympic wrestlers the past two years has been through USWF exchange series," he said. "During the same time span the AAU made no contribution at all to development of international wrestling experience.

"Yet, because Olympic committee membership is stacked heavily — and unfairly — in favor of the AAU, the USOC consistently has supported the AAU in its attempts to destroy the federation and any other organization seeking a voice in governing U.S. athletic programs."

Roderick said that "this type of activity against the best interests of wrestling and other sports warrants an intensive investigation by congress."

"The NCAA has been informed by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., that he plans to conduct hearings early in the next session of Congress on his amendment to establish a presidential commission to investigate the USOC," Roderick said.

Trevino Ready For Texas Open Meet

. . . DISCIPLINARY ACTION STILL A POSSIBILITY

"I ought to be fined or suspended," Trevino said. "I deserve it."

Any such action would come from Joe Dey of New York, Tournament Player Division commissioner.

He has the authority to levy a fine, place Trevino on probation or suspend him.

Dey now is attending the annual players' school tournament in Napa, Calif. There has been no indication when or what action he will take.

"I ought to get hit with a pretty good fine," Trevino said. "If they don't, then anytime one of the gate attractions is playing bad, he's just going to pick up. That hurts the sponsors We can't do that. We've got to protect them."

The Texas Open, one of the oldest events on the tour, is being revived after a two-year absence from the schedule. It attracted only a relatively thin field, however.

Of the 16 men who have won $100,000 or more this season, only Trevino and Greer Jones, Chi Chi Rodriguez and rookie Lanny Wadkins, the Sahara winner, are on hand.

Israelis Close Off Golan Heights

By United Press International

Israel closed off the occupied Golan Heights Wednesday in what a military source described as a precautionary measure against the possibility of another round of fighting with Syria.

Israeli troops killed an Arab guerrilla infiltrator Wednesday night in the Golan Heights area, a military spokesman said. It was the first time a guerrilla was killed on there since last January 23.

In Damascus, official sources said the foreign ministers of the three-member Federation of Arab Republics met to discuss joint strategy and foreign policy coordination at the United Nations. Taking part in the talks were Egypt's Mohammed Hassan Zayyat, Libya's Mansour El Kehia and Syria's Abdel Halim Khaddam.

But, the sources said, the Israeli air strikes against Syria Monday dominated the discussions. They quoted the Egyptian and Libyan ministers as saying they considered the attacks "as a direct and serious aggression" against their countries.

King Hussein in a speech to the opening session of the Jordanian Parliament said the Arab states should cooperate and unite ranks to face the Israeli challenge. He said Jordan had repeatedly made such calls "but have been confronted with measures which do not serve the Arab cause."

Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidky conferred with Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov in Cairo during the day, the Middle East News Agency said. It did not say what they discussed.

Sidky paid a visit to Moscow in mid-October aimed at improving relations between the two countries, which had deteriorated following the expulsion of te Soviet military advisers. Egyptian newspapers said the visit "unlocked the closed doors" of friendship between Cairo and Moscow "but no more."

The closure of the Golan Heights on the northern front came as the Israeli army command reported three soldiers wounded and one Arab guerrilla leader killed in an overnight clash in the Shati Refugee Camp in the Gaza Strip, another occupied territory far to the south.

The Heights, a tourist attraction since their capture from Syria in the 1967 Middle East war, is routinely closed to all but soldiers and residents in times of tension.

Demonstrators Keep Silent As Students Arrive

New York (UPI) — A handful of white demonstrators watched in stony silence Wednesday as 31 black and Puerto Rican students arrived for their fourth day at a predominantly white Brooklyn junior high school.

But a parents boycott kept more than 90% of children in Brooklyn's Carnarsie Section home from school, and police patrolled the tense neighborhood to prevent racial clashes.

The quiet handful of white protesters at Junior High School 211 contrasted sharply with shouting demonstrations by as many as 1,500 on previous days.

Favorable Dividend Actions Peak

New York (AP) — Favorable dividend actions reached a five-year high of 223 last month, according to Standard & Poor's Corp.

It reported Wednesday that 114 companies increased their dividend rates, 99 declared extras, and 10 resumed payments in October. This was far greater than the 65 total for October 1971, but the comparison means little because the Phase 1 freeze was on last year, Standard & Poor's said.

Twelve companies cut or omitted dividends last month, compared with 14 in October 1971.

Federal Enforcement Of Pollution Laws Set

Omaha (AP) — The first federal regulation of air pollution in Nebraska is only a few weeks away, an Environmental Protection Agency officer said here.

Federal enforcement will start in six villages in Lancaster County and throughout Jefferson, Gage and Thayer Counties, Gene Robinson said.

The Federal Clean Air Act of 1970 gives the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) the power to curb pollution if a state fails to, and EPA is doing what in this case, Robinson said.

Using data gathered from air pollution samplers and information on the number and types of potential pollution sources, EPA created an "air quality region" including Lancaster, Gage, Jefferson and Thayer Counties.

In the region, if a local or state agency doesn't adopt and enforce pollution control regulations, the EPA will, the only local agency within those counties in the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Dept.

Most villages in Lancaster County have agreed to let the health department curb air pollution, but the villages of Bennet, Panama, Hickman, Sprague, Raymond and Malcolm haven't, so EPA will move in, Robinson said.

Sampling done regularly in Beatrice for a year shows the air contains a geometric mean of 73.4 micrograms per cubic meter of particulate pollution.

This is 13.4 over the federal allowable maximum of 60, Robinson said. Particulates are particles in the air, such as fly ash and dust.

Sampling at Fairbury hasn't gone on for a year, but so far it ranges from 27.9 to 116.5, he said.

The State Environmental Control Dept. wants to curb air pollution statewide, but an attorney general's opinion has limited efforts to Douglas and Sarpy Counties, the state's dirtiest.

Robinson, an EPA air pollution officer who works in the State Environmental Control Dept. offices in Lincoln, said the federal regulations are being prepared now, will become efefctive this month, and enforcement will start around Christmas.

Reagan Asks For Delay In Vote Projections

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) —Gov. Ronald Reagan asked the radio and television networks Wednesday to refrain from broadcasting national election projections next week until the polls close in the West.

He said national predictions, broadcast before Western polls close, tend to reduce voter turnout. California polls close at 8 p.m. PST, which is 11 p.m. on the East Coast. West Coast voters in the past have heard broadcast predictions based on early returns from the East Coast hours before their own polls close.

Such projections have caused some western citizens who have not yet voted to stay away from the polls, Reagan contended.

"We need more voters, not fewer voters," he said in telegrams to leading media executives.

U.S. Loses Ground

Washington — U.S.-British trade in 1971 was about equal each nation importing about $2.5 billion worth of goods from the other. In contrast, 1970 U.S. exports to Britain of $2.8 billion exceeded imports by $558 million.

Israelis Close Off Golan Heights

By United Press International

Israel closed off the occupied Golan Heights Wednesday in what a military source described as a precautionary measure against the possibility of another round of fighting with Syria.

Israeli troops killed an Arab guerrilla infiltrator Wednesday night in the Golan Heights area, a military spokesman said. It was the first time a guerrilla was killed on there since last January 23.

In Damascus, official sources said the foreign ministers of the three-member Federation of Arab Republics met to discuss joint strategy and foreign policy coordination at the United Nations. Taking part in the talks were Egypt's Mohammed Hassan Zayyat, Libya's Mansour El Kehia and Syria's Abdel Halim Khaddam.

But, the sources said, the Israeli air strikes against Syria Monday dominated the discussions. They quoted the Egyptian and Libyan ministers as saying they considered the attacks "as a direct and serious aggression" against their countries.

King Hussein in a speech to the opening session of the Jordanian Parliament said the Arab states should cooperate and unite ranks to face the Israeli challenge. He said Jordan had repeatedly made such calls "but have been confronted with measures which do not serve the Arab cause."

Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidky conferred with Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov in Cairo during the day, the Middle East News Agency said. It did not say what they discussed.

Sidky paid a visit to Moscow in mid-October aimed at improving relations between the two countries, which had deteriorated following the expulsion of te Soviet military advisers. Egyptian newspapers said the visit "unlocked the closed doors" of friendship between Cairo and Moscow "but no more."

The closure of the Golan Heights on the northern front came as the Israeli army command reported three soldiers wounded and one Arab guerrilla leader killed in an overnight clash in the Shati Refugee Camp in the Gaza Strip, another occupied territory far to the south.

The Heights, a tourist attraction since their capture from Syria in the 1967 Middle East war, is routinely closed to all but soldiers and residents in times of tension.

Demonstrators Keep Silent As Students Arrive

New York (UPI) — A handful of white demonstrators watched in stony silence Wednesday as 31 black and Puerto Rican students arrived for their fourth day at a predominantly white Brooklyn junior high school.

But a parents boycott kept more than 90% of children in Brooklyn's Carnarsie Section home from school, and police patrolled the tense neighborhood to prevent racial clashes.

The quiet handful of white protesters at Junior High School 211 contrasted sharply with shouting demonstrations by as many as 1,500 on previous days.

Favorable Dividend Actions Peak

New York (AP) — Favorable dividend actions reached a five-year high of 223 last month, according to Standard & Poor's Corp.

It reported Wednesday that 114 companies increased their dividend rates, 99 declared extras, and 10 resumed payments in October. This was far greater than the 65 total for October 1971, but the comparison means little because the Phase 1 freeze was on last year, Standard & Poor's said.

Twelve companies cut or omitted dividends last month, compared with 14 in October 1971.

Federal Enforcement Of Pollution Laws Set

Omaha (AP) — The first federal regulation of air pollution in Nebraska is only a few weeks away, an Environmental Protection Agency officer said here.

Federal enforcement will start in six villages in Lancaster County and throughout Jefferson, Gage and Thayer Counties, Gene Robinson said.

The Federal Clean Air Act of 1970 gives the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) the power to curb pollution if a state fails to, and EPA is doing that in this case, Robinson said.

Using data gathered from air pollution samplers and information on the number and types of potential pollution sources, EPA created an "air quality region" including Lancaster, Gage, Jefferson and Thayer Counties.

In the region, if a local or state agency doesn't adopt and enforce pollution control regulations, the EPA will, the only local agency within those counties in the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Dept.

Most villages in Lancaster County have agreed to let the health department curb air pollution, but the villages of Bennet, Panama, Hickman, Sprague, Raymond and Malcolm haven't, so EPA will move in, Robinson said.

Sampling done regularly in Beatrice for a year shows the air contains a geometric mean of 73.4 micrograms per cubic meter of particulate pollution.

This is 13.4 over the federal allowable maximum of 60, Robinson said. Particulates are particles in the air, such as fly ash and dust.

Sampling at Fairbury hasn't gone on for a year, but so far it ranges from 27.9 to 116.5, he said.

The State Environmental Control Dept. wants to curb air pollution statewide, but an attorney general's opinion has limited efforts to Douglas and Sarpy Counties, the state's dirtiest.

Robinson, an EPA air pollution officer who works in the State Environmental Control Dept. offices in Lincoln, said the federal regulations are being prepared now, will become efefctive this month, and enforcement will start around Christmas.

Reagan Asks For Delay In Vote Projections

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) —Gov. Ronald Reagan asked the radio and television networks Wednesday to refrain from broadcasting national election projections next week until the polls close in the West.

He said national predictions, broadcast before Western polls close, tend to reduce voter turnout. California polls close at 8 p.m. PST, which is 11 p.m. on the East Coast. West Coast voters in the past have heard broadcast predictions based on early returns from the East Coast hours before their own polls close.

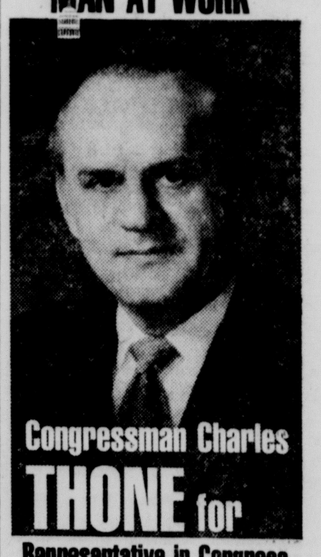

Such projections have caused some western ctizens who have not yet voted to stay away from the polls, Reagan contended.

"We need more voters, not fewer voters," he said in telegrams to leading media executives.

U.S. Loses Ground

Washington — U.S.-British trade in 1971 was about equal each nation importing about $2.5 billion worth of goods from the other. In contrast, 1970 U.S. exports to Britain of $2.8 billion exceeded imports by $558 million.

Stocks Up With Peace Optimism

New York (AP)— Prices surged forward in the stock market Wednesday for the second day in a row, stimulted by the investment community's growing optimism over the Vietnam peace negotiations. The trading volume was heavy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 968.54, up 13.02 on top of Tuesday's gain of 9.10 points. It was at the best closing level since hitting 969.37 on Sept. 5.

Block trading was active, indicating the participation of institutional investors. It also helped boost the volume to 21.36 million shares, compared with 15.46 million Tuesday. The turnover was the best since April 12, when 24.67 million shares were bought and sold.

Blue chips, glamours, and cyclicals took part in the forward movement, and gaining issues overwhelmed the losers, 1,048 to 431. There were 97 new highs for the year and 36 new lows.

"The Vietnam peace negotiations are the key," said John Smith of Fahnestock & Co. "The market also is taking into account a big Nixon victory in the election.

"The other factors have been there all along — good earnings reports and good economic reports," he said. "And now the favorable factors are being recognized."

Charles M. Lewis of Treves & Co. said, "The story is that Nixon is going to win, peace in Vietnam will be signed any minute, and business is picking up."

Lone Star Industries was the Big Board's most-active issue, off ½ to 23, with most of the trading done in a block of 318,000 shares at 22½.

Digital Equipment also was active, up 3 to 83¼, recovering part of its drop of 5¼ points Tuesday, when the company said it was having supply problems. Wednesday it said it was setting a goal for fiscal 1973 of a boost of 25 to 30 per cent in sales.

On the American Stock Exchange, Teleprompter was the most-active issue, up 3 to 33½. Also active were Ponderosa Systems, up 3⅜ to 59, and Guardian Mortgage warrants, ahead ⅛ to 9⅝.

The Amex's price change index rose .10 to 26.03.

Soybean Prices Higher At Close

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures prices rebounded in several waves of buying and short-covering on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday and closed higher by 4½ cents a bushel.

Soybean meal gained $2 a ton and soybean oil advanced some 20 points. Oats and corn prices were 1 to 1¼ cents a bushel higher but wheat fell back 2 cents.

Corn and oats buying on the opening was largely weather oriented, and it waned later in the session when local professionals took profits.

Wheat buying, buoyed by commercial support early in the session, fell back after the midway point and prices then moved progressively lower with little buyer incentive.

One factor in the selling of deferred options was a trade report that the 1973 winter wheat crop had gotten off to a good start.

At the close, soybeans were 2¼ to 4¼ cents a bushel higher, November $3.59; wheat was unchanged to 2 cents lower, December 2.18¾; corn was ¼ to 1¼ cents higher, December 1.38; and oats were ¼ lower to 1 cent higher, December 88¾ cents.

Stocks Up With Peace Optimism

New York (AP)— Prices surged forward in the stock market Wednesday for the second day in a row, stimulted by the investment community's growing optimism over the Vietnam peace negotiations. The trading volume was heavy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 968.54, up 13.02 on top of Tuesday's gain of 9.10 points. It was at the best closing level since hitting 969.37 on Sept. 5.

Block trading was active, indicating the participation of institutional investors. It also helped boost the volume to 21.36 million shares, compared with 15.46 million Tuesday. The turnover was the best since April 12, when 24.67 million shares were bought and sold.

Blue chips, glamours, and cyclicals took part in the forward movement, and gaining issues overwhelmed the losers, 1,048 to 431. There were 97 new highs for the year and 36 new lows.

"The Vietnam peace negotiations are the key," said John Smith of Fahnestock & Co. "The market also is taking into account a big Nixon victory in the election.

"The other factors have been there all along — good earnings reports and good economic reports," he said. "And now the favorable factors are being recognized."

Charles M. Lewis of Treves & Co. said, "The story is that Nixon is going to win, peace in Vietnam will be signed any minute, and business is picking up."

Lone Star Industries was the Big Board's most-active issue, off ½ to 23, with most of the trading done in a block of 318,000 shares at 22½.

Digital Equipment also was active, up 3 to 83¼, recovering part of its drop of 5¼ points Tuesday, when the company said it was having supply problems. Wednesday it said it was setting a goal for fiscal 1973 of a boost of 25 to 30 per cent in sales.

On the American Stock Exchange, Teleprompter was the most-active issue, up 3 to 33½. Also active were Pondercsa Systems, up 3⅜ to 59, and Guardian Mortgage warrants, ahead ⅜ to 9⅜.

The Amex's price exchange index rose .10 to 26.03.

Soybean Prices Higher At Close

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures prices rebounded in several waves of buying and short-covering on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday and closed higher by 4½ cents a bushel.

Soybean meal gained $2 a ton and soybean oil advanced some 20 points. Oats and corn prices were 1 to 1¼ cents a bushel higher but wheat fell back 2 cents.

Corn and oats buying on the opening was largely weather oriented, and it waned later in the session when local professionals took profits.

Wheat buying, buoyed by commercial support early in the session, fell back after the midway point and prices then moved progressively lower with little buyer incentive.

One factor in the selling of deferred options was a trade report that the 1973 winter wheat crop had gotten off to a good start.

At the close, soybeans were 2¾ to 4½ cents a bushel higher, November 3.59; wheat was unchanged to 2 cents lower, December 2.18¾; corn was ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher, December 1.38; and oats were ¾ lower to 1 cent higher, December 88⅜ cents.

LEGAL NOTICE OF MEASURES TO BE VOTED UPON NOVEMBER 7, 1972. BALLOT TITLES AND TEXTS OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS PROPOSED BY THE EIGHTY-SECOND LEGISLATURE, FIRST SESSION, 1971, AND SECOND SESSION, 1972.

Also Included Are Statements Of Explanation In Italics Prepared By The Executive Board Of The Legislative Council.

PROPOSED BY THE 1971 AND 1972 LEGISLATURES

Proposed Amendment No. 1

A vote FOR this proposal will require that a person elected or appointed to the Legislature must be a registered voter and twenty-one years of age on the date of the general election at which he is elected or on the date of his appointment; in addition, it will make corrections in terminology in the provisions concerning the impeachment of public officers necessitated by the change from a two-house legislature to the unicameral legislature.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will have the effect of establishing the age of eighteen as the age at which persons would be eligible for election or appointment as members of the Legislature; and it would retain the present outdated terminology in the impeachment section referring to a two-house legislature.

"Constitutional amendment providing for the qualifications of members of the Legislature and correcting provisions of the Constitution.

☐ For ☐ Against"

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. That at the general election in November, 1972, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article III, sections 8, 17, and 27, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

And no person elected as aforesaid shall hold his office after he shall have removed from such district.

Sec. 17. The Legislature shall have the sole power of impeachment, but a majority of the members elected must concur therein. Upon the adoption of a resolution of impeachment a notice of an impeachment of any officer, other than a Judge of the Supreme Court, shall be forthwith served upon the Chief Justice, by the Clerk of the Legislature, who shall thereupon call a session of Supreme Court to meet at the Capitol within ten days after such notice to try the impeachment. A notice of an impeachment of the Chief Justice or any Judge of the Supreme Court shall be served by the Clerk of the Legislature, upon any Judge of the judicial district within which the Capitol is located, and he thereupon shall notify all the Judges of the District Court in the State to meet with him within thirty days at the Capitol, to sit as a Court to try such impeachment, which Court shall organize by electing one of its number to preside No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of the Court of impeachment, but judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, profit, or trust, in this State, but the party impeached, whether convicted or acquitted shall nevertheless be liable to prosecution and punishment according to law. No officer shall exercise his official duties after he shall have been impeached and notified thereof, until he shall have been acquitted.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until three calendar months after the adjournment of the session at which it passed, unless in case of emergency, to be expressed in the preamble or body of the act, the Legislature shall, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected otherwise direct. All laws shall be published in book form within sixty days after the adjournment of each session and distributed among the several counties in such manner as the Legislature may provide."

Indians Use Modern Ways To Get Return To Past Values

Denver, Colo (AP) — A group of American Indians is using modern methods in an effort to bring a return to the traditional values of the past

Described by one leader as "the shock troops of American Indian sovereignty and the new warrior class of the century," the members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) are trying to build Indian pride by stressing traditional religion and culture."

"In the past, many Indian ways became Anglo-oriented," said Vernon Bellecourt, AIM national codirector and head of the Denver chapter "We teach a return to Indian religion and culture We want to show that Indians will stand up and fight for their constitutional rights and their right to sovereignty"

Among current AIM projects is a planned election week march on Washington, D C. that Bellecourt predicts will draw thousands of Indians and their supporters to gather at federal buildings

Past AIM projects have caused some to put a militant tag on the organization AIM members disrupted an Indian festival in Flagstaff Ariz this summer, claiming the dances performed there were degrading to Indian religion

Protest Staged

They also took over a Naval Air Guard station in Minneapolis to press claims for federal land, Bellecourt said and staged protests at Gordon, Neb., over the death of Raymond Yellow Thunder

The Indians claimed Yellow Thunder, an Oglala Sioux, had been tortured to death Two Gordon men have been convicted of manslaughter and false imprisonment in connection with the death, a third pleaded guilty to false imprisonment Two other persons await trial in the case

Bellecourt, a 40-year-old Chippewa, wears his hair braided Indian style His Denver office is decorated with pictures of Indian warriors, war lances and Indian savings.

But the other, business-like side of AIM is reflected in the office's file cabinets, air conditioner and jangling red telephone

AIM was formed in 1968, but only recently has received the national attention it seeks, Bellecourt said

'A new attitude has been spreading across the country among our people" he said 'It is an awakening a building of pride and a return to the old ways of the Indian people"

30 Chapters

George Mitchell a 38 year-old Chippewa is the AIM codirector who heads the Washington office He said in a telephone interview that the organization now has more than 30 chapters, mostly in Midwestern and Western states

No membership figures are kept, but Bellecourt said there are "hundreds of workers across the country"

Mitchell said AIM "wants to get for our people what all people want — a good life good health good living conditions and treatment with respect We want self determination as a group"

He said AIM had gained a reputation for activism and militancy "When people want something done, they call us, even though there are older more sophisticated groups devoted to Indians' Mitchell said

Bellecourt said an AIM goal is to have Indians in the United States declared a 'sovereign nation" and gain a seat in the United Nations

'Land Stolen'

In that way Bellecourt said Indians could negotiate with the federal government for 'land stolen by the United States using deceit'

Such talk has not pleased some of the more traditional-minded Indian leaders

I have disagreed with them on a lot of things" said Reuben Rock of Ponsford Minn chairman of the White Earth Indian Reservation business committee

Rock said, "They get tough and then they pull out and the local people have to take the consequences"

Clarence Hamilton Hopi tribal chairman said AIM has caused dissension among tribes mostly about tactics

'I don't think this is any good at all it just drives a wedge between groups of Indians" Hamilton said

Peter MacDonald Navajo tribal chairman said in Albuquerque NM, that AIM is 'mostly an urban-oriented organization They would like to highlight attention to some of the more severe discrimination in cities

MacDonald added that AIM actions are "usually more of a militant nature"

Al LaFontaine, chief of the Grand Council of Confederated Nations with headquarters in St Paul Minn, said AIM's 'blood and guts methods" were worthwhile

But he said, "People will soon become disillusioned with AIM because they aren't accomplishing enough just making noise

Trucker Donates $50,000

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — President Nixon has received a $50,000 campaign donation from a trucking company owner with a merger pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission

A former Nixon fund-raiser is one of the three ICC members handling the merger case

John Ruan, president of Ruan Transport Corp. in Des Moines, Iowa, made the contribution through nine Nixon financial committees in mid-September.

An ICC hearing examiner rejected Ruan's bid to acquire the Midwestern tanker trucking line of Eldon Miller, Inc, but the case is pending before a three-member ICC panel including Nixon appointee W Donald Brewer

Brewer was part of the hierarchy of the 1968 presidential campaign as a top fund-raising aide to Nixon finance chairman Maurice H Stans and Los Angeles lawyer Herbert W Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney who has been linked recently to undercover contributions and a secret slush fund

Ruan and his wife, Elizabeth, who is listed as secretary of the trucking firm, each gave $3,000 to four national Nixon groups, including the Finance Committee To Re-elect the President.

Each of them also made $3 000 donations to four state branches in California Iowa, New York and Pennsylvania, and Ruan added $2 000 to the Texas committee for the $50 000 total

Ruan Transport Corp is one of the nation's larger trucking firms with a fleet of roughly 1 000 semi-trailers and authorized routes in 4 states

Earlier this year an ICC hearing examiner Harold J Sarbacher, ruled that Ruan's firm was violating the interstate commerce act in its attempt to take over the Miller line

Ruan now holds 45% of the stock in Miller and has an ICC application pending to acquire the full 100%.

Sarbacher said Ruan, through his position as chairman and major owner of a Des Moines bank had affected the Miller firm's access to loans Sarbacher ruled Ruan had established 'unlawful control" of the rival line he wants to acquire He rejected the application

The examiner's ruling is pending before a panel of Brewer ICC Chairman Kenneth Tuggle also a Nixon appointee and Willard Deason, a Democrat

An ICC spokesman said the final decision 'should come down soon" He quoted the agency's attorneys as saying 'It is in the final stages"

Immigration Service Due For Investigation

©The New York Times

Washington —A five-pronged federal investigation of the Naturalization Service, which also will weigh the overhaul of the immigrant preference system based on job skills and family status is planned to begin in early January

The Department of State, Justice and Labor, and the Senate Judiciary Committee, have accepted a bid to join the House Judiciary Committee's immigration subcommittee in an extensive study of the immigration law and its enforcement INS officials asked by these agencies for their opinion on whether such a study was necessary said that they welcomed the investigation

"It's long overdue," said Rep Peter W. Rodino, D-N J, chairman of the immigration subcommittee, who is expected to be elevated to chairmanship of the parent committee.

I feel strongly that there should be far more legislative oversight in this area" Rodino continued "There are certain aspects that badly need looking into'

These included a general assessment of the agency's efficiency and allegations of bad administration demoralization inadequate manpower and insufficient funding he said

The overhaul of the preference system, which now extends only to immigrants from the Eastern Hemisphere would require fundamental adjustments in designation of family status and job skills The system also is likely to be extended to the Western Hemisphere as requested by high INS officials

Under the preference system, applicants for admission under each national quota are admitted in the following order:

First —Unmarried children of US citizens Second — spouses and unmarried children of aliens who have been admitted to permanent residence in the United States, Third — members of the professions or persons of exceptional ability in the sciences and arts Fourth —Married children of US citizens Fifth —brothers and sisters of US citizens Sixth —Skilled and unskilled workers in short supply here and Seventh — refugees

The new investigation comes in the wake of three indictments of INS inspectors in the Southwest — two for narcotics traffic and one for gun smuggling — with indications that more indictments are being sought by Operation Clean Sweep" a probe of the INS being conducted by the US attorney in San Diego

INS officials say the scope of the indictments is unprecedented. "We've had men gone sour before," said James F Greene, associate commissioner for operations, "but it's usually been about one man every 10 years

Meanwhile Justice Department officials in Washington confirmed a broadening investigation of alleged abuses involving private immigration bills including alleged payoffs to lawyers and congressmen and the use of these bills to help gain permanent residence for persons close to organized crime

The funding of between one and two million illegal aliens in the United States was made last August by the immigration subcommittee on the basis of hearings conducted around the country

In Chicago Alva L Pilliod INS district director said the number of illegal aliens apprehended in Illinois Indiana and Wisconsin had increased 80% in the past 10 years In Detroit Thomas M Pederson INS district director said the number of illegal aliens had increased 67 4% over the previous year

Other findings included:

—Illegal aliens have had a substantial adverse impact on the nation's unemployment situation wages and hours of American workers and US balance of payments

—The illegal alien problem is nationwide in scope and therefore not limited to the border areas in the Southwest

—Due to the nature of their status, illegal aliens are often exploited by unscrupulous employers

Proposed Amendment No. 13

A vote FOR this proposal will allow the Legislature to enact legislation authorizing the adjustment of retirement benefits paid to retired public employees to reflect changes in cost of living and wage levels occurring since their retirement dates, and will allow local governments to review and adjust vested pension benefits of their retired employees periodically as provided by ordinance.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will prevent the state and local governments from adjusting retirement benefits of retired public employees because of conditions occurring after the dates of retirement.

"Constitutional amendment to authorize the Legislature to provide that retirement benefits of retired public officers and employees may be adjusted to reflect changes in the cost of living and wage levels that have occurred subsequent to the date of retirement and to permit local governing bodies to review and adjust vested pension benefits.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. That at the general election in November, 1972, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article III, section 19, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 19. The Legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent, or servant after the services have been rendered nor to any contractor after the contract has been entered into, except that retirement benefits of retired public officers and employees may be adjusted to reflect changes in the cost of living and wage levels that have occurred subsequent to the date of retirement, nor shall the compensation of any public officer, including any officer whose compensation is fixed by the Legislature, be increased or diminished during his term of office except that, when there are members elected or appointed to the Legislature or officers elected or appointed to a court, board, or commission having more than one member and the terms of one or more members commence and end at different times, the compensation of all members of the Legislature or of such court, board, or commission may be increased or diminished at the beginning of the full term of any member thereof. Nothing in this section shall prevent local governing bodies from reviewing and adjusting vested pension benefits periodically as prescribed by ordinance."

Proposed Amendment No. 14

A vote AGAINST this proposal will retain the State Tax Commissioner as a member of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, along with the Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, and State Treasurer, and will omit the adding of an additional member to be chosen as the Legislature would provide by law.

Indians Use Modern Ways To Get Return To Past Values

Denver, Colo. (AP) — A group of American Indians is using modern methods in an effort to bring a return to the traditional values of the past.

Described by one leader as "the shock troops of American Indian sovereignty and the new warrior class of the century," the members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) are trying to build Indian pride by stressing traditional religion and culture."

"In the past, many Indian ways became Anglo-oriented," said Vernon Bellecourt, AIM national codirector and head of the Denver chapter. "We teach a return to Indian religion and culture. We want to show that Indians will stand up and fight for their constitutional rights and their right to sovereignty."

Among current AIM projects is a planned election week march on Washington, D.C., that Bellecourt predicts will draw thousands of Indians and their supporters to gather at federal buildings.

Past AIM projects have caused some to put a militant tag on the organization. AIM members disrupted an Indian festival in Flagstaff, Ariz., this summer, claiming the dances performed there were degrading to Indian religion.

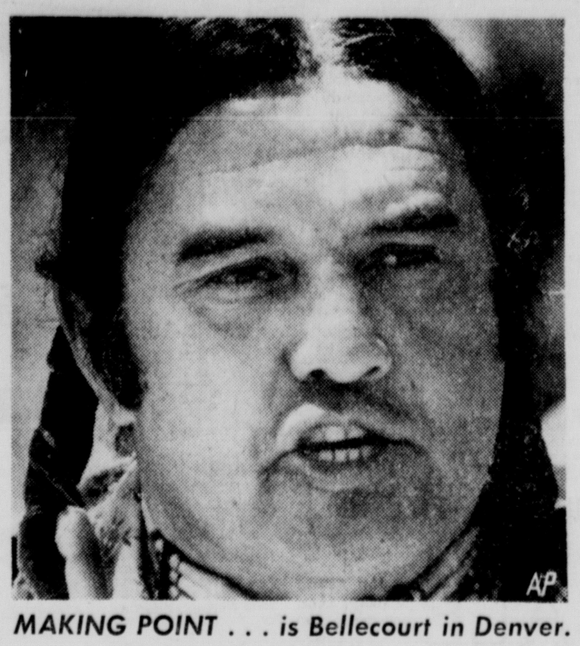

Protest Staged

They also took over a Naval Air Guard station in Minneapolis to press claims for federal land, Bellecourt said and staged protests at Gordon, Neb., over the death of Raymond Yellow Thunder

The Indians claimed Yellow Thunder, an Oglala Sioux, had been tortured to death. Two Gordon men have been convicted of manslaughter and false imprisonment in connection with the death; a third pleaded guilty to false imprisonment. Two other persons await trial in the case.

Bellecourt, a 40-year-old Chippewa, wears his hair braided Indian style. His Denver office is decorated with pictures of Indian warriors, war lances and Indian savings.

But the other, business-like side of AIM is reflected in the office's file cabinets, air conditioner and jangling red telephone.

MAKING POINT . . . is Bellecourt in Denver.

AIM was formed in 1968, but only recently has received the national attention it seeks, Bellecourt said.

"A new attitude has been spreading across the country among our people," he said. "It is an awakening, a building of pride and a return to the old ways of the Indian people."

30 Chapters

George Mitchell, a 38-year-old Chippewa, is the AIM codirector who heads the Washington office. He said in a telephone interview that the organization now has more than 30 chapters, mostly in Midwestern and Western states.

No membership figures are kept, but Bellecourt said there are "hundreds of workers across the country."

Mitchell said AIM "wants to get for our people what all people want — a good life, good health, good living conditions and treatment with respect. We want self determination as a group."

He said AIM had gained a reputation for activism and militancy. "When people want something done, they call us, even though there are older, more sophisticated groups devoted to Indians," Mitchell said.

Bellecourt said an AIM goal is to have Indians in the United States declared a "sovereign nation" and gain a seat in the United Nations.

'Land Stolen'

In that way, Bellecourt said, Indians could negotiate with the federal government for "land stolen by the United States using deceit."

Such talk has not pleased some of the more traditional-minded Indian leaders.

"I have disagreed with them on a lot of things," said Reuben Rock of Ponsford, Minn., chairman of the White Earth Indian Reservation business comfittee.

Rock said, "They get tough and then they pull out and the local people have to take the consequences."

Clarence Hamilton, Hopi tribal chairman, said AIM has caused dissension among tribes, mostly about tactics.

"I don't think this is any good at all, it just drives a wedge between groups of Indians," Hamilton said.

Peter MacDonald, Navajo tribal chairman, said in Albuquerque, N.M., that AIM is "mostly an urban-oriented organization. They would like to highlight attention to some of the more severe discrimination in cities.

MacDonald added that AIM actions are "usually more of a militant nature."

Al LaFontaine, chief of the Grand Council of Confederated Nations, with headquarters in St. Paul, Minn., said AIM's "blood and guts methods" were worthwhile.

But he said, "People will soon become disillusioned with AIM because they aren't accomplishing enough . . . just making noise."

Trucker Donates $50,000

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — President Nixon has received a $50,000 campaign donation from a trucking company owner with a merger pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A former Nixon fund-raiser is one of the three ICC members handling the merger case.

John Ruan, president of Ruan Transport Corp. in Des Moines, Iowa, made the contribution through nine Nixon financial committees in mid-September.

An ICC hearing examiner rejected Ruan's bid to acquire the Midwestern tanker trucking line of Eldon Miller, Inc., but the case is pending before a three-member ICC panel including Nixon appointee W. Donald Brewer.

Brewer was part of the hierarchy of the 1968 presidential campaign as a top fund-raising aide to Nixon finance chairman Maurice H. Stans and Los Angeles lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney who has been linked recently to undercover contributions and a secret slush fund.

Ruan and his wife, Elizabeth, who is listed as secretary of the trucking firm, each gave $3,000 to four national Nixon groups, including the Finance Committee To Re-elect the President.

Each of them also made $3,000 donations to four state branches in California, Iowa, New York and Pennsylvania, and Ruan added $2,000 to the Texas committee for the $50,000 total.

Ruan Transport Corp. is one of the nation's larger trucking firms with a fleet of roughly 1,000 semi-trailers and authorized routes in 4 states.

Earlier this year, an ICC hearing examiner, Harold J. Sarbacher, ruled that Ruan's firm was violating the interstate commerce act in its attempt to take over the Miller line.

Ruan now holds 45% of the stock in Miller and has an ICC application pending to acquire the full 100%.

Sarbacher said Ruan, through his position as chairman and major owner of a Des Moines bank, had affected the Miller firm's access to loans. Sarbacher ruled Ruan had established "unlawful control" of the rival line he wants to acquire. He rejected the application.

The examiner's ruling is pending before a panel of Brewer, ICC Chairman Kenneth Tuggle, also a Nixon appointee, and Willard Deason, a Democrat.

An ICC spokesman said the final decision "should come down soon." He quoted the agency's attorneys as saying, "It is in the final stages."

Immigration Service Due For Investigation

©The New York Times

Washington —A five-pronged federal investigation of the Naturalization Service, which also will weigh the overhaul of the immigrant preference system based on job skills and family status, is planned to begin in early January.

The Department of State, Justice and Labor, and the Senate Judiciary Committee, have accepted a bid to join the House Judiciary Committee's immigration subcommittee in an extensive study of the immigration law and its enforcement. INS officials, asked by these agencies for their opinion on whether such a study was necessary, said that they welcomed the investigation.

"It's long overdue," said Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the immigration subcommittee, who is expected to be elevated to chairmanship of the parent committee.

"I feel strongly that there should be far more legislative oversight in this area," Rodino continued. "There are certain aspects that badly need looking into."

These included a general assessment of the agency's efficiency, and allegations of bad administration, demoralization, inadequate manpower and insufficient funding, he said.

The overhaul of the preference system, which now extends only to immigrants from the Eastern Hemisphere, would require fundamental adjustments in designation of family status and job skills. The system also is likely to be extended to the Western Hemisphere, as requested by high INS officials

Under the preference system, applicants for admission under each national quota are admitted in the following order:

First —Unmarried children of U.S. citizens; Second — spouses and unmarried children of aliens who have been admitted to permanent residence in the United States; Third — members of the professions or persons of exceptional ability in the sciences and arts; Fourth —Married children of U.S. citizens; Fifth —brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens; Sixth —Skilled and unskilled workers in short supply here; and Seventh — refugees.

The new investigation comes in the wake of three indictments of INS inspectors in the Southwest — two for narcotics traffic and one for gun smuggling — with indications that more indictments are being sought by "Operation Clean Sweep," a probe of the INS being conducted by the U.S. attorney in San Diego.

INS officials say the scope of the indictments is unprecedented. "We've had men gone sour before," said James F. Greene, associate commissioner for operations, "but it's usually been about one man every 10 years.

Meanwhile, Justice Department officials in Washington confirmed a broadening investigation of alleged abuses involving private immigration bills, including alleged payoffs to lawyers and congressmen and the use of these bills to help gain permanent residence for persons close to organized crime.

The funding of between one and two million illegal aliens in the United States was made last August by the immigration subcommittee on the basis of hearings conducted around the country.

In Chicago, Alva L. Pilliod, INS district director, said the number of illegal aliens apprehended in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin had increased 80% in the past 10 years. In Detroit, Thomas M. Pederson, INS district director, said the number of illegal aliens had increased 67.4% over the previous year.

Other findings included:

—Illegal aliens have had a substantial adverse impact on the nation's unemployment situation, wages and hours of American workers and U.S. balance of payments.

—The illegal alien problem is nationwide in scope and therefore not limited to the border areas in the Southwest.

—Due to the nature of their status, illegal aliens are often exploited by unscrupulous employers.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
